Hughes Calls Crime "Great Issue"

TELLS LAWYERS U. S. NEED FOR ENFORCEMENT

Upholds Rights of States in Address.

Improvement in the administration of criminal justice is the greatest need in this country today, Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes of the United State Supreme court declared last night in a formal address to the foreign guests of the American Bar association, in annual session here.

Before an audience which packed the Civic Opera house, Chief Justice Hughes addressed himself to a distinguished group of British, French, Scotch, Irish, and Canadian jurists, king's counsellors, and solicitors. He interpreted America's government and institutions for them and greeted them as collaborators "in the greatest of human causes, the cause of a just peace."

Message from George V. Read.

In answer, his European and Canadian listeners each extended the greetings of his country and expressed hope for amity between nations as it may be brought about through the interpretation and agencies of the law. Viscount Dunedin, lord of appeals in England, read a message from King George V. which sought a continuation of good feeling between England and the "great English-speaking country" to which the message was addressed.

To climax his explanation of the nature of the laws of the country, Chief Justice Hughes came to this theme:

"We do not blink at the fact that the greatest need in this country today is improvement in the administration of justice, especially of the criminal law. More important than uniform laws, or mere changes in procedural details, more necessary than any statement of the law, is the fostering of respect for law itself, and the maintenance of the primary safeguards of life and property against organized criminal assaults, against the debauching of our institutions by the capitalization of crime.

Demands Purity in Office.

"Most essential is the robust sentiment which, regardless of the differences of political parties and policies, demands purity and competence in official action, without which all democratic efforts are futile. Some of our difficulties strike so deep in our social organization and methods that even a united bar could not solve them. But, as lawyers, we cannot escape special responsibility so far as the administration of justice in our courts in concerned. A quickened bar, alert to its power and responsibility, can secure honest, able and fearless prosecuting officers, magistrates and judges.

"Our government is one of laws through men, and most of our problems in the administration of the criminal law could be solved by the selection of competent men, free from the corrupting influences of fear and favor.

High Repute Is Reward.

"Contrary to the erroneous opinion, which I regret to say is widely held, the profession of the law favors the breeding of such men, because its greatest reward is high professional repute, without which pecuniary success is but a mockery, is reserved for those who in the opinion of their intimates, their clients and professional brethern have demonstrated not only technical ability but independence of character, scrupulous loyalty to the law and an unwavering fidelity to trust."

At another point in his interpretation, the chief justice described as "wholesome" the severe criticism leveled at some decisions of the United States Supreme court.

"The rights of individuals are conferred in the distribution of powers," he said, "and as controversies arise they must be determined in accordance with law, that is, the fundamental law. And thus we have the classic explanation of the scope of the judicial power reposed in a supreme tribunal.

Seeks to Keep Faith.

"With the fallibility of men, but with judicial temper and sincere conviction, this tribunal has sought to keep the faith and to develop a constitutional jurisprudence reasonably harmonious and systematic. Naturally, when legislative arrangements become the subject of judicial examination, when statutes of state and na-

The New York Giants took the first game of the series from the Cubs yesterday, 13 to 6, and now are only two games behind the league leading Chicagoans. Errors in the first inning paved the way for six New York runs, and the Cubs never were able to overcome this disadvantage. Thirty-six thousand saw the game. Score:

RADICALS WON OVER BY POLICE AND BALL BATS

Acting Chief of Police Rocco Passarella of Melrose Park and ten patrolmen, each with a baseball bat resting on his right shoulder, last night filed into Wiachunis hall, 1500 Lake street, Melrose Park, where 50 members of the Maywood unit of the National Communist party were meeting. Waldemar Rogers, 48 years old, 410 South 9th avenue, Maywood, was speaking. Passarella mounted the platform and announced:

"The place is pinched. If anybody resists we will start swinging these bats.

Nobody resisted, and Passarella and his bat squad marched the 50 communists, three abreast, to the station, three blocks away, where they were charged with disorderly conduct.

Liquor Plank Splits G. O. P. In Pre-Convention Session

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 22 (Friday).—With all the big Republican leaders of the state incommunicado in the executive mansion here long after midnight, the theory of a preconvention deadlock over the prohibition issue was accepted generally in the early hours this morning.

Early yesterday, following a conference prior to the automobile parade to the state fair grounds, it became known that there was a more or less general uprising of county and district leaders against what they believed the Emmerson policy of dictating the platform for today's convention. A morning and a late afternoon session yesterday were said to have been devoted to other subjects but the long debate that started last night and was still in progress early today has been ascribed to the argument on how wet the party platform should be.

The barriers of secrecy thrown about the talkfest in the residence of Gov. Emmerson were thorough and complete. There were no visitors and none of the participants had left the pow-wow room as midnight merged into morning.

Emmerson Fights Alone.

At this stage of the proceedings it was understood that with few exceptions the conferees had declared in favor of following the unqualified platform of the Democrats for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment while Gov. Emmerson was thought to be fighting almost singlehanded against placing the state of Illinois in the list of the wet states of the nation.

So far as could be ascertained, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, nominee for United States senator, was standing on the sidelines during this battle.

Emmerson vs. Snow.

Reports were that Gov. Emmerson almost immediately locked horns with B. W. Snow, chairman of the Cook county organization, who was receiving support from several downstate leaders to the extent that possibly half a dozen downstate districts were selecting members of the platform committee that would go along with Chicago on the major issues.

From one source it was learned the threatened deadlock developed long before the conferences approached the big issue of the convention—the declaration concerning prohibition. It arose when Gov. Emmerson sought to put into the platform a recommendation for a favorable vote on the revenue amendment to the state constitution—the amendment commonly referred to as the income tax amendment, since it provides specifically for that form of levy, which is believed barred by the present basic law.

Everything Rosy on Surface.

The day at the fair—said to be the greatest in the history of the state—was declared a huge success. Records fell on the track. The attendance went over the 100,000 mark. Every one of any importance in Republican politics was reported present, with the solitary exceptions of Senator Charles S. Deneen and the late Gov. Len Small.

On the surface everything was merry. Mrs. McCormick, chatted gayly with Senator Otis F. Glenn. The nominees for congressman-at-large, Frank L. Smith and Richard Yates, were busy shaking hands. Congressmen, state senators, and members of the legislature chatted with apparent unconcern about the weather and similar topics.

3 ARE KILLED, 9 INJURED BY TUNNEL BLAST

New York, Aug. 22.—[Special.]—Three workmen were killed and nine others seriously injured early today in a dynamite explosion in the bedrock of a tunnel 700 feet below the surface of the ground. The explosion took place in the Bronx. Two of the injured were not expected to live. The cause of the explosion was not determined at first.

It was reported, however, that one of the workmen had accidentally thrust his drill into a hole that had been charged with dynamite.

NEGRO CHORUS REHEARSES AND AUTOISTS STOP

Festival Group Gives Superb Concert.

Hundreds of soloists, the vanguard of the 5,000 who will take part in the gigantic music fest of Chicagoland, to be held on Soldiers' field tomorrow night, will arrive in Chicago today. Tonight they will compete in the finals of the musical contest. Hundreds of bandsmen will arrive tomorrow morning.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

For a block or two around South Park way and 41st street the autoists streaming north and south on the park way halted at 9 o'clock last evening as though they suddenly had encountered the harmonious thunders of the most perfect pipe organ that ever was built.

The sound was overwhelming, and it was awe inspiring.

Hear Clear, High Voice.

Minute after minute the autoists silently listened.

Thus they floated out into the still night air:

I looked over Jordan,
And what did I see?
A band of angels
A-comin' for me!

An instant of heart-searching stillness.

Then a crash of melody.

They caught up notes of wild exultation and flung them forth in a mighty shout. Then the nuances, subtle and swift, and exultation shaded into yearning and hope—"Swing low, sweet chariot, a-comin' for to carry me home."

Motorists Wait for More.

The old spiritual seemed to dream its way to its close—"a-comin' for to carry me home."

The autoists waited for more; there was a little patter of applause; somebody in a car near the church on the corner said, "Hush!"

Softly the autos glided away.

The thousand colored men and women rehearsing for the Chicagoland Music Festival of tomorrow night had laid a spell at once eerie and happy upon a heedless throng that was going nowhere in particular and thought it was in a hurry to get somewhere.

Rehearsal Is Resumed.

But heedlessness and hurry somehow evaporated before the glow and glory of this singing.

And so the autoists glided away.

In a few minutes the rehearsal was resumed.

I went inside the church—the Metropolitan Community center of the People's church at 4100 South Park way.

Every seat was occupied by nicely dressed colored men and women, old and young—some of them important people in the race's community life, some of them housekeepers and house servants in Chicago homes and hotels.

But for this occasion one and all were singers and intent upon nothing but the beautiful and exact rendition of beautiful music.

That is how they sang—as though,

Loop Parade Hails Classic of Air Today

BY ROBERT WOOD.

A hundred fighting ships of the army, navy, and marine corps, flying here from every point of the compass will roar over the loop at noon today while below them Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and a band of famous flyers ride down Michigan avenue and through the loop in a giant inaugural parade heralding the opening of the 1930 national air races at Curtiss field tomorrow.

The vanguard of the war birds arrived last evening while the rest were camped overnight within striking distance of Chicago, waiting to descend upon the city this morning. Fighting squadron eight, the marines from Quantico swooped down on Curtiss field yesterday and made ready for the demonstration today. Earlier in the afternoon a detachment from the First Pursuit squadron dropped in to look over the ground and flew back to their base at Selfridge Field, Mich., where the entire squadron will leave today.

Heavy Bombers on Way.

The "Red Rippers," Fighting Squadron Five from the decks of the aircraft carrier Lexington, were quartered at Moline last night and the squadron of heavy bombers from Langley field were on their way here.

All through the day reception committees were kept on the run from railroad stations to airports to greet the celebrities arriving for the races. In the morning the famous international flying team rounded up in Europe by Al Williams stepped from the Twentieth Century while hundreds of their nationals and a crowd of Chicago greeters cheered and fought to shake the hands of the foreign flyers.

But Williams, the leader, and host of the stunting troop, was missing. Word from New York said that he was flying here but last night as his contemporaries were completing the job of reassembling their ships, Williams had not landed at the race field. It was learned that the former navy ace was held in New York by a controversy with manufacturers over the racing plane he is to fly here.

National Groups Cheer Flyers.

Capt. Fritz Loose, the German representative on the international team, was greeted by officials of the German consulate here and a group of choral singers. Other national groups cheered the flying aces of their mother countries: Marcel Doret, French stunt pilot; Flight Lieutenant R. L. R. Atcherley, British Schneider cup flyer; Lieut. Rupert Preston, assigned to the British royal family, and Marshal Pietro Colombo of the crack Italian first pursuit squadron.

Many other notables arrived during the afternoon. Rear Admiral William A. Moffett flew in with the Flying Devil Dogs from Washington.

Charles "Casey" Jones, prominent as a racing pilot in the pre-Lindbergh days, flew into Curtiss field with the plane he is entering in seven events during the races. Senator Hiram Bingham, president of the National Aeronautic association, was anoth r arrival.

Byrd Due This Morning.

Admiral Byrd is expected some time this morning to take part in the parade, but his time of arrival was not learned by race officials. With him will ride Senator Bingham, Doolittle, Williams, and the foreign flyers, Capt. E. V. "Eddie" Rickenbacker, world war ace; Capt. Frank Hawks, Washington officials, and commanders of the service groups here for the races, and officials of the race meet headed by Earle H. Reynolds, president of the Chicago Air Race corporation.

An admiral's salute will be fired in Grant park as the parade starts from Monroe street, moving down Michigan avenue to Jackson boulevard, Jackson to La Salle street, and La Salle to Wacker drive. The procession will pause before a reviewing stand erected at the La Salle street entrance to the city hall.

MORE OFFICIALS ARE LISTED IN CHECK DEALS

Gangster's Records Opened to Public.

All documents in the principal secret safe deposit box of the murdered Jack Zuta, vice lord and gang leader, were opened to public inspection yesterday by Assistant State's Attorneys Charles F. Rathbun and James E. McShane, and Pat Rocha, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson.

There was exposed a voluminous record of financial dealings of the gang leader, from which new names emerged—names of politicians, lawyers, public officials, and others—who received money from Zuta or were otherwise involved in the disclosures made by the slain gangster's records.

Officials' Names Found.

Included among those revealed to have received checks from Zuta were Nate De Lue, assistant business manager for the Chicago Board of Education; Attorney Simon Herr, law partner of former Judge Emanuel Eller, (whose signature was found on one of Zuta's checks for $250), and Paul W. Rothenberg, Republican ward committeeman and former chief deputy coroner of Cook county.

Many other checks of Zuta appeared—some of which were issued to persons with names not immediately recognized by the prosecutors—and these payments by Zuta are under investigation.

Find Record of Police Case.

One significant exhibit was an official statement taken by the Chicago police department from a young woman who confessed that she had sought to lure Zuta into the hands of "Mops" Volpe and Joe Genaro, Chicago gangsters who, she said, planned to kidnap Zuta for $50,000 ransom.

Not long after Zuta obtained the girl's statement Volpe and Genaro were shot by men unknown to the police.

The young woman, who gave her name as Helen Delmar, and her residence as New York, said she had come, from the eastern city to Chicago with the two gangsters, and that the plot was for her to curry the favor of Zuta, and then to lead him to a place where the two kidnapers would seize him.

How the statement came into the hands of Zuta was a mystery, but it was supposed by the investigators that a friendly policeman had obtained it for him, and that Zuta had saved it, planning revenge.

Pictures of Alderman.

A number of letters and postal cards were found in Zuta's precious collection, and among these was a post card on which was written, "From the Maypoles, Hot Springs, Ark." The card was of the typo takes at pleasure resorts and portrayed Ald. George Maypole and members of his family. Another similar card, also showing Ald. Maypole and his family at Hot Springs, carried the salutation: "Greetings from the Maypoles." There were also pictures of Diamond Joe Esposito and of Barney Bertsche, north side gang figure.

A series of letters in the box were from Louis La Cava, a gangster evidently exiled from Chicago by order of some gang leader, who was begging Zuta to restore him to good standing.

Although the Zuta records do not show that the gangster took any action in behalf of La Cava, the police department records reveal that La Cava did return to Chicago, was arrested, and discharged when arraigned before Municipal Judge Joseph Schulman on June 5, 1926.

See Move to Sway Governor.

There were also made public from Zuta's records telegrams and a letter indicating that an effort was made to influence Gov. Doyle E. Carlton of Florida and other officials of that state in a matter the nature of which was not made clear.

The investigators pointed out that the appointment of a county solicitor was mentioned, and the name of a judge who would sit in the Criminal court of Dade county, in which Miami is situated, and suggested that it was possible that a member of the Zuta gang had become involved in some crime in Florida, and that pressure was being exerted on his behalf. Another theory was that the Zuta gang sought to open another dog race track in Florida and that efforts to obtain the approval of the Florida officials were being made.

The correspondence was addressed to Frank Gross, 22 West 5th avenue, Gary, Ind., and some of it was signed "Ben." The letter was written on stationery of the New York office of the International News service, but apparently was sent from Orlando, Fla.

Men's Clothing Prices Are Lowest Since the War

Selling suits to men at the height of the season is no trick. Any good clothier knows that his customers will flock to his store for their outfits at the start of Fall and Spring. Getting patrons then is less concern than getting clerks to take care of them. But selling suits in August and February is something else. The merchant knows he must offer something unusual then. There you have the reason for the bargains the stores are currently offering.

Of course, clothing prices have been declining and the regular prices on the current stock have been the lowest since the War. But these have now been cut still further to get business during the Summer. You can save money by buying now the suit you expected to purchase next month. It's a great time to buy clothing.

J. L. Laube, mentioned in the correspondence, said in Orlando last night that his father was Ben Laube of Gary. Laube said he knew nothing about the letter, but that his father and Gross came to Florida last year on a real estate deal. He said his father was attorney for Gross.

Gov. Carlton, interviewed at Tallahassee by the Associated Press, expressed surprise at the evidence, and said he knew "absolutely nothing" about the attempt to interview him mentioned in the correspondence. Attorney General Fred H. Davis, G. E. McCaskill, Dade county solicitor, and Circuit Judge Uly O. Thompson, also mentioned in the correspondence, could not be found last night.

Gambling Houses Listed.

Lists of gambling houses and of the locations of the gang's slot machines strung about the county were found, with the lists separated in districts allotted to various collectors for the gang.

Many records detailing the operations of the Fairview Kennel club, the dog race track owned by the gang, were found, some of them indicating that the track was run at a loss.

Included in the papers found in the box was a sheet on which had been typewritten, under the heading "Districts," a list of eight Republican leaders who in 1926 were members of the Republican county central committee from the eight country districts. There was no other notation on the sheet, which bore the names of the committeemen, with the numbers of their districts, as follows:

1. Gene Oliver.
2. William H. Weber.
3. Peter M. Hoffman.
4. Joseph Z. Klenha.
5. William Busse.
6. Wm. V. Brothers.
7. George A. Miller.
8. Frederick B. Koos.

The sheet gave the office addresses of these eight men. Prosecutor Rathbun and Investigator Roche, interviewed concerning this list, said:

"There is nothing in the records of Zuta to indicate that there is any connection whatever between these eight men and Zuta."

Officials Raid Warehouse.

While newspapermen were poring over the 497 documents taken from the Zuta vault, Prosecutor Rathbun and Investigator Roche led another raid, this time upon a warehouse in which, Roche had learned, Zuta had stored various articles.

Judge John H. Lyle, who has issued search warrants upon which Zuta's safe deposit boxes were opened and has accompanied the raiders in their search for evidence, again issued a warrant, and went with the prosecutors and the detectives to the warehouse.

A complete gambling layout was discovered stored away, and was taken to the state's attorney's office.

CHECKS DESCRIBED

Check for $150, made payable to cash, dated April 2, 1926, indorsed by Nate De Lue, assistant business manager for the board of education. [Mr. De Lue is also named in several documents which he attested to as a notary public, and several letters to Zuta were found addressed in care of Mr. De Lue at the latter's office].

Check for $2,000, made payable to Simon Herr, dated June 1, 1927, indorsed by Herr and Cohen & Robbin.

Check for $500, made payable to cash, dated Sept. 4, 1925, indorsed with a rubber stamp by Crowe & Kolb. [This is a law firm in which Ald. Dorsey Crowe of the Forty-second ward was a partner, but which Ald. Crowe stated last night has been dissolved. Ald. Crowe asserted he did not know Zuta, and had no knowledge whatever concerning the check.]

Thirty Checks to Genker.

Thirty or more checks made payable to Charles Genker for amounts of $50 and $100 each. "Monkeyface Charley" Genker has been known for many years as a pander and the checks indicate that he was on Zuta's regular pay roll, operating some of Zuta's brothel.

Two checks, one for $1,000, dated Nov. 2, 1922, the other for $560, dated Dec. 8, 1922, made payable to A. Volpe, who is believed to be the notorious "Mops" Volpe, gangster.

Five checks were found made payable to cash, all indorsed by Philip L. D'Andrea, believed to be the brother of the notorious Tony D'Andrea, labor racketeer and one of the original Chicago gang leaders. Tony D'Andrea was slain in 1921. The D'Andrea checks total $1,850. Philip D'Andrea's name also appears in the indorsement of other checks, including one signed by Municipal Judge Joseph W. Schulman.

Two checks to Joseph S. Winner, one for $500, dated Oct. 6, 1922; the other for $50, dated May 1, 1922.

Check to cash, for $150, dated Oct. 6, 1926, indorsed by Maurice J. Slater.

Check to Morris Kessler, dated Sept. 10, 1925, for $200. A check signed by Morris Kessler, for $200 evidently in repayment of the original sum, was returned by Zuta's bank marked "Account closed."

A check signed by Joseph Friedman, in favor of Zuta, for $2,000, is marked "Returned, N. S. F.," under date of Jan. 18, 1922.

Four Checks Total $5,900.

Four checks, made payable to cash, are indorsed by J. Strauss. The dates and sums of these checks are Sept 20, 1927, $2,000; Sept. 21, 1927, $500 Nov. 30, 1927, $2,000, and Dec. 4, 1927, $1,400.

Check to B Guttman, dated Oct. 1, 1926, for $125.

A check signed by Max A. Rosenberg, for $400 and dated Aug. 18, 1922, indorsed by Sam Cohen and by Zuta, was returned and was marked "Payment Stopped."

A check for $60, torn to pieces was patched up. It was signed by William Grossman, under date of Feb. 8, 1926, and is indorsed by M. Green and Frank Bardino. It was not presented for payment.

A check signed by Judge Joseph W. Schulman for $400, made payable to M. Green and indorsed by Green and Zuta, was marked "Payment Stopped." Another check on which Schulman stopped payment, made out and indorsed in the same manner, was for $600. A third check signed by Schulman, also not paid, was for $500, made payable to currency and indorsed by Philip L. D'Andrea.

Find Notes Held by Zuta.

Many notes held by Zuta and apparently never paid by the signers, were found in the box. One note signed by Louis V. Keeler, dated July 12, 1922, was for $100. Six notes of Morris Simmons, each for $250, a total of $1,500, were dated Sept. 14, 1921. Six notes of William F. Daley, for $35 each, a total of $210, were dated Jan. 1, 1922. Twelve notes for $35 each, a total of $420, signed by Fred Lambache, made payable to A. Messe & Son, and endorsed in blank by A. Messe, were dated April 13, 1922.

Suppressed Police Record of Girl's Story of Plot to Kidnap Zuta Is Found in Box

A confession of a 19 year old girl who declared she had been induced by two gangsters to lure Jack Zuta, murdered gang chieftain, to a place where Zuta would be held for $50,000 ransom, was found in the secret Zuta records made public yesterday by the state's attorney's office.

The confession was contained in a seemingly official statement taken by the Chicago police department. It was written upon the yellow paper used by the police for the taking of statements from witnesses and criminals.

Equally remarkable to the investigators was the fact that the police had suppressed the incident, and that while the newspapers never had an inkling of the girl's confession, it had been delivered readily enough into the hands of Zuta himself.

Girl Signs Confession.

The girl signed the confession. She named Joe Genero and "Mops" Volpe, notorious Chicago gangsters, as the instigators of the plot, and said they had promised her $1,000 if she succeeded in delivering Zuta into their hands.

The record on the questioning of the girl by the police, made on June 16, 1927, read as follows:

Q.—What is your name and address? A.—Helen Delmar and I live in New York.

Q.—Your right name is Moran, is it not? A.—I don't care to answer that.

Q.—When did you arrive in Chicago? A.—About 11 o'clock this morning, Chicago time.

Q.—Do you know a man named Genero who lives in New York? A.—Yes.

Q.—Was he on the train with you? A.—He was on the train, but not with me.

Q.—Was any other person on the train with you? A.—Him and another man, I don't know his name.

Q.—Now I want to inform you that I know the purpose of your visit to Chicago. That is that you conspired with Genero in New York to meet a certain man here at the Sherman house and be the instrument of delivering him into the hands of your friend and some other parties who were to obtain a certain sum of money from him. A.—I don't know anything about it.

Q.—Then I will have to lock you up. A.—Don't do that. I don't want my folks to know I'm here or in any trouble.

Girl Tells Story.

Q.—Tell me about your trip and the purpose of it. A.—I left New York with Joe and another man and we got off the train about 11 o'clock this morning and had breakfast and Joe made two telephone calls and then he told me to register at the Sherman and wait for word from them. They then took a cab and left me.

Q.—Did you and this Joe occupy the same compartment on the train. A.—No. He told me not to recognize him on the train but to wait for him in the depot.

Q.—What is Joe's right name? A.—Joe Genero.

Q.—How long do you know him? A.—A few years.

Q.—How old are you? A.—I'll be 19 years the 1st of September. I was born in 1908.

"Supposed to Meet Man."

Q.—Tell me exactly what you were supposed to do? A.—Well, as near as I can find out, I was to meet a man who lives at the Sherman and get talking to him in some way get him interested and have him take me out and that is all I was to do.

Q.—What was Joe to do? Were you to be introduced to this man? A.—No, Joe thought it would be better if I was to meet him accidentally. After that they would take this man and get some money from him.

Q.—Did you see this man you were to meet? A.—No, sir, I did not have the chance. You came in the room before I heard from Joe.

Q.—Did you hear the name of the man you were to meet? A.—All I know is that his first name is Jack and that he is a Jew.

Q.—Do you know a man named Mops? A.—Only to hear Joe speak of him.

Q.—Was this man Mops going to be in on this game? A.—Yes, he was the one who got Joe interested.

Promised $1,000, She Says.

Q.—How much money were you to get out of this deal? A.—Joe promised me $1,000. He paid my fare here.

Q.—Did you ever see this Mops? A.—No I was not even to meet him. Just to meet this Jack and Joe would follow us and then I was not to know what happened or what they did.

Q.—What about the $50,000 they were supposed to get. A.—Well I heard it mentioned before I left.

Q.—Who mentioned it? A.—Joe.

Q.—Who is the man that came with Joe? A.—He is an Italian. I think his name is Quilci, but I am not sure.

Q.—You work in the Knickerbocker club, a night club, do you not? A.—Yes, I did up to two days ago.

To Hold Kidnap Victim.

Q.—Did Joe say where they were to bring this man Jack after they took him from you? A.—No, sir. They were just to make him go and take him somewhere and hold him for a while.

Q.—Was this Mops to be present? A.—No. Because this Jack knows Mops was to have the place ready where they were to take him.

Q.—Was Mops to be seen after that. A.—The way I understand it Joe and his friend were to take him some place that Mops had ready and then Mops was to be there. This Jack was to be blindfolded.

Q.—Were they to hurt him? A.—I don't think so.

GANGSTER'S MESSAGES

Letters of one gangster to another, from Louis La Cava, a Capone lieutenant, once indicted with officials of Cicero and a number of gangsters charged by the federal government with a conspiracy to violate the Volstead law, to Jack Zuta were found in Zuta's effects.

The letters indicate that La Cava was outlawed by Capone, referred to by La Cava as "The Big Boy."

The letters follow:

"Dear Jack:

"My brother Rocco is coming to you for advice, and please do with him what you would do for your own brother. I cannot advise him specifically because I am not on the ground, and I trust in you to do the best you can, as I know whatever you do will be done honestly and reservedly.

"I wish conditions will soon warrant my return; of course, if you have no hopes for me for a long time, or perhaps never, then I would like to know, as I would probably go to work and settle elsewhere and stop wasting time waiting in vain.

"Please do not lose sight that my enemies do not want to see me tie up with you in gambling propositions or otherwise because they don't want to see the combination as they fear that I'd help you organize a strong business organization capable of coping with theirs in Cicero. You know you have lots of virgin territory on north side limits border line and they are going to try and prevent me from lining up with you and thereby keep starving me out until I go back to them begging for mercy.

"That is why they are making it hard for my two brothers, and if you can help my kids make a living I wish you would. Praying that your reply will be refreshing and not full of gloom.

"With personal regards, I am,

"As ever sincerely,

LOUIE.

"P. S. This address good for one week, 19 S. La Salle-st., Chicago, Ill., thereafter use New York address again."

Another Letter to Zuta.

The next letter, dated June 11, 1927, reads:

"Dear Jack: Pleased to receive your letter and it is not necessary that you tell me you are nobody's enemy, as I know that, and I hope everybody else in Chicago appreciates it and trust you will be not misunderstood so many times a sincere heart and a mind clean and clear as yours is misinterpreted and its body and soul made to suffer, however, I am very anxious that this mess is untangled soon and that I shall be able to return to make a living.

"I have heard the Big Boy is stopping my brothers from making a living, that is barbarism to pick on these two boys who have families and kids to support and I wish if you can help them get work that you would do so.

"I pray that you will soon send for me, and all will be O. K.

"With personal regards to my friends, I am

"Your friend,

"LOUIE."

A third letter, undated, follows:

"Dear Jack: What's new? Are things getting any better for me there, let me know something?

"What's happened to Sullivan? Wrote him three letters and heard nothing from him. Has he given me the air, too?

Offers to Arrange Meeting.

"If you want to talk to me I can arrange where you can see me by leaving Chgo. about 12 p. m., see me early the morning, and you can leave right away. I'll come within about 8 hrs. ride from Chgo. If you decide to do that tell my brother Rocco and I'll make the date as soon as I hear from him.

"You know I ought to hear from Sullivan about business and you can do me a lot of good there. I trust in you to help me, as I am in very bad for cash.

"My brothers don't have to work in the same place with Sullivan, but you should find a place for them in some other place of yours that is being managed by Sullivan quietly, otherwise I'll be ruined altogether, so please see the best you can do as soon as you open up again, and I hope you can think out a way to help without embarrassing yourself with the ——.

"Sincerely,

"LOUIE LA CAVA."

"P. S.—If you wish to write me instead, address your letter to Louis La Cava, 19 South La Salle street, Chicago, Ill. I'll get it."

According to police reports, La Cava is now a member of a gang in New York City, headed by Johnny Torrio, another gang leader who was driven from Chicago by rival gangsters.

THE FLORIDA LETTERS

The letters sent to Frank Gross in Gary from Orlando, Fla., which may refer to a proposed new dog track venture in Florida, or to the obtaining of leniency for a member of the Zuta gang caught in criminal acts in Florida, follows. The letter, written on the stationery of the International News Service, is dated Aug. 21, 1929, reads:

"Dear Frank:

"This will inform you that my son made several attempts to reach Gov. Doyle Carlton, Attorney General Fred H. Davis, and Senator John Watson of Dade county by telephone tonight, but these men were unavailable. Walter was in his office when he called

"As far as other matters concern, it is beyond a question that they have one of the greatest assets in the state.

"My son said that if I wished, he would invite the men he attempted to reach tonight to his home for a luncheon and get them together, but it would be an imposition for me to burden him at this time.

Talks of Interview.

"He will have a personal interview with his friend, Fred H. Davis, the attorney general, upon the latter's return from Atlanta, where he is on business. As he has good reasons to wait until Davis' return. I shall let you know of his interview later.

"May I suggest that you go to Chicago and request your friends to send me expense money for gasoline and living expenses during my trip. You may assure them that I am very active on their behalf and will be able to give them some definite information within the next few days.

"You can reach me care of J. L. Laube, 632 East Amelia avenue, Orlando, Fla. Yours very truly, "BEN.

"P. S.—You must realize that I mean business and it is for this reason alone that I made the trip here. I have already arranged for all publicity and press relationship necessary for their real estate promotion in whatever way they wish.

"I must make a trip to see Senator Watson from Dade county in Miami, where my son and I expect to join Gov. Carlton on Aug. 24."

Contents of Telegrams.

A day letter telegram from Orlando, Fla., bearing the date of Aug. 23, 1929, two days after the letter from "Ben" at Orlando, was addressed to Frank Gross, 22 West 5th avenue, Gary, Ind. It read:

"G. E. McCaskill appointed by Gov. Carlton as recess appointment for solicitor and will be sustained in senate on 1931 session. He is certain of holding office until then and Uly O Thompson will be judge of Criminal court instead of Tom Norfleet. Have interview with governor Saturday afternoon. Kindly acknowledge receipt of this at once. BEN."

"Kindly except delay in this matter as all parties concerned are on a leave of absence. The material is here and all connections are made. I assure you that you will have definite word no later than Tuesday. What letter states is the absolute truth.

"WALTER."

JUDGE GETS HAY FEVER, DELAYING THE WEED COURT

Judge Edgar A. Jonas, who was to have started hearing complaints yesterday in the newly established "weed court" against property owners who have failed to cut weeds, suffered an attack of hay fever and left on a vacation. The complaints will be heard next Wednesday.

According to Irwin Kowal, legal adviser for the health department, which is waging a campaign against weeds and the hay fever which they cause, complaints will be heard on Wednesday against Margaret Sarrah, the owner of property at 5501-13 Byron street; Philip Eisenstein, 5345-47 Warwick avenue, and Moses Pozin, 4423-25 Armitage avenue.

Fourteen additional complaints were filed with City Prosecutor Peska yesterday by the health department. Violators of the weed ordinance are liable to a fine.

3 HELD FOR PLOT TO KILL CARLTON PROMISE SURPRISE

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 21. — (AP) — Startling testimony from the defense at the preliminary hearing for three men charged with conspiracy to procure the assassination of Gov. Doyle E. Carlton was hinted today in a joint statement from attorneys for Fred O. Eberhardt and Grank Ralls. The hearing is set for Wednesday.

The statement, signed by D. Stuart Gillis, attorney for Eberhardt, and Edgar W. Waybright, Ralls' counsel, said "testimony of a startling nature, entirely foreign to the crime charged, but showing the real reasons for the present charges and involving members of the road department, the hotel commission, the cabinet, legislators, and members of the legal fraternity may be introduced at the hearing."

HELD ON SHOOTING CHARGE.

Oliver Ward, 39 years old, colored janitor of the Parkview theater at 4644 Sheridan road last night caused the arrest of David Oakes, 38 years old, electrician of the theater, charging that Oakes emptied a revolver at him while he was asleep. One bullet nipped Ward's right arm, and another grazed his forehead. A quarrel over an electric fan is said to have been the cause.

U. S. AGENTS RAID 10 CAPONE STILLS IN CALUMET CITY

Prohibition agents under Administrator John F. J. Herbert last night completed the raiding of ten alleged Capone alcohol stills in Calumet City. At bootleg prices, the daily output of the stills, which had a capacity of 4,500 gallons, had a value of more than $20,000, the agents estimated.

Assistant Administrator George H. Hurlburt said the Capone alcohol syndicate had extended its operations into Lansing and Calumet City after 24 of its stills were raided in Cicero several weeks ago.

Two 500 gallon stills were raided in Calumet City on Wednesday night and eight others with capacities of 150 to 1,000 gallons were found there last night. Six prisoners were taken on the first raids but the alcohol cookers had fled from the other stills yesterday. Yesterday's raids, made on bungalows and garages, included:

Two raids at 157th street and Green Bay avenue, and one each at 825 Green Bay avenue, 811 Mackinaw avenue, Buffalo avenue and 157th street, 537 156th street, 749 Green Bay avenue, and 156 Newell street. More than 75,000 gallons of mash and several thousand gallons of alcohol were found.

LUCREZIA BORI JOINS JUDGES OF MUSIC FESTIVA

Singers Enter Finals Competition Tonight.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Another distinguished name has been added to the committee of judges who will pass upon the singers in the final competition of the great Chicago land Music Festival in the auditorium of the Chicago theater tonight. She is Lucrezia Bori, leading soprano of the Ravinia and Metropolitan Opera companies, one of the glories of Spain, famous the world over as an extraordinary singing actress and a brilliant personality of the operatic stage.

She will join Gennaro Papi, the famous operatic conductor of Ravinia, Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler, well known clubwoman and potent force in the world of Chicago music, and the rest of the group of experts who will pass on the merits of the young singers coming here from all points of Chicagoland. They will appear at 7 o'clock. W-G-N will broadcast the contest between 8:30 and 9 p. m.

Bands in Contest Tomorrow.

Instrumental soloists and small instrumental groups will be heard in the same room at 1 o'clock today. Edward J. Meltzer and Ross Hickenoll will be the judges. Bands, drum corps, and choruses will come up in their contests tomorrow morning and afternoon under the following schedule:

Chicago bands are to appear at the Majestic, Harris, Great Northern, and Cohan's Grand according to their assignment at 9 o'clock tonorrow. Bands of town bands will come to the same theaters at 10. Here they will be heard in the semi-finals. Edward J. Meltzer, Ross Hickernell, and George Gault will be the judges at the Majestic; John Barabash, Glenn Cox, Bainum, and Capt. Huff at the Harris; Howard Stube, Albert L. Gish, H. E. Nutt at the Great Northern, and A. R. McAllister, Harold Bachman, and Otto J. Kraushaar at the Cohan's Grand.

After playing, each band will be seated in the auditorium of the theater, remaining until the end for further instructions. Such bands as are selected by the judges will report immediately at the Majestic to play in the final contest, at which time the judges will sit as a body.

Massed Bands to Rehearse.

There will be a rehearsal of the massed bands on the platform in the north end of Soldiers' field at 3 o'clock tomorrow and a rehearsal of the drum corps on the field. At 7 o'clock the bands will report for position in parade at the south entrance of Soldiers' field gate O, and be prepared to march at 7:30. Promptness is important, as the bands reporting too late for the parade will be eliminated therefrom.

Chicago drum corps will appear tomorrow at 9 o'clock in Grant park north of the Art institute on Michigan street. Out of town organizations will meet in the same place at 10 o'clock. All choruses, from Chicago and out of town alike, will meet in the Great Northern theater at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Here the judges will be in charge of Noble Cain.

LUCREZIA BORI JOINS JUDGES OF MUSIC FESTIVAL

Singers Enter Finals of Competition Tonight.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Another distinguished name has been added to the committee of judges who will pass upon the singers in the final competition of the great Chicagoland Music Festival in the audition room of the Chicago theater tonight. She is Lucrezia Bori, leading soprano of the Ravinia and Metropolitan Opera companies, one of the glories of Spain, famous the world over as an extraordinary singing actress and brilliant personality of the operatic stage.

She will join Gennaro Papi, the famous operatic conductor of Ravinia, Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler, well known philanthropist and potent force in the world of Chicago music, and the rest of the group of experts who will pass on the merits of the young singers coming here from all points of Chicagoland. They will appear at 7 o'clock WGN will broadcast the contest between 8:30 and 9 p. m.

Bands in Contest Tomorrow.

Instrumental soloists and small instrumental groups will be heard in the same room at 1 o'clock today. Edward J. Meltzer and Ross Hickernell will be the judges. Bands, drum corps, and choruses will come up for their contests tomorrow morning and afternoon under the following schedule:

Chicago bands are to appear at the Majestic, Harris, Great Northern, and Orpheum's Grand according to their own assignment at 9 o'clock tonorrow. Out of town bands will come to the same theaters at 10. Here they will be heard in the semi-finals. Edward J. Meltzer, Ross Hickernell, and George Gault will be the judges at the Majestic; John Barabash, Glenn Cliffe Bainum, and Capt. Huff at the Harding; Howard Stube, Albert L. Gish, and L. E. Nutt at the Great Northern; and A. R. McAllister, Harold Bachman, and Otto J. Kraushaar at Orpheum's Grand.

After playing, each band will be seated in the auditorium of the theater, remaining until the end for further instructions. Such bands as are selected by the judges will report immediately at the Majestic to play in the final contest, at which time all the judges will sit as a body.

Massed Bands to Rehearse.

There will be a rehearsal of the massed bands on the platform in the north end of Soldiers' field at 3 o'clock tomorrow and a rehearsal of drum corps on the field. At 7 o'clock all bands will report for position in parade at the south entrance of Soldiers' field, gate O, and be prepared to march at 7:30. Promptness is important, as the bands reporting too late for the parade will be eliminated therefrom.

Chicago drum corps will appear tomorrow at 9 o'clock in Grant park north of the Art institute on Monroe street. Out of town organizations will meet in the same place at 10 o'clock. All choruses, from Chicago and out of town alike, will meet in the Great Northern theater at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Here the judging will be in charge of Noble Cain.

BANDS—East Peoria band of 60 boys and girls, Peoria, Ill.; Kable Brothers' band of 50, Dixon, Ill.; De Kalb City band of 40, De Kalb, Ill.; Zion band of 50, Waukegan Ill.; Decatur "Red Coats" high school band of 60, Decatur, Ill.; La Porte City band of 25 La Porte, Ind.; Hammond High school band of 45, Hammond, Ind.; Cedar Falls City band of 45, Waterloo, Ia.; Fairbanks-Morse band of 60, Beloit, Wis.; Kenosha Legion band of 60, Kenosha, Wis.; S. NEGRO CHORUS REHEARSES AND AUTOISTS STOP

When they sang "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," with which they opened the rehearsal, although they will not sing it on Soldiers' field tomorrow night, they sang it as though they had a country worth singing about and worth honoring in song. It was not a drone.

Sing Famous Chorus.

After a steadying of all hands by means of brief, emphatic admonitions from Prof. James A. Mundy, leader of the Mundy Choristers of Chicago, the one thousand launched themselves into the Hallelujah chorus from "The Messiah."

To talk here about the certainty of attack in this rendition, the suave, confident maneuvering of intricacies, and the weaving and blending of effects is just to talk music patter that does not at all tell the story of great singing of perhaps the greatest hymn of adoration ever composed.

I'll tell you what tells the real story: It was singing so rapturous, so puissant and so moving that it made you want to cry and made you feel you ought to pray.

Singing Is Past Praise.

How they maneuvered the solemn key phrases, "For the Lord God Omnipotent reigneth"—"The kingdom of this world is become the kingdom of Our Lord and His Christ"—and "He shall reign forever, King of Kings and Lord of Lords" between and into salvos of "Hallelujahs" was wonderful to hear and past all praise in its precision and power.

The "Hallelujah Chorus" will be the principal number which these colored singers will contribute to the festical program. With them about 2,000 white people will sing. If the effect last night was superb it should —with three times last night's number of singers—tomorrow night be prodigious.

But the "Messiah" number will not be the truly characteristic contribution of the colored people.

That will be their spirituals.

Prof. Edward Boatner of Pilgrim Baptist church will, as he did last night, lead the one thousand in "Swing Low Sweet Chariot." Miss Zelma Watson, graduate of the University of Chicago, singing the solo passages.

Children, won't you come along?
The old ark's a-movin',
I thank God.

J. Wesley Jones of Metropolitan center and president of the National Association of Negro Musicians will conduct in this number.

The third spiritual will be "Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray." It was the late Booker T. Washington's favorite among all his people's music. Miss Magnolia Lewis will be the soloist.

Frank Young, managing editor of the Defender, addressed the singers on the opportunity the colored people will have tomorrow night to express themselves to their fellow citizens of Chicagoland, and Mrs. Lena Emmerson, who gave to festival managers the information which resulted in Negro participation in the festival, was introduced and cheered.

JOIN IN THE MUSIC

The air is naught more recondite than the melody of "John Brown's Body."

As for the words, if you are a bit weak on them, worry not, for they will be conspicuously printed in tomorrow morning's TRIBUNE along with the text of five other songs in which thousands will lift their voices in the great community "sing" on Soldiers' field.

This feature of the music festival will be an all-America feature. Every author and composer represented was native-born.

The Old Familiar Songs.

Four of the pieces have for decades been entwined with the most intimate phases of the American people's national and home life.

They are:

John Howard Payne's "Home, Sweet Home."

Foster's "Old Kentucky Home."

The two ballads of modern composition that war and sentiment have made known to all the people, and that complete the numbers in which the multitude looking down on the field from its Doric terraces of stone will join, are:

Stoddard King and Zoe Eliot's "The Long, Long Trail."

Armstrong's "Sweet Adeline."

Watch for the words in tomorrow's TRIBUNE. Clip the column and bring it with you to the field. There will be floods of light by which to read the words.

SPECIAL BUSES TO TAKE CROWDS TO SONG FESTIVAL

A special bus service to the gates of Soldiers' field will be given by the Chicago Motor Coach company for the benefit of the crowds which will attend the Chicagoland music festival tomorrow evening.

John A. Ritchie, president of the motor coach company, has agreed to operate special coaches to the field from two temporary terminals—one at 12th street and Wabash avenue, and the other at Randolph street and Michigan avenue. Twelfth street coaches will proceed north on Michigan avenue, turning into Grant park at 11th street. Randolph and Michigan coaches proceed south, turning into the park at 7th street. The fare will be 10 cents, with all regular transfer privileges over the company's city-wide system. Any of the company's routes will, in turn, transfer passengers to the special Grant park buses without extra charge.

Motor coach employés in uniform will be stationed among the crowds to give information. During the festival the coaches will line up at the gates of Soldiers' field, to be ready to handle the crowd on the return trip.

BURIES MAN SHE BELIEVES TO BE MISSING MATE

Funeral services were held yesterday in Waldheim cemetery for a man believed by Mrs. Amelia Reisapfel to be her husband, Mark Reisapfel, 44 years old, once wealthy furrier of 5136 North Kimball avenue, for whom police had been searching since last Dec. 18.

Observing the Reisapfel death notice in the newspapers, detectives asked Mrs. Reisapfel for an explanation. She said information had reached her a week ago that a man's body, clad in a smoking jacket, had been recovered from the drainage canal on July 13, held four weeks, and been buried in the potter's field.

Her husband having worn a smoking jacket on the night he disappeared, after writing a suicide note, Mrs. Reisapfel had it exhumed and identified it by two gold teeth as her husband's, she said. Securities worth $80,000, which disappeared with Reisapfel, recently turned up in Los Angeles, but no clews as to the missing man himself developed. Mrs. Reisapfel has been supporting herself and three children by selling vegetables.

THACHER CALLS U. S. BANKRUPTCY LAW CORRUPTING

Solicitor General Speaks Before Bar Assn.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

That the federal government through the United States' attorneys in each district may be given the job of stopping bankruptcy losses which now average $750,000,000 a year, was suggested at the meeting of the American Bar association yesterday at the Stevens hotel by Thomas D. Thacher, solicitor general of the United States.

An investigation into this evil, which was ordered by President Hoover, is well under way, according to Mr. Thacher, the purposes of which is to propose to congress essential reforms in bankruptcy law and practice.

Hughes Interested Listener.

Mr. Thacher praised the English method of dealing with bankruptcy. Several noted members of the English bar sat on the platform during his address, and Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, whose son resigned as solicitor general upon his appointment to the highest court, was an interested listener.

The sessions yesterday disposed of a great mass of committee reports and struck no such snags as the prohibition question, which now seems shelved until the report on the referendum, which is due in November. The wet leaders among the lawyer groups anticipate that the referendum will be in favor of repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Many lawers who favor the prohibition effort will vote for repeal on the ground that such a law does not belong in the constitution.

Elect Officers Today.

The final session of the convention will be held this morning with Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state, in the chair and the address coming from Lord Macmillan. Following that, the annual election of officers will be held. The nominations for these officers will be made by the general council this morning. Josiah Marvel of Wilmington, Del., is said to have the inside track on the presidency, while his opponents are Charles A. Boston of New York and George B. Young of Montpelier, Vt. Secretary William P. MacCracken reported the largest registration in the history of the association, 2,415.

Mr. Thacher, who sat on the southern district bench of New York during the bankruptcy scandals, was emphatic in his denunciation of the present law and practice. From his knowledge of the working of the bankruptcy laws in New York City, he said, it was perfectly designed to "promote inefficiency in the administration of bankrupt estates, to grant discharges without investigation, and, therefore, without discrimination between misfortune justifying a discharge and misconduct deserving of measures to prevent its recurrence, and to encourage dishonesty and reckless disregard of business integrity on the part of large numbers of people who, taking advantage of the freedom with which credit is extended in this country, incur indebtedness which they know they cannot pay and then have recourse to the statute to be discharged of the debts."

Loss Exceeds $3,800,000,000.

Mr. Thacher found that the average dividend payment during five years ending June 30, 1929, was approximateley 8¼c on the dollar, while losses incurred by creditors during this period exceeded $3,800,000,000.

"The simple fact is," he continued, "that business men have no time to waste in such fruitless efforts to save money. They expect little from bankruptcies, get less and do nothing. The bankrupt is not examined except in the most perfunctory way, unless there is hope that through his examination concealed assets may be found. There is no inquiry with respect to the causes of his failure.

"The extent of this evil is indicated by the fact that of all the persons, firms, or corporations adjudicated bankrupt from 1925 to 1928 inclusive, 57 per cent of them were wage earners, professional men and others not included among farmers, merchants and manufacturers.

Called Corrupt Influence.

"Such persons who are not engaged in trade have as a rule no occasion to come into bankruptcy unless they have been living beyond their means, on money borrowed from their creditors. A law which tolerates injustice is bad, but a law which encourages such practices on the part of hundreds of salaried people is a corrupting influence in a community which should not be tolerated."

He discussed the English law which makes it a public duty to investigate the causes of each bankruptcy and the conduct of each bankrupt. In contract with this, he said, the philosophy of the American statute is that the creditors alone are concerned in the administration of the estate and the discharge of the bankrupt.

"It would be difficult and probably unwise," he said, "to attempt to set up in this country such an elaborate organization for the supervision of the administration of bankrupt estates as there is in the Board of Trade of England. But in our system we have an office unknown in England. The United States attorneys are the local representatives of the government in all matters civil and criminal which come before the courts. If it be concluded that the government should assume the responsibility for the investigation of each bankruptcy, and the conduct of each bankrupt, it may well be that the United States attorneys should assume these duties. This would assure effective and speedy prosecution wherever dishonesty is disclosed.

Seek to Change Trust Laws.

The committee on commerce, of which Hush C. Butler is chairman, recommended changes in enforcement of the Sherman anti-trust law and reported the progress of a bill for that purpose. The desire of the committee, it was stated, is to amend the law by vesting in an administrative agency power to approve in advance restraint of trade contracts voluntarily submitted and by granting immunity to the parties for acts done during the existence of the approval.

The aeronautical law committee warned legislatures against ill advised legislation which might injure this fast growing industry, and said that the ancient conception of property rights might have to be modified. A conference on uniform state legislation is to be called this fall by President Hoover, the chairman, Chester W. Cuthell of New York reported.

Louis G. Caldwell of Chicago, chairman of the committee on communications, reported on the progress of radio law. The report is an analysis of the development of this law, rather than any definite recommendations as to new laws. It has been widely called for by law schools and libraries.

The committee on professional ethics and grievances submitted its work for the year, and Nathan William MacChesney reported on the progress of the uniform judicial procedure bill now before congress. This vests new power in the United States Supreme court.

The committee on professional ethics, of which Thomas Francis Howe is chairman, had a good deal to say about those who are practicing law in the District of Columbia without being members of the bar, and the way business is being taken away from lawyers by corporations and trust companies.

DOINGS OF BAR DELEGATES

Sir John Simon, author of the famous report on India, who arrived yesterday for the bar association convention with Lady Simon and their son, J. G. Simon, is "tremendously keen" on ice skating, he said. But it is golf and riding which explain his deep sunburn. Sir John was guest of honor of the American Bar association in Cincinnati nine years ago. Lady Simon is the author of a recent book, "Slavery," and much interested in abolishing slavery in Arabia, China, Abyssinia, and elsewhere

Maurice Pembroke FitzGerald, member of the junior bar in England, and Mrs. FitzGerald asked at the convention information desk if they might get tickets to a "baseball match." "And is it true that they really throw pop bottles at umpires?" they asked in awe. "And tell us, what is an inning?"

One of the most impressive of the English visitors was Col. Charles Thomas Samman, master of the City of London guilds. Col. Samman wears a monocle and formal attire, including a top hat. He is tall and of military bearing. In the midst of shaking hands with numbers of American men and women who crowded about him in the afternoon, he excused himself, sat down on a nearby chair, and, putting his hat on his head, took off his right shoe and adjusted his sock. "There!" he exclaimed, and, not in the least embarrassed, took off his hat and resumed shaking hands.

Capt. Fergus Dunlop Morton, M. C., K. C., a member of the British delegation, was the guest of honor yesterday at a luncheon given at the Stevens hotel by the Alumni association of Northwestern university school of law. Capt. Morton was a member of the Highland light infantry during the world war and was awarded the military cross for bravery during the East African campaign. Among others present at the luncheon were: Henry Barrett Chamberlin, president of the Alumni association; Dean Emeitus John H. Wigmore of Northwestern university law school; Frank J. Loesch, president of the Crime commission, and Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal court.

Monsieur Leon Netter, confidential secretary in chief of the cabinet in the French department of justice and official representative of the government at the convention, is accompanied by Mme. Marcelle Netter. Mme. Netter, pretty and with true Parisian chic, is most apologetic because she is not a lawyer. It had been erroneously announced she was Yvonne Yetter, a Paris lawyer and member of Kappa Beta Pi. When Mme. Netter arrived her room was filled with flowers and candy from the sorority.

Miss Mercy Ashworth, London barrister, who formerly was head of all women's education in the Bombay presidency in India, senses that American women in professions are beginning to want to return to their homes, she said. "That is not true in England," she said. "There they do not break up their homes to have careers, but engage first class nurses and governesses to do their work at home. Children have not gone out of fashion there, either."

Marcel Rogers is the youngest member of the French delegation. He is 25 years old, a doctor of laws, a member of the Paris bar, and first secretary of the Conference du Stage.

Marcel Ragon, another visitor from France, is a member of the legion of honor, and received the croix de guerre. He is honorary president of the Palais Great War Veterans. Mme. Ragon is with him.

James Dale Cassels, K. C., criminal lawyer of note and, which he considers more important, president of the Essex County Cricket club, is here with Mrs. Cassels. He has two ardent desires: to see a baseball game, and to see Chicago police courts in action.

HUGHES CALLS CRIME JUSTICE ISSUE OF HOUR

Tells Lawyers Need of Public Virtue.

tional legislatures are subject to constitutional tests and difficult questions give rise to serious differences of opinion, decisions become the subject of keen public scrutiny and sometimes of severe criticism."

"This is wholesome. Such criticism, or even the justice of it in particular cases, does not obscure the importance of the judicial function, as questions upon which men of equal ability and sincerity differ must be decided, so that government may go on. If even scientists disagree, if theologians and sociologists are in constant debate, if the policies of great statesmen conflict, why should judges be expected to be always in accord? The extent of their harmonious action is really more remarkable than occasional differences of opinion.

"Without undertaking to defend this system, perhaps it may be said that the judicial department of our government has worked quite as well as the others, and it is difficult to see, if it had not existed, how the others could have worked at all, or at least with the measure of restraint which the constitution contemplated."

Traces History of Chicago.

Chief Justice Hughes began his address with an expression of appreciation of the hospitality given members of the American bar on visits to continental law meetings. He sought to return that friendship and began a discussion of the country they are now visiting, including some remarks for Chicago.

"If we cannot fascinate you with venerable institutions, we may at least show the course of a unique development, the quality and rapidity of which may not be without interest," he told the visitors.

"In place of age, we give you youth and speed. In this city whose hospitality we enjoy there is unfolded before you the drama of American life. I shall not attempt to speak for Chicago. No one, not to the manner born, could do that adequately. But you may recall that only a half dozen miles from where we stand, well within the limits of the present city, was the slight rise of ground, eight to ten feet in height, which marked the divide between the Mississippi and the St. Lawrence drainage systems.

"In times of high water, when the Des Plaines river overflowed, there was only a short portage necessary between Lake Michigan and the water route to the Gulf of Mexico. In consequence this was a pathway of early discovery and later the familiar path of colonization and trade. Only one hundred years ago, long after the foundations of our national life and been securely laid, what is now the business portion of this great city was fenced in as a pasture, and it may interest the taxpayers of today to be reminded that the historian records that as late as 1834 the entire tax levy was $48.90."

Upholds State's Rights.

The doctrine of states rights, the dispute of a century and a half of American governmental existence, was defended by the chief justice at one point in his address.

"Paradoxical as it may seem," he said, "not only the security, but the efficiency of the union lies in the appropriate maintenance of the authority of the states within the proper spheres of local government and local policy. Despite all the economic changes and the intimacies of closely related activities, notwithstanding the vast expansion of interstate commerce in novel forms leading to unanticipated applications of the national authority, which was granted with extraordinary wisdom in a very general formula, the states continue as reservoirs of power reserved, not conferred, by which they deal with a multitude of particular concerns, and enjoy differentiations congenial to local sentiment.

"However difficult it may be, in constitutional interpretation, to maintain perfectly, and to the satisfaction of all, this balance between state and nation, it is of the essence of American institutions that it should be preserved so far as human wisdom makes this possible, and that encroachments upon state authority, however contrived, should be resisted with the same intelligent determination as that which demands that the national authority should be fully exercised to meet national needs."

Foreign Delegates Reply.

Viscount Dunedin was the first of the guests to reply, being introduced, as were all the speakers, by President Sims of the bar association. He read the king's message and was succeeded by Sir William Jewitt, attorney general of Great Britain.

Sir William read a message from the English bar which stressed the international importance of the first official visit of the representatives. Sir Roger Gregory and James Stevenson Leadbetter, the latter's king's counsel of Edinburgh, Scotland, spoke in a similar vein of appreciation and were followed by Justice Hanna of the Irish Free State.

"This is the first time the Irish Free State has been invited to attend a conference of international lawyers," said Justice Hanna, in expressing his appreciation for the welcome. M. Henri Decugis of France spoke for the bar of his country and Chief Justice Harvey completed the series of foreign replies.

HYDE STARTS DROUGHT INSPECTION TOUR OF SHENANDOAH VALLEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, chairman of President Hoover's federal drought relief committee, left today for a week-end automobile trip through the Shenandoah river valley in Virginia for the purpose of personally inspecting the drought damage in that district.

Although at the White House no political significance was attached to the secretary's trip, he left shortly after Bascom Slemp, Republican national committeeman for Virginia, had called upon President Hoover. It was pointed out that a warm congressional campaign is in progress in the Seventh Virginia district, which was captured by the Republicans in 1928. Representative J. A. Garber [Rep., Va.] is a candidate for reelection.

Rail Officials Meet Today.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 21.—(AP)—General offices of the Frisco railroad announced today that traffic executives of western railroads will meet tomorrow in Chicago to determine what emergency freight rates are to be put into effect for drought relief.

22,497 LIQUOR CASES ON DOCKET AUGUST 1 CLOG FEDERAL COURTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Liquor cases continued to pile up on the congested dockets of the federal courts during the first month of the new prohibition régime, according to a report of enforcement activities for July made public today by Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock.

On July 1, the day the dry force was reorganized under the department of justice, the report showed, there were 22,173 criminal prohibition cases on the court dockets. On Aug. 1 the pending cases had increased to 22,497, a gain of 324, or slightly less than 1.5 per cent in one month.

Prohibition agents in the entire country during July seized 1,339,277 gallons of beer, 111,672 gallons of spirits, 12,353 beer fermenters, 1,963 stills, 724 automobiles, and 11 boats and launches. Six of the 11 boats were seized by dry agents operating out of Chicago.

District.—	Arrests.	Convictions.	Stills seized.
1—Boston	158	22	18
2—New York	1,716	91	108
3—Philadelphia	373	75	141

Total U. S.	6,524	1,392	1,903

Director Woodcock announced that he would leave Sept. 4 to investigate enforcement conditions in Ohio, Michigan, Kentucky, and Tennessee. Soon afterward, he said, he would visit New England and Chicago.

KELLOGG NAMED AS CANDIDATE TO WORLD COURT JOB

U. S. Group Also Presents 3 Other Nominees.

GENEVA, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The name of Frank B. Kellogg, renowned among friends of world peace, today was presented to the league of nations by the American group as candidate for justice of the world court.

The election of the former American secretary of state by the league council and assembly next month is regarded as certain, since he is held in high esteem as one of the authors of the famous Kellogg Briand pact, which renounces war as an instrument of national policy.

May Fill Hughes Term.

It is held likely also that Mr. Kellogg at the same time will be elected to complete the term left vacant by Charles Evans Hughes, who resigned to become chief justice of the United States. The unexpired term will end Jan. 1, 1931, when the full term of nine years will begin.

Mr. Kellogg has been nominated for both the full term and the uncompleted term by several governments, which are members of the league.

When the American committee presented its nomination it followed the customary procedure of naming three citizens of other countries. One of these is Mineichiro Adachi, former Japanese ambassador to France, and long a worker for international understanding; another is Dionisio Anzilotti of Italy, who now is president of the world court, and the third is Max Huber of Switzerland, vice president of the court. M. Hubert recently said that he did not desire reelection.

KELLOGG IN CHICAGO.

Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state, declined to comment upon his nomination by the American group of the league of nations for judge of the world court when informed last night. Mr. Kellogg is attending the sessions of the American Bar association meeting here.

MRS. THORNE NO. 1 TO GET $150,000; DISPUTE ENDED

The financial dispute between Gordon C. Thorne, wealthy clubman, whose marital troubles have kept him in the courts for many years, and his first wife, Mrs. Virginia Milner Thorne of New York City, was terminated yesterday before Superior Judge Williams. The judge approved an agreement by which Mrs. Thorne will accept $150,000 in lieu of future alimony payments and those which are now past due.

FORGE AL'S NAME IN WIRE TO CHEER N. Y. DEMOCRATS

Culprits in Danger of Exposure.

New York, Aug. 21.—[Special.]—The telegram purporting to be from former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, in which the last Democratic candidate for President predicted that the Democratic party soon would come into power and bring prosperity to the nation, turned out today to be a forgery.

Mr. Smith denied that he had sent anything more to the Joel Parker association of Newark, N. J., anything association of Newark, N. J., than a polite declination of the invitation to attend its outing near West Orange, where the letter was read on Wednesday amid great applause.

Commissioner William J. Egan of Newark, who received the telegram, said he had asked the Western Union to investigate and try to find out who had sent it.

Here's What Smith Wrote.

The statement issued by Mr. Smith's office read:

"Former Gov. Smith and his office have no knowledge of the telegram supposedly received over his signature by the Joel Parker association at West Orange, N. J., on Wednesday. On Aug. 18, former Gov. Smith received a printed invitation to attend the outing of this association and under date of Aug. 19, sent the following letter to Thomas E. Curran, secretary of the association at 218 Van Buren street, Newark:

"'Dear Mr. Curran: Former Gov. Smith has received your invitation to attend the reunion on Aug. 20. The governor has asked me to tell you that because of a previous engagement he will be unable to attend.

"'Yours very truly,

"'MARY CARR, Secretary.'"

"Former Gov. Smith pointed out that while he is not in disagreement with the sentiment expressed in the telegram he cannot let this instance of misrepresentation of his name pass by. It is his belief, however, that the officials of the Joel Parker association acted in good faith."

Calls It Contemptible Trick.

Mr. Egan at his summer home in Belmar said tonight that the telegram signed "Alfred E. Smith" had been received Wednesday morning at his office by Joseph Ward, one of his clerks. Having no reason to doubt its authenticity he showed it to the newspaper men covering Newark city hall.

SEIZES TWO AS ROBBERS.

Lieut. Andrew Barry of the detective bureau let fly with his right fist early yesterday morning at the door of a rooming house at 1246 Jackson boulevard. A panel crashed and he and his squad forced entrance. They arrested Cecil Emery, 26 years old, and Harry Benjamin, 19 years old, said to be wanted in Kankakee and Joliet for six holdups.

A New Way to Cleanse the Skin AFTER THE MOTOR RIDE

Thousands have used Calonite Powder . . . still use it regularly . . . after the motor ride to cleanse the skin of the dust and dirt accumulated during the ride. Calonite powder does for the skin what no other preparation can possibly do. simply dissolves all skin pore accumulations, leaving the pores free to breathe. Calonite Powder is very easy to use. Just dip a small towel or wash cloth in hot water, wring lightly and fold over palm of hand. Sprinkle on it a bit of Calonite powder and spread with the finger tips. At once apply to the face and massage gently for a few moments. Wash thoroughly and you'll be amazed to find all the dust and dirt dissolved away entirely. The skin is left radiantly clear. The moment Calonite powder is applied to the face you will notice the most wonderful tingling, refreshing sensation you ever experienced in your whole life. The delightful sensation is caused by the Calonite powder dissolving the pore secretions.

Calonite powder, used regularly, will keep the pores so free and clean that it is impossible for those pesky blackheads to form. If they have already formed Calonite powder will dissolve them.

You can get Calonite Powder at any Walgreen or Economical Drug Store. Ask them to show you the Calonite 60c Package.

STORIES DIFFER AT INQUIRY INTO LABOR KILLINGS

Young Stein and Foreman Fail to Appear.

Conflicting statements—both prosecution and defense—were made yesterday regarding the slaying of two Plumbers' union officials, Charles Mulcahy, business agent, and his assistant, Bernard Ruberry, on the site of the Lane Technical High school Wednesday afternoon.

Charles Arthur Stein, secretary of the Carl John Stein company, plumbing contractors, of which his father is the head, and Albert Courchene, plumbing superintendent for the Stein firm on the new school work, failed to appear at the inquest over the bodies of Mulcahy and Ruberry, although a tentative statement was made in their behalf that they killed the unionists in self-defense.

Not at the Inquest.

"Why aren't they here?" asked Coroner Bundesen when the inquest opened.

"You haven't shown by any witnesses that there is any reason for them to be here," Attorney W. W. Smith, who with his partner, Attorney Milton D. Smith, represents Stein.

"Immediately after the shooting two men left the scene in an automobile owned by the Stein family and one of them was a member of the Stein family," Attorney Edgar Cook announced. "He has not been home since and the police have not been able to apprehend him or the other man. Their attorneys should produce them."

Ald. Arthur F. Albert, law partner of Attorney Cook, before the inquest, declared that Mulcahy and Ruberry had made complaints to State's Attorney Swanson that plumbing contractors who got city contracts had to make payments "to the city hall" and that city employés were forced to sign vouchers for material never delivered.

Calls Stein Firm Favored.

"They were killed before they had opportunity of furnishing documentary proof of their charges," he said. "The contractors claimed they were spying on them, looking for evidence. The Stein firm is one of the favored city contractors."

Coroner Bundesen continued the inquest when Attorney Smith said he wanted to hear the testimony of others before he would advise Stein to surrender. "As the inquest goes on it may develop that our men are not wanted," the lawyer explained.

"They can't claim self-defense," Ald. Albert asserted after the continuance was ordered. "Ruberry and Mulcahy were unarmed. Ruberry had a pin, a pencil, some telephone numbers on a piece of note paper, a locket containing his wife's picture, $4.20, and a rosary in his clothing. Mulcahy had a ruler, a pencil, a card case, some change, and a gold crucifix. Men don't go out to kill with that equipment."

Stein Side Is Related.

In behalf of the Stein-Courchene side of the trouble that led to the two deaths it was asserted that Mulcahy and Ruberry were not alone, that four men in another automobile accompanied them as they came on the grounds where the school is to stand. They had threatened to call a strike on the school building, Carl John Stein, the father of the missing witness said, and they also threatened Courchene, whom they wanted discharged.

"We'll show that Mulcahy threatened several times to knock off Courchene," Attorney Smith asserted.

"Ald. Albert is mistaken when he says Stein is a favored city contractor striving to hide evidence from Mulcahy and Ruberry. The last city contract he obtained was in 1926 and he hasn't had a school board contract for two years before he got this one. He bid $243,226 for the Lane job, which was $37,400 lower than the lowest of the previous bids that were rejected—bids in which he was not a bidder."

No Hospital Statement.

Ald. Albert, who visited Ruberry at the hospital before Ruberry died, was asked if Ruberry gave any account of what was said or done before the shooting. He replied that Ruberry was in too much pain, but it was his impression that the union officials were shot as they walked toward a contractors' shanty, and by men who were inside that shanty, and before any words were exchanged.

"The Steins are claiming Mulcahy and Ruberry went there to harm Courchene," he said. "That is shown to be false by the testimony of the plumber who said Mulcahy asked him who was in charge."

Attorney Smith wouldn't say whether he had heard directly from either Stein or Courchene, but he declared it would be easy to offset the last point raised by Ald. Albert. He intimated that he would be ready to produce Stein and Courchene within a day or two.

The elder Stein has a summer place on Lake Wawasee, near Goshen, Ind., and police were seeking them in that vicinity yesterday.

CHICAGOANS HOSTS TO MISSISSIPPI GOOD WILL DELEGATION

A party of 154 Mississippians—members of a good will tour—spent five hours here yesterday afternoon as guests of the Chicago Association of Commerce. The party was welcomed to the city at the Northwestern station by Robert C. Ross, vice president of the Association of Commerce, after which the members were taken on an automobile trip over the city's boulevards. A stop was made at the site of the 1933 World's Fair.

Among the prominent members of the party were Dennis Murphree, former governor of Mississippi; W. F. Bond, state superintendent of education; J. C. Holton, state commissioner of agriculture, and R. V. Taylor of Utica.

The southeners left for their homes at 8 p. m. on a special train over the Illinois Central.

FUGITIVE FRENCH CRIMINALS TELL HORRORS ON SEA

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

PORT OF SPAIN, Aug. 21.—Within the last fortnight two parties of convicts escaping from Devils island have landed at Trinidad. Both parties fled in open boats, hoping to reach Venezuela, but were driven out of their course for several days, lost their direction, and were forced ashore here in an exhausted condition.

The first boat contained nine men, two being drowned when the craft capsized in a storm. Public interest aroused by their arrival and commital to prison as allen criminals had hardly abated when eight more were driven ashore in a 20 foot boat after 21 days on the sea.

Week Without Food.

Provisions gained with great difficulty gave out when they were 14 days at sea but a small cask of water had lasted until they reached Moruga bay, South Trinidad. The fugitives staggered ashore in a state of collapse and told their story to sympathetic villagers, who provided food.

The haggard, weatherbeaten men said they embarked from Cayenne at night three weeks before in the hope of reaching Venezuela, where they could obtain work. So far as is known no lives were lost in the second party either by drowning or by attacks from sharks.

They ate eagerly of food provided and surrendered without resistance to a constabulary officer who took them in charge. They confessed immediately they were escaped convicts serving various sentences at Cayenne.

Must Go to Jail.

They were conveyed to San Fernando and then to Port of Spain to await appearance before a magistrate. Probably, as with previous arrivals, they will go to prison for three months during communication between the governors of the two islands, after which they will be released if the French governor does not demand their return.

The irony in these episodes lies in that the landing places are less than fifty miles from the coast of Venezuela, where the men hoped to reach, and wind at the time was favorable, beating in that direction. While the prisoners are held here they are not accessible for interviews.

Identify Bandit Slain by Policeman in Father's Store

The body of the robber killed Wednesday by Policeman John A. Connerton of the Irving Park station when Connerton surprised him and a companion holding up and beating his aged father in his grocery, was identified yesterday as that of Walter Jonczyk, 2836 West 35th street. Joseph Thieder, 3515 West 35th street, Jonczyk's companion, is in the Bridewell hospital, wounded in the back and face.

MACHINE GUNS OF BANDITS HOLD VILLAGE AT BAY

Wausa, Neb., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Three men were taken captive, two of them town watchmen, by a quartet of robbers who held villagers at bay with machine guns as they robbed a garage vault here early this morning.

Completing their job, the men, always protected by machine guns, loaded their captives in two cars and drove them 200 miles before tying them to a fence near Waterbury, Neb.

Night Watchman Lloyd Fauvery made an attempt to brush past "guards" stationed outside the garage and was knocked down by the butt end of a pistol. Day Watchman H. A. Bosse came to the aid of Fauvery and was taken captive with Sam Schwerin Jr., a villager attracted to the scene.

A blast of explosives that shattered the vault door brought townspeople to the street, many of them living within a few hundred feet of the garage. A score of men ventured to the scene only to be repelled by the threat of machine guns.

Though the vault was rifled nothing was found in it, the robbers taking $60 from a cash drawer they next destroyed.

The captives succeeded in effecting their release a half hour after the bandits' departure. Today, they were taken to Sioux City, where an attempt was made to identify pictures taken from a rogues' gallery

COMMON SENSE TELLS WOMEN HOW TO CHOOSE THEIR FACE POWDER

Your skin is one of three types—oily, dry, normal. Common sense will tell you that a face powder made especially for your type will bring greater beauty and charm to your complexion.

This is why Plough has created three face powders—a powder for each type—and one was made for you. Try it today! The very first time you smooth it on your skin, you will be thrilled beyond words at the amazing new beauty you see in your mirror.

Each powder comes in White, Flesh, Pink, Brunette and Sun-Tan tints and is sensibly priced wherever beauty creations are sold.

If you are not certain as to which Plough Face Powder you should buy, write Peggy Martin, Beauty Consultant, Plough, Inc., Memphis, Tenn., specifying tint you want, and she will send you free test packages of the three powders.

8 DROWN AS GALE SINKS YACHT OFF ENGLISH COAST

Noted British Member of Parliament Aboard.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Eight persons, including Commodore Henry Douglas King, a Conservative member of parliament, drowned last night as the 22-ton motor yacht Islander was swept on jagged rocks during a violent gale off Lantivet bay, Cornwall.

Commodore King had chartered the yacht for a three weeks' cruise off the Cornish coast. Beside Commodore King those believed to have been swept to death were Commander Sidney Searle, veteran of the battle of Jutland; Capt. A. R. Brailey, honorary surgeon to King George; Capt. Glazebrook; one of Commodore King's three daughters; Harry Lucas, captain of the yacht, and his 17 year old brother, Walter, and an unidentified deck hand.

Hundreds Watch Helplessly.

The vessel was pounded on the rocks and the helpless occupants hurled into the raging sea as a coast guard boat and hundreds standing on the cliff held an impotent watch over the disaster. None of the bodies was recovered today.

There is uncertainty regarding the actual number of victims owing to the statement of one witness that he saw two women floating on an inflated lifebuoy and further assertions that at least one child lost its life.

The witness, who saw the two women in the sea, said, "I believe they were dead. Neither struggled nor shouted. But a man who was near them was still struggling and holding up an arm as if to arrest attention. All three, however, were soon buried in the mountainous seas and I saw them no more."

The vessel was first known to be in distress early last night when flares were seen from the yacht by watchers on the coast. Those aboard the yacht had, it is reported, made the flares by stripping themselves of their clothing and setting it alight.

The Fowey coast guard boat immediately put off in an attempt to rescue the boat. At the same time watchers made a perilous descent down the face of a steep cliff in order to get near the ship which the waves were hurling ever nearer to the rocks. They stood only a short distance from the craft but were helpless to aid. A mountainous wave finally turned over and shattered the craft to bits.

Describe Rescue Efforts.

Witnesses to the tragedy tell a ghastly story of how they could hear the screams of the victims through the roaring of the gale. They threw a rope to the Islander and those aboard managed to tie it to the mast, but the tossing of the vessel snapped it off. One of the men on the yacht then threw a heavier line from the Islander, and this was held by those on the shore while he attempted to pull himself to safety. But heaving of the yacht caused the rescuer to be dragged in the water and nearly drowned. Seeing this, the man who had thrown the rope clambered back into the yacht and this moment the waves turned it turtle. One of the victims was at one time less than three yards away, but it was suicide to attempt to pull him out.

The coast guard boat also shot a life line to the Islander, which, at the time, was dragging its anchor in an effort to escape going on the rocks. No one aboard the craft, however, seized the line, and a huge wave so changed the position of the ship that it was impossible to get near it.

Commodore King had had a distinguished career as a sailor, soldier and politician. He was a sailor until 1899, when he went into law and politics. He saw active service during the world war both in France and at Gallipoli, was wounded, and decorated for gallantry. He became aide-de-camp to King George, Conservative whip in the house of commons in 1921, was lord commissioner of the treasury from 1922 to 1924.

Air Minded Illinois Towns Welcome State 'Sky Riders'

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Decatur, Ill., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Swinging across the fertile farm land of northern Illinois on a zigzag course, the second annual air tour of the Illinois chamber of commerce reached Decatur tonight after inspecting airport development at a half dozen more cities on its second day's flight.

Members of the inspection cruise were impressed by the increased enthusiasm displayed in each of the cities visited today, unusually large crowds greeting the flight all along the route.

Up Early to Greet Caravan.

At Monmouth, the first stop this morning after taking off at Moline, the airport was lined with hundreds of people even though it was little past breakfast time. The Monmouth airport, established since 1920, claims credit as the oldest commercial air field in Illinois outside Cook county. It is progressing in strides with aviation and next month will be fully equipped with flood lights, beacons and signal lights for night flying. It will then be used by the Chicago-Kansas City air mail route as an emergency port.

From Monmouth the caravan of fifteen planes made a ninety mile hop to La Salle, where another eager delegation received the tour. Wayne Hummer, president of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, who resides in La Salle, joined the flight for the remainder of the second day's journey. He was accompanied by L. V. Orsinger, financier, and Walter Duncan, banker. The La Salle airport, while only two years old, includes eighty-six acres of improved landing field, fully equipped with hangars, markings, and weather bureau.

The next jump took the tour to Streator for luncheon, the Streator Chamber of Commerce having prepared a picnic dinner in a park across from the air field. William Waldrip, president of the Streator chamber, welcomed the flight and lauded its purpose in seeking the development of aviation.

From Streator the flight went to Peoria, following the picturesque Illinois river for a long stretch of the way. The Peoria airport is another one of the older air fields in the state, and for several years has been a leader in the state's commercial aviation. Mayor E. N. Woodruff and a delegation from the Peoria Association of Commerce, headed by O. V. Westervelt, vice president, greeted the caravan.

Bloomington was next on the log. H. K. Heblit, banker, and president of the Bloomington Association of Commerce, expressed the official welcome in behalf of the throng which waited for a glimpse of the big tri-motored planes and the assortment of other aircraft taking part in the trip.

German Ace Joins Flight.

Harvey T. Hill, vice president of the Chicago Stock exchange and vice president of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce; Robert Nesbit, representing Reid Murdoch & Co., and Capt. W. P. McFarland, Illinois governor of the National Aeronautic association, spoke concerning the purposes of the tour, fostering all branches of aviation and airport development in particular. They also called attention to the national air races beginning in Chicago Saturday as affording opportunity for witnessing the greatest exposition of aviation in history.

Joining the flight today was C. W. Prillwitz, former German war ace, who was shot down three times before he fell behind the French lines and was taken prisoner. Prillwitz is Chicago manager for an air college.

1 PCT. INCOME TAX SLASH NOT LIKELY TO STAND

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Treasury officials indicated today that they virtually have abandoned hope of being able to recommend a continuance for another year of the 1 per cent tax reduction on normal incomes voted last December as a temporary measure in the emergency created by the stock market collapse.

Unless action to continue the reduction is taken at the short session beginning in December, the tax rates enacted in 1928, one per cent higher on normal incomes, than these being paid this year, will prevail when the next income tax payments are filed next March.

In the opinion of treasury officials the general business situation at this time does not warrant reduction on taxes on incomes earned during the present calendar year. The possibility of a deficit next July if the present rates prevailed was discussed.

Although the question of increasing the 1928 tax rate to avoid a deficit has been discussed in some quarters, treasury officials were of the opinion this would not be necessary. Secretary Mellon was represented today as feeling that it is too early to talk with any definiteness about the tax situation. It was indicated he would go into a full discussion of the subject as well as the relation of revenues to expenditures in his annual report, which will be made to congress in December. Other officials, however, were frankly ready to admit that the hope of again recommending the temporary 1 per cent reduction voted by resolution last December had been almost abandoned.

Notwithstanding the pessimistic views held by some of the higher treasury officials, there is still a possibility that the 1 per cent reduction may be recommended to congress by President Hoover and carried on for another year.

The 1930 fiscal year closed with a surplus of 184 million dollars and at the time he made his report Secretary Mellon expressed the hope he would be able to recommend further legislation continuing the low tax rates.

Reduced customs receipts plus a continuing daily shrinkage in current revenues furnish two of the causes for the feeling at the treasury that the 1 per cent tax reduction may have to be abandoned in the interests of a surplus next year.

FIRE WIPES OUT HAMLET.

Shoals, Ind., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Fire this afternoon practically destroyed the hamlet of Cale, north of here, with an estimated loss of $60,000. The general store, railroad station, and several homes were burned.

EX-CONVICT HELD AFTER KILLING IN GUN BATTLE

Frank Kolka, 25 years old, former inmate of Pontiac reformatory, was held by the police last night in connection with the killing of Anton Anlecki, proprietor of a soft drink parlor, who was wounded fatally yesterday morning in a gun battle with a burglar at his apartment at 8400 Buffalo avenue. Police captured Kolka after they had followed a trail of blood to 8358 Green Bay avenue, a short distance away, where Kolka was found wounded.

Anlecki had kept the money and valuables of a number of his friends stored in the safe at his home, and it was believed the burglar knew of this.

MRS. O'DONNELL INCREASES LEAD IN PLANE DERBY

She Averages 170 Miles on Hop to Amarillo.

Amarillo, Tex., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Aided by a tail wind, Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell of Long Beach, Cal., today added to her lead in the national women's air Derby, from Long Beach to Chicago.

Mrs. O'Donnell averaged nearly 170 miles an hour from Lubbock, Tex., to Amarillo, her elapsed time totaling 42 minutes and 11 seconds for the 120 miles. Mrs. O'Donnell won both legs of today's flight, speeding from Roswell, N. M., to Lubbock in 1 hour 3 minutes and 41 seconds.

Marjorie Doig, Danbury, Conn., in second place, was detained at Lubbock by a flat tire. Miss Doig retained her second place position in total elapsed time.

Aurora Flyer at Tulsa.

Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Jack Livingston of Aurora, Ill., racing from Brownsville, Tex., to Chicago in the class B event of the national air derby, landed at Garland airport here at 3:32 p. m. [C. S. T.] today, after a flight from Oklahoma City.

W. G. Moore of Kansas City, Livingston's only competitor, arrived a half minute later.

Michigan Pilot at Augusta.

Augusta, Ga., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Art Davis, Lansing (Mich.) pilot, who took the lead after leaving Jacksonville early today, was the first of the three Miami to Chicago air derby flyers to land at Augusta. Davis landed at 12:20 p. m.

George Burrell was second to land, followed by Art Killips. They came from Macon.

Five Planes at Syracuse.

Verne Roberts of Moline, Ill., landed at 1:52 p. m., E. S. T., followed by Henry A. Little Jr. of Philadelphia, J. Wesley Smith of Philadelphia, Charles E. Myers of Cleveland and Lee D. Brusse of Moline, Ill.

Mamer Heads to Spokane.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Led by N. B. Mamer, Spokane, five planes racing to Chicago from Seattle arrived here late today from Portland, Ore., to compete the second lap of their flight. Mamer completed the lap from Portland in 2:40:18.

TUNE UP WOMEN'S PLANES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—A half dozen light racing planes which will carry the contestants in the women's Dixie air Derby from Washington to Chicago were tuned up today preparatory to the hopoff from Washington airport scheduled for 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Racing for cash prizes of more than $4,000, the feminine flyers will follow a 1,575 mile route through the south, stopping at frequent intervals and crossing the finish line Tuesday afternoon at Curtiss field, Chicago, where the national air races will be in progress.

Six Will Compete.

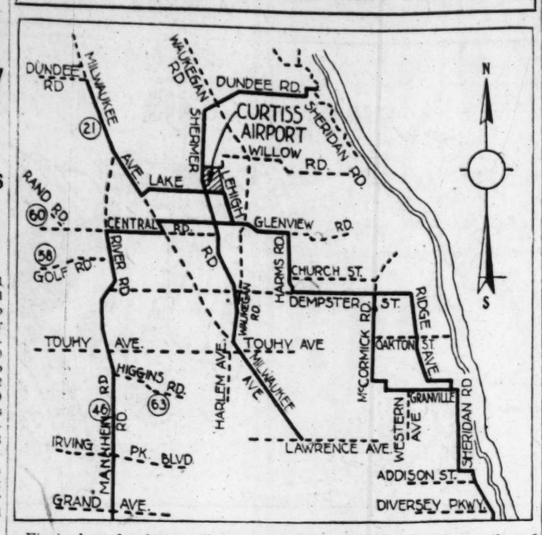
Those scheduled to race and the makes of their planes are: Phoebe Omlie, Mono coupe; Charity Langdon, Avian; Laura Ingalls, Gypsy Moth; Vera Iwan Walker, Inland sport; Nancy Hopkins, Kitty Hawk, and Mary Van Mack, Fleet.

Shortly before the Derby starts Maj. James Doolittle of the army air reserves will take off for Chicago, carrying President Hoover's special message to officials of the races. The former army speed pilot plans to make the 650 mile Washington-Chicago hop without stop. He will deliver the President's message to Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.], president of the Aeronautic association, and it will be broadcast tomorrow night at the association's annual banquet.

ROBS WOMAN STORE MANAGER.

Miss Edna Hoffelder, 32 years old, 4218 North Central Park avenue, manager of a National Tea store at 3947 Irving Park boulevard, was robbed of $87 last evening by an elderly gunman.

AUTO ROUTES TO AIR RACES



Final plans for transporting some 50,000 air race spectators from Chicago to Curtiss airport north of Glenview were completed yesterday by traffic experts and officials of the 1930 national air races opening Saturday.

Those who planned the routes and organized the army of officers to direct traffic are confident that vehicles will move smoothly to and from the race field. While most of the spectators are expected to use the various rail and bus services, many are planning to use their automobiles.

Five main "color" routes have been marked out for automobiles. Colored bands, attached to telephone poles and trees, will guide motorists to the airport from five directions. Each route leads to a parking space. Parking accomodations have been made for 30,000 cars.

Motorists residing along the lake are directed to follow the red route originating on Sheridan road. Sheridan should be taken to Granville and Granville to Kedzie. The route follows two blocks north on Kedzie to Devon and on Devon to McCormick road; north on McCormick to Dempster street, west on Dempster to Harms road; Glenview to Lehigh and Lehigh direct to the airport.

The blue route for the north and northwest sections of the city originates on Milwaukee avenue at Lawrence avenue, following north to Waukegan road, thence to Shermer road, which leads to the airport.

The green route, for residents of the west and southwest side, starts on Archer avenue and continues north on Willow Springs road to route No. 4. This road follows east to Mannheim road, north on Mannheim to River road, north on River to Central road, east on Central to Milwaukee road. Milwaukee road is followed north to Glenview road, east on Glenview to Shermer road and Shermer to the airport.

The yellow route is for motorists between Glencoe and Waukegan. It originates at Dundee road on Milwaukee avenue and follows south on Milwaukee to Lake road and east on Lake street to the field.

The pink route, for motorists north of Waukegan, starts at Sheridan road at County Line road, south on Green Bay to Vernon avenue in Glencoe, thence to Dundee road, west on Dundee to Walters road, southwest on Walters to Shermer road and Shermer to the airport.

BINGHAM HERE FOR NATIONAL AIR CONVENTION

Senator Hiram Bingham, Connecticut's flying senator and president of the National Aeronautics association, flew to Chicago yesterday from Cleveland in a tri-motored Stinson Detroiter. With him were Col. B. F. Castle, president of the Great Lakes Aircraft corporation and governor at large of the association; Porter Adams, former president of the association; and Clifford Gildersleeve, secretary of the Cleveland chapter.

The party arrived to attend the annual National Aeronautical association convention which opens at the Stevens hotel today. Senator Bingham is a candidate for reëlection as president of the association. He will be opposed by Maj. William P. MacCracken, Chicago attorney. Maj. MacCracken was formerly assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics and is head of the New York Rio and Buenos Aires Air lines.

SEIZE $53,000 IN COUNTERFEIT; HUNT GANGSTER

Four Held in Cleanup of Huge Ring Here.

Big Earl Herbert, notorious gangster, beer running pal of Joe Saltis, and a fugitive from justice for two years, was named yesterday as a central figure in the largest counterfeiting ring ever exposed in Chicago.

His connection was disclosed after federal secret service operatives and the police had arrested three men and a woman and seized $53,000 in fake $10 notes. According to detectives, the woman implicated him. Search was immediately started on the south side and in the hideouts of gangland in Wisconsin.

Hunt Two Engravers.

Herbert is wanted to serve a one to fourteen year sentence for assault with intent to murder. He was convicted in 1928 of firing six times at Judson B. Seaman, a watchman, when Seaman caught him stealing from a railroad train. The case was appealed, but when the higher court affirmed the sentence Herbert had disappeared. His $10,000 bond was declared forfeited by Chief Justice Normoyle of the Criminal court last July 18.

A search was under way last night for two engravers and their equipment, believed to be elaborate, because of the excellence of the counterfeit currency. Capture of these men was believed imminent because those under arrest were said to have confessed and disclosed their connections.

Seize Fake Currency in Raid.

The $53,000 in fake currency was found in a raid yesterday afternoon on a flat at 7037 Washtenaw street, where Forest Marvel, an ex-convict with a record for burglary and larceny, was arrested. The arrest of Marvel came about through information supplied by Peter Belasinlz and John McNulty, captured by Rockford police with some of the fake $10 notes in their possession.

Belasinlz and McNulty confessed to passing $28,000 in the fake money in Chicago, according to the secret service operatives.

Chicago police have been notified in the last few days both by the secret service bureau at Washington and by the local agents to watch for passers of counterfeit $10 notes.

Peter Drautzburg of the secret service, who is conducting the investigation, asserted that the ring was "the biggest in Chicago in twenty-five years."

The reproductions were so excellent that an expert might be fooled at first. Close scrutiny with the naked eye, however, revealed a flaw. The tiny sedan under the picture of the treasury building on the real notes contains openings for the windows, while no spaces are left on the fake currency.

PAN-AMERICAN AIR LINE BUYS NEW YORK BUENOS AIRES ROUTE

New York, Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Pan-American airways completed today the purchase of the assets of the New York, Rio, and Buenos Aires lines, and on Sept. 15 will become the largest air transport line in the world, it was announced at the close of a directors' meeting by Juan T. Trippe, president.

By the purchase, Pan-American will operate the largest fleet of multi-motored airplanes and will fly more than 100,000 miles weekly through every country in Central and South America.

The routes followed by both companies combined will establish a complete loop of the perimeter of South America as far south as Santiago and Buenos Aires, and will connect those cities, with all other important centers of Latin-American commerce, to Miami by one unbroken airline for mail and passengers.

CAROL'S EX-WIFE TO BECOME NUN, LONDON HEARS

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 21.—A special correspondent of the London Daily Herald, who accompanied Queen Helene, divorced wife of King Carol of Rumania, through a ward in a hospital near Bucharest today, telegraphed to London that she is contemplating final renunciation of the world and entry into a convent.

"She has attended the hospital regularly for many months," says the correspondent, "and shared with the convent sisters their service to women patients. Doubts and anxieties as to her future have left their traces on the unhappy queen.

"Lately she has been devoting considerable time to religious books and final preparations are being made for the day when she will take her vows. Her decision has been taken and the place chosen."

EUROPE INSISTS POPE IS ILL; 'NO!' REPLIES VATICAN

Pontiff Restricts Number of His Audiences.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Aug. 21.—Reports are again being circulated in Rome that the health of Pope Pius XI. is giving cause for alarm in his entourage and that the pontiff has been obliged to restrict his activities and abandon all idea of even making a short visit to Castel Gandolfo.

These reports have been given wide circulation in the European press during the last few days. It is said that the pontiff is suffering grievously from some form of dropsy. All this is strenuously denied by Vatican authorities, who maintain that the pontiff's health is as usual.

Cuts Down Audiences.

The rumors seem to have arisen from the fact that the pontiff has been holding audiences only on alternate days recently. According to reports he has abandoned his daily walks.

The fact that he has given up the intention of being present at the inauguration of the new Gregorian university has also given rise to reports that the pontiff is able to carry on some of his work, but is obliged to forego any unusual activity.

Pope Smiles at Rumors.

The pontiff himself is said to smile at these rumors of his ill health.

Pope Pius today accorded an audience to Charles P. Taft II., son of the former President, who rejoined his mother on an Italian visit. The audience was semi-private. The pontiff expressed pleasure at seeing the President's son.

MR. GERARD'S 59 RULERS.

Our former ambassador to Germany, Mr. James W. Gerard, has listed 59 persons, who, he says, are the men who really rule the United States. Whether that be so or not, there is no doubt that the list for much the most part is made up of the names of men of great wealth; and the striking fact about the list is that it includes few names which were conspicuous for wealth and power a generation ago.

The old saying was that it took three generations in this country to complete the cycle from shirtsleeves to shirtsleeves. Fortunes are larger these days and families are smaller than they used to be, and it may therefore take a generation or two longer to scatter the great accumulations of capital, but the fact remains that most of our very rich men owe their wealth to their own exertions. The sons of very rich men who are also very rich are fewer in number and by the third or fourth generation the great wealth of the founder of the fortune generally amounts to little more than a handsome competence, frequently tempered by alimony, for his descendants.

The laws in our states against perpetuities and against entails have contributed to this result, of course. In England it has been possible for a family to possess great wealth for centuries because generation after generation the accumulation of property descended to a single individual. The younger sons and daughters were out of the picture. The oldest son inherited not only the title but all the property as well.

In this country the division of estates among children, ordinarily on the basis of equality, has had its effect. Violent fluctuations in purchasing power and in general prosperity, accompanied frequently by financial failures, have contributed to the same end. The softening influence of wealth can also be observed. A sheltered childhood followed by four years at Harvard, Yale or Princeton seems often to weaken the acquisitive sense and send the descendant of the barbarian from the hills into retirement on a Long Island estate. The hills, needless to say, go on breeding their barbarians.

But that is not the whole story. Great wealth in this country, especially in our own era, is achieved in a way relatively unknown, even a few generations ago. It is this attribute of great wealth, perhaps more than any other influence, which makes it difficult, if not impossible, to hand it down with its full complement of ciphers for more than a generation or two.

The medieval idea of great wealth was monopoly. The monopoly was chiefly of land with the right that went with the land of levying tribute. Great fortunes were sometimes won in trade, but they were held precariously. Probably the low opinion held by the hereditary aristocracy in Europe today toward those engaged in trade derives in some measure at least from a sense of frustration, for there was a time when trader fortunes were a more or less legitimate windfall for the knight who happened to see them first. Gold was comparatively easy to move and hide, but unless it was loaned it brought no return and if it was loaned it was more than a little likely to be lost.

The concept of great wealth as ownership of land continued to possess men's minds until our own day. As recently as the middle of the last century the elder Dumas could present Monte Cristo dividing fortunes into three classes of diminishing importance. The first class fortunes consisted of lands, mines, and gilt edged securities worth in all 100,000,000 francs. The second were made up of investments in manufacturing enterprises and corporate securities worth 50,000,000 francs; and the third were fortunes of ten or fifteen million francs employed in speculation.

The sums have not been outgrown as much as the categories. Men of great wealth today own lands and gilt edged bonds, but they own them because they are wealthy; they are not wealthy because they own them. Few of our contemporary fortunes "of the first class" have been made by ownership of land or any other form of monopoly. Most, if not all, of them have been made by discloping to mankind that it needed something that it hadn't known that it needed; or by filling established needs in new and superior fashion. Mr. Rockefeller proved to the world that it preferred kerosene to candles and the world bought kerosene from Mr. Rockefeller. Mr. Ford made the world want cheap automobiles. The fortunes which have been made in steel were not born of a monopoly of ore and furnaces but owe their existence to the creation of a huge demand for steel in modern life, much of it stimulated into being by the men who made the steel. This building up of markets has commonly been accompanied by an improvement in the technique of filling the need thus created so that the product could be cheapened and the market widened.

The great wealth of other days was the product of careful and systematic conservation of established holdings and rights to tribute. The new wealth is the product of a creative mind. The chances of such a mind being duplicated in the offspring can be calculated, perhaps, by biologists, and they are not great. It follows that not even the ownership by the second and third generations of the enterprise which created the fortune will assure the continued flow of wealth from it. The half-wit son of an English earl cannot fall to hand on his properties to his son in all their extent, but the value of any industrial enterprise can disappear in a few years under the pressure of a new discovery or invention or a new technique, just as the talkies doomed the silent movies. It is significant that the picture industry is still pretty largely in the hands of the men who first saw its opportunities and they were shrewd enough to adopt the new technique of sound before it ruined them. It is far from certain that their children would have been equally alert to the danger.

There are no monopolies of the old sort in contemporary industry. Because there are no monopolies there can be no assurance that the source of great wealth given to a son today will be worth nearly as much ten years hence. Hence, the rapid dissolution of our great fortunes and the continual rise of new ones.

THE BAR AND PROHIBITION.

The refusal by an overwhelming majority of the American Bar association convention to smother the prohibition referendum is gratifying entirely apart from any consideration of the merits or demerits of the prohibition experiment. The real issue before the convention was whether the American Bar association ought to express itself upon prohibition.

If prohibition simply involved a question of expediency in government within the frame of our accepted constitutional system it may be conceded that it lies without the special field of the association. But it is far more than that, as we should have supposed even a lawyer ardently in favor of the experiment would admit. It is true that, as asserted by the small group which opposed the referendum, "the retention or repeal of the 18th amendment is a political question involving highly controversial economic and moral issues." But it is also true that it is a question also involving the most fundamental issues of American constitutional principle as well as fundamental issues of the science of law and government.

If it is not only the right but the duty of the American Bar association to express its opinion upon these issues of constitutional and legal principle we know of no other public question of moment which it is bound to speak upon. If the association is to be silent upon any question which involves political action or controversial issues of economics or morals, regardless of the fact that it also involves issues of constitutional principle and legal science, it resembles a trade union rather than the association we think it is.

We are glad and the people of the nation should be grateful that the convention has refused to ignore its privilege and duty to express itself upon the most important departure from constitutional principle since the founding of the republic. To have shirked this duty because the question involves controversial economic and moral issues would have been an act of cowardice. The association and the profession its distinguished membership so well represents is specially fitted to instruct and lead public opinion upon all questions of constitutional principle and upon all questions having to do with our legal evolution or the science of government through law. To withhold its opinion on such questions because they are in politics or because they involve economic or moral controversy would be a deplorable abdication of the bar's responsibility and would refuse to public opinion the benefits of expert advice upon virtually all questions of constitutional principle and government, for virtually all are or will be in politics and virtually all involve, directly or indirectly, controversial issues of economics or morals. Far from absenting itself from the public discussion of such questions, the bar should at all times take a prominent part in them, in order that the public, the press, the legislatures and the courts may have the benefit of its special knowledge and experience.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE STATE'S ATTORNEY.

A civil suit filed in the federal court alleges, among other matters, the following:

That in connection with the purchase of a thousand garbage wagon trailers for which the city of Chicago paid $1,400,000, the manufacturer paid commissions of $500,000 to three Chicago sales agencies.

That those sales agencies were not legitimate dealers.

That at one time the president of the manufacturing company, the Highway Trailer company, told his stockholders that dividends could not be paid because the company had been obliged to pay $500 a trailer to officials of the city of Chicago to get the business.

The evidence in support of these and other allegations has yet to be presented in court. Some denials have already been made. The accusations are so serious, however, that it is plainly the duty of the state's attorney to investigate them.

Editorial of the Day

DROUGHT INSURANCE.

[Cedar Rapids (Ia.) Gazette.]

Drought will cause a loss of approximately $500,000,000 this season. It is a serious economic blow, not only to the agricultural industry but to the nation as a whole, for it is a fundamental principle that the prosperity of agriculture means the prosperity of the entire country.

This nation-wide disaster calls to public attention the fact that agriculture is the only one of the great industries that has not taken full advantage of insurance to protect itself against periodic losses due to natural causes. To be sure, the practice of insuring farm buildings against loss by fire is general, but the chance that his buildings will be struck by lightning or otherwise damaged by fire is one of the farmer's least risks. Burning of isolated country buildings is of rare occurrence and the great majority of farm houses and barns endure through half a century or more without such loss. As evidence of this is the fact that farm insurance rates are moderate and a great deal of such insurance is maintained successfully by small local mutual insurance companies organized among the farmers themselves.

The tremendous calamity brought upon agriculture by the present drought may stimulate general interest in crop insurance, and thus may be not without lasting benefit. Crop insurance has so far developed in certain phases of agriculture and in some sections as to demonstrate its feasibility. The federal farm board with its vast revolving fund coöperating with farm coöperative societies might well attack this problem. Perhaps in no better way could the federal government encourage and assist agriculture.

PRIDE OF POSSESSION.

GINGER JAKE TROUBLE.

THE poisonous ingredient present in the bootleg concoction sold under the name of Jamaica ginger and responsible for the disease jake paralysis baffles the laboratories. It is not that they find nothing. The trouble is they find too much. About a half dozen reports are now available, each finding a poison, but no two agreeing.

The stuff seems to have been slammed together here, there and yonder, and the ingredients going into the mixture were not always the same. The poisons reported as being found are present only in small quantities. These facts have raised the question: Is not the polyneuritis which goes by the name jake paralysis a product of two causes, one laying the foundation for the harm done by the other?

Dr. Goldberger found that pellagra was very prone to develop in whisky drinkers. Whisky drinking causes a disturbance of digestion which, in turn, is responsible for the low vitamin level out of which pellagra develops. The symptoms of jake paralysis are practically those of polyneuritis in pigeons. When pigeons are fed milled rice or other foods very low in vitamin B for a time they are disabled by polyneuritis. When disabled pigeons are fed foods rich in vitamin B they get over their paralysis and are again able to walk and fly.

The suggestion is that, as a result of alcoholism, the nerves are on the verge of developing polyneuritis. When on this level they are saturated by various ingredients found in the bootleg concoction called Jamaica ginger. This may be heavy metals, such as some laboratories report, or phenol bodies, as others say; or unusual alcohols, as others have found; or maybe something else. The toxic substance may not be very poisonous. Perhaps it is ordinarily not poisonous in the doses found. But the combination of near beriberi, due to alcoholism and poison of some sort in the drink, causes a polyneuritis which neither operating separately could have caused.

If this speculation be well founded the treatment which benefits polyneuritic pigeons should have a trial. It consists in giving an abundance of foods rich in vitamin B. Among such foods are: Yeast, whole wheat cereals, freshly ground whole wheat flour, and preparations and foods containing these and also egg yellow, lettuce, and other salads and various salad oils.

FLEAS IN THE CELLAR.

Mrs. E. D. S. writes:

1. Are fleas found in the cellar from cats and dogs?
2. How am I to rid the cellar of them?
3. What is the best liquid to spray with?
4. Why do they appear only in the summer months?

We have a cat that we leave in the cellar at times, and we have had a dog. But some one tells me that the fleas do not come from the animals and are there to stay. The fleas look exactly like the kind that breeds on cats and dogs.

REPLY.

1. They may be. Fleas of several kinds breed in dust. They go on animals to feed. Their animal hosts are graded like railroad stocks: First preferred, second preferred, etc.; for list of terms see Stock Exchange. If first preferred is inaccessible they foreclose on something else.
2. Clean up. Get rid of dust and animals, or rid any infected animal of fleas and be sure to keep it free from them. Spread rugs and cover with naphthalene powder.
3. One that contains naphthalene.
4. They abound only when and where conditions of temperature and moisture suit them.

HOT WEATHER SLEEPING.

C. S. S. writes: I give you a fine hot weather hint. I have spent some years in the tropics and learned how to get refreshing sleep by this method. Upon retiring fill a hot water bag with cold water, as cold as it runs from the faucet, but not ice water, and place it at the nape of the neck to sleep upon. It will cool the blood and calm the nerves, inducing sleep quickly and soundly.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

LEGITIMATE STORAGE PLACE.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—[Friend of the People.]—Can anything be done about the removal of several junk wagons on a lot on West Harrison street? It has become a breeding place for rats. Several children have also been hurt on these wagons since vacation started. We have asked the owner to remove them, but he refuses to do so. G. P.

Report is made that a truck company on Harrison street leased the lot at 2240 for the storage of their trucks and other equipment. There should be no objection to this. It is up to the parents of the children to prevent them from playing there.

JOSEPH J. BUTLER,
Superintendent of Streets.

DIVORCE AND REMARRIAGE.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Did the governor pass a law about eight years ago making all marriages that took place outside of the state legal? 2. Was the law retroactive? The marriage took place in less than a year after the divorce.

E. M. K.

1. It is the legislature rather than the governor that passes laws. A law was passed validating marriages celebrated in violation of the requirement of a year's delay after divorce, but it did not validate all marriages.
2. Yes, but it has not been tested by litigation. We could advise to better advantage if your facts were before us.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

POLICEMAN'S JOB.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—[Friend of the People.]—What is the first step to take to apply for a policeman's position? I am 25 years of age, 5 feet 9 inches tall and weigh 150 pounds. Have been a resident of Chicago for six years.

J. C. T.

Members of this department are appointed from lists obtained by the civil service commission from competitive examinations. The first step is to obtain an application blank from the civil service commission, room 610 city hall. At present there is a large eligible list and an examination may not be held for some time.

JOHN H. ALCOCK,
Acting Police Commissioner.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Tomorrow—and Tomorrow—and Tomorrow!

"Yessir," said the clerk to us yesterday, "all the old brewing companies that have been shut down for years are going ahead right now making arrangements to start up again turning out beer with the same per cent of alcohol it had before the eighteenth amendment." "Do tell!" said we. "Yep," said the clerk, "and a friend of mine who has been up in Milwaukee says all the big breweries there are fixin' up their machinery and getting ready to start as soon as the November election is over." "Great!" said we. "Three rousing cheers!" "Yep," said the clerk. "I've got a notion to throw my beer making outfit outta my cellar right now. No use of my going to all the trouble to make beer when the breweries are going to make it; they got me beat." We left the happy clerk and came on downtown. "There's nothin' to it," a man on the bus was saying. "The alky cookers and the rum runners and the bootleggers are all going to be put out of business. The states are going to begin the manufacture of decent beer and whisky that isn't poisoned. And it all is going to start pretty quick." More important news. Gosh, what had happened, anyhow?

We looked at the paper and saw the big headlines about the Illinois Democrats in convention assembled going solidly wet and declaring for the repeal of the sacred eighteenth, the Volstead act, the Jones 5 and 10, the state search and seizure act, the state enforcement act—the whole works. The clerk, the man on the bus, and a lot of others must have read the same thing. And right away the breweries are going to start running beer tomorrow, and light wines pour musically from the decanters, and Canadian rye and Dewar's Scotch take the place of jake ginger and white mule. We're a wonderful people; one little word of encouragement, a pat on the head, a little piece of candy, a kind word,—and the world is ours.

SWAMP SKETCHES.

I. THE DOCTOR.

Strong as a tree that bends above the mire
Holding the coarse swamp-grasses in its shade,
He stopped awhile in memory and desire
Close to the church, where all his life was laid.
A logger's wife came down the river brink
With two great pails to fill for washing clothes,
A yellow hag . . . but Cathy's cheeks were pink,
And Cathy's laughter sweet as wind that blows
Over a daffodil bed at dusk—and died
So young! Ah, he had done her bitter wrong,
Bringing her here at seventeen, a bride,
To this dark hole—she had not borne it long.
He turned. Her memory left him, and he sighed
As if he heard the closing of a song.

DOROTHY R. KISSLING.

HARVARD says the third successive generation of Harvard men, the ones they've got there now, are bigger than their dads. And we have it on the reliable authority of a young man who attended college at New Haven, Conn., that the statistics are all wet except as regards heads.

WE WERE INEXPRESSIBLY shocked yesterday at the manner in which one of the staid editorials of the highly esteemed Chicago Evening Post handled that old spinach story; you know, the one about mother saying, "Eat your broccoli, darling, it's good for you." "The hell with it," says the dear little girl, "it's spinach." The sweet old Post tells the story this way: "The mother gave the child a dish of greens and said, 'There, my dear, is some delicious broccoli for you.' The child looked at it and said, 'You can call it what you like, but it's spinach and to h—l with it.'" Ah, dear, sweet Evening Post, it was nice of you to attempt to cover that awful word up, but even printing it "h—l" won't keep a lot of people from running around and asking and asking until they find out what it means. Tck, tck, tck!

ON TO RICHMOND!

Everybody's supposed to have either taken a vacation this summer or to be on the verge of taking one. So this colyum is going to vacate about the first day of September. England and Canada call with voices so sweet and seductive that they are hard to resist, but the plaintive pleading of the state department for Americans to stop touring foreign countries and spending more money than all our exports amount to has touched us deeply. With tearful eyes we decided to stay within the U. S. A. this year and see (as the quaint saying goes) America thirst. Ole Miss, the family hack, will journey, we trust, languidly across Indiana and Ohio (tarrying a few minutes in Ohio at Lake St. Mary's, Washington Courthouse, and old Chillicothe), through Marietta, where a short stop will be made to watch Beman Dawes plant trees, and then on to Pennsylvania and the Shenandoah valley of Virginia and points south. Not an especially exciting journey; however, we will be keeping a certain small amount of American gold at home, which, after all, is the object of said trip.

CONFESSION.

Tonight we say, "Come grasp the rose—
The fleeting hour to capture
And let no ponderous wedded vows
Confuse our careless rapture."

But on the morrow—feminine doom—
As sure as skies above me—
I'll telephone and fret and fume
And wonder if you love me.

JUDY SHEA.

LAGNIAPPE.

JIM GERARD, once an ambassador, says there are fifty-nine citizens who rule these United States of America, and he calls 'em by name. But how come, Jim, you leave out Bishop Cannon Jr.? If he doesn't tell us where we get off at, who does? And Al Capone! When you're telling about rulers, Jim, what price Al Capone?

ALL THESE LAWYERS here attending the American Bar association listen to a report from a committee that "we are a lawless people." It isn't so much that we're lawless, but we're this way: "By golly, if that other fellow is going to pull out of line and run past the red light, then I'm a-going to do it, too. I got just as much right as he has."

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 22, 1914.

OSTEND.—The Germans are overrunning north Belgium. They are within a few miles of this city on the coast of the English channel. Fifty thousand of them who marched through Brussels are now at Ghent. The English consul at Ghent has advised all English to leave the city.

PARIS.—Spurred on by their successes in northern Belgium the German forces yesterday began the bombardment of the forts at Namur. Military officials admit that part of Namur has been invested. The officials' statement says that forward movement of the German columns continues on both banks of the Meuse.

LONDON.—Russia has begun an aggressive campaign against both the German and Austrian frontiers, taking the city of Lyck, and moving steadily forward at many points along a line of 680 miles in extent.

WASHINGTON.—Unless there is some turn of events not even remotely discernible, noon, Aug. 23, will see Germany and Japan at war. That Germany must agree to surrender Kiaochow directly to Japan before the expiration of the latter's ultimatum or fight is the unalterable attitude of the mikado's government as made known here by Ambasssador Chinda.

ROME.—Newspapers print this dispatch from Nish, Servia, dated Aug. 21: "The general staff announces the complete victory of the Serbs in a four day battle near Losnitza. Austrians to the number of 150,000 fought an equal number of Serbs. The losses on both sides were enormous."

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 22, 1900.

LONDON.—The flags of the allied powers now float over the imperial palace in Peking after a hard fight lasting some 36 hours. The foreign troops, aided by 4,000 armed native Christians, carried the sacred city on Aug. 17. As in the case of the taking of the Tartar city the walls had to be breached with dynamite. The first details received here of the capture of the Tartar city and the rescue of the legations show that the American troops were the first to raise their flag on the walls. The Americans and Russians scaled the east wall of Peking at 11 o'clock on the morning of Aug. 14. The Indian troops entered the British legation at 1 and the Americans at 3. The emaciated tenants could have lasted but little longer.

BRITT, Ia.—Unless Admiral George Dewey hastens to take out an injunction he is liable to be nominated for the presidency of the United States by the fourth annual hobo convention to be held here tomorrow. At present the nominating committee is making a house to house canvass soliciting food and will take the matter up at a meeting behind Tom Way's woodshed tonight.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 22, 1865.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The military commission, of which Maj. Gen. Lew Wallace is president, convened for the trial of Capt. Henry Wirz, late commandant of the Andersonville prison stockade for Union soldiers. Wirz was brought in between two soldiers and arraigned. The charges are that he maliciously, willfully and traitorously in aid of the rebellion conspired with Robert E. Lee, James A. Seddon, John H. Winder, Lucius H. Northrup, Richard B. Winder, W. S. Winder, R. R. Stevenson Moore, Joseph White and others unknown to injure the health and destroy the lives of Union soldiers held as prisoners of war at Andersonville. The specifications in part allege torture, impure water, insufficient food, and exposure to inclement winter weather and burning summer suns. It is also alleged that Wirz gave orders to guards to kill 300 prisoners by shooting and that he kept ferocious bloodhounds to hunt down escaped prisoners and tear, mangle and maim them. After the arraignment the trial was postponed until tomorrow.

NEW YORK.—It is understood that the sentence of death passed by the military court at Cincinnati on G. St. Leger Grenfell, British subject, convicted of aiding prisoners of war at Camp Douglas, Chicago, to escape, has been commuted by President Johnson to imprisonment for life at hard labor at Dry Tortugas.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

THE LOTUS.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Apropos the article in today's TRIBUNE about the lotus:

The lotus lily of the Nile is pink; the American lotus lily is a creamy yellow. The blossoms, except as to color, are identical. The Nile lily can be grown here in private ponds and water gardens, but is not hardy and must be given winter protection, whereas the American variety is very hardy.

Now as to the statement that the Egyptian lotus is purple. This, no doubt, is an error. According to Bulfinch's "Age of Fable," the lotus referred to did not grow in the water, but near the water—"Near the water grew the lotus plant filled with purple blossoms"—and was not in the strict sense of the word the lotus lily, but the myrtle.

Pope's translation of Ovid reads:

"A lake there was, with shelving banks around,
Whose verdant summit, fragrant myrtles crown'd. . . .
Lotus the nymph [if rural tales be true]
As from Piapus' lawless love she flew.
Forsook her form: and fixing here became

Dryope, a nymph, according to Greek mythology, was turned into a lotus tree because, inadvertently, she gathered the blossoms of the plant sacred to the nymph Lotis [the myrtle].

This, no doubt, is the Lotus referred to in the legend of the lotus eaters.

Webster's dictionary defines lotus thus:

1. Lotus or lotos—a water lily of Egypt.
2. Tree in north Africa, fabled to make all who ate of its fruit forget their homes. [Gr. fotos.]

LOTUS BEDS IN THE OZARKS.

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 17.—Today's TRIBUNE shows pictures of lotus flowers from Grass Lake and mentions their rarity. A trip through lower Illinois into Missouri and Arkansas, through the Ozark mountains will reveal many such beautiful sights of the lotus flower providing one's patience with their poor roads holds out.

MRS. R. A. HUNTER.

LAKE LEVELS.

Lima, O., Aug. 17.—At Wilson, N. Y., on Lake Ontario, I saw a fine home, built some fifteen years ago, whose two foot concrete wall retaining the lawn has been buried by the rising lake. Bathing beaches have disappeared. It would be a vast relief to many people if it were true that Chicago's use of water did lower the lake levels, which we all know it does, and did, not. As a result of a rising lake, in the face of one of the driest seasons on record, the above home has its cellar full of water. We all know that bathing beaches in Michigan have disappeared beneath a rising lake.

ALBERT GRAY.

HARD WORDS.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Your attitude with regard to the 18th amendment has become so much of a nauseating disease to the public that all over the country THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is spotted for its true worth—just a wet joke—nothing to be taken seriously or truthfully.

E. JARR.

THE END OF THE RAINBOW.

Danville, Ill., Aug. 16.—Some days ago the Associated Press carried the news of an American who, residing in Spain, found living conditions there ideal under the total expense of five dollars per week. The following facts may serve to draw attention to the seemingly wanton extravagance of our fellow citizen of overseas.

In Santiago, Chile, a thriving metropolis of almost a million people, are many hotels. Among them is one situated just a block from the most prominent square. At this hotel the rate for transient guests is five pesos per day, with a monthly tariff of one hundred pesos for permanent patrons.

The meals served at this hostelry consist of several courses, and the dining tables are located amid the shade of growing vines and plants of the hotel patio. Santiago is in a noted vineyard district, and wine is included with meals at no extra cost. The present rate of exchange is about ten Chilean pesos to the American dollar and has been such for years, excepting on occasion when it has dropped to twelve to one.

The service and surroundings at this hotel are all that one could desire, and a number of Americans from the mines often put up there. So then, with reference to the low cost of living, it can be seen that board and room here comes to the munificent sum of ten dollars per month. However, should you contemplate taking up your residence in this locality, it would be advisable, before packing up your effects, to arrange your budget in accordance with the fact that the cost of a ticket to Valparaiso, the port of Santiago, comes to the sum of two hundred and fifty real dollars.

T. H. SIMPSON.

THE VOLCANO SITTERS.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Your today's cartoon, "The Volcano Sitters," was great and in reading these horrible disclosures one wonders where are the honest people? Have we no men, real men, who are immune from the glamour of gold; who will rely on their integrity, self-respect, honor, and honesty to fulfill their duties in office without bribe?

Have these fine men vanished from our view?

When we consider the causes of the downfall of Greece and Rome, does it not make us pause and think? Are we not plunging this nation down to the same oblivion? Luxury, idleness, emotination of the middle classes, licentiousness, graft, and dishonest politics brought about the downfall of ancient cities.

WPDC.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—I understood that no one but the police department was able to receive WPDC broadcasts, but I have been able to receive this station every since they started. In fact, they are so loud they cut in on other stations near them. I am wondering if this is unusual or if it is common for people to receive these broadcasts. E. ADAMS.

A NOISY POLICE STATION.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Every night from 1 a. m. to 5 a. m. there is loud, noisy, turbulent talking from within the Summerdale police station, thereby disturbing the peaceful slumbers of the neighborhood. This loud, turbulent talking is done by the police officers themselves.

WATCH CHICAGO
LAKE DIVERSION EFFECT ON RIVERS

Army Engineers to See
It Aids Navigation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—New data regarding the effect of the Chicago water diversion on the levels of the Illinois and upper Mississippi rivers will be made available to the war department as a direct result of the action of Secretary of War Hurley in permitting a larger flow from Lake Michigan as a drought relief measure.

Officers of the corps of engineers said today that a close check will be kept of water gauges on the lower Mississippi river and on the depths of the Illinois river to determine the effect of the increased water flow. The diversion through the drainage canal has been increased from approximately 8,200 feet at Lockport to 10,000 feet. The war department permit now allows a withdrawal of 6,500 cubic second feet and an additional 1,500 feet is taken by Chicago to supply the domestic situation.

Arouses Much Controversy.

There has been much controversy over whether the Chicago water diversion has contributed to the navigability of the upper Mississippi river. War department engineers in some cases have gone so far as to state that the effect of even a 10,000 cubic foot diversion on the Mississippi river was negligible.

A noticeable effect has been recorded, however, on the lower Illinois. The resident army engineer at Chicago reported in 1924 that a diversion of 8,000 second feet increased the depth of the Illinois river five feet at La Salle, 2.2 feet at Beardstown and 1.3 feet at Grafton.

Maj. T. Q. Ashburn, chairman of the government owned inland waterways corporation, always has scoffed at the idea that a large water diversion at Chicago had no effect on the depth of the Mississippi river immediately below Grafton. On all occasions when low water conditions affect the Mississippi river the inland waterways corporation office receives telegrams from large operators urging an increase in the diversion.

Fixed Annual Diversion.

"There is no doubt in my mind," Maj. Gen. Asburn said today, "that the Chicago diversion affects navigation on the Mississippi during low water periods. We need an increased flow during times of low water. At other times a smaller amount will suffice. A fixed annual diversion would be permitted us a maximum flow during low water periods would help us."

Maj. Gen. Ashburn said he would inquire of army engineers as to the effect caused by the recent diversion increase.

HOOVER TO DISCUSS WATERWAY PROJECT AT RAPIDAN CAMP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Inland waterway development with special reference to the priority in which various projects will be completed will be the subject of a conference between President Hoover and war department officials during the coming week-end at the Rapidan fishing camp. The St. Lawrence waterway project, now awaiting Canadian approval, also will be discussed by the President, Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, and Hanford MacNider, newly appointed minister to Canada.

The Chicago water diversion in so far as it affects navigation on the Illinois and Mississippi rivers and Canadian approval of the St. Lawrence seaway will be one of the subjects taken up. Canada, thus far, has delayed action on the St. Lawrence, partly at least, because she desired a settlement of the diversion question before reaching a final agreement with the United States for construction of the seaway.

The Presidential party will leave Washington late tomorrow and spend Friday night, Saturday, and Sunday at the Hoover fishing retreat. Guests invited by the President and Mrs. Hoover include Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of engineers, Mrs. MacNider, and a number of other friends.

Haenisch Files Court Decree to Get His Name on Ballot

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 21.—(AP)—State Senator Herman J. Haenisch today filed with the secretary of state the decree of the Cook county Circuit court ordering the state canvassing board to place his name on the ballot this fall as candidate for state senator in the 31st senatorial district. Haenisch's nomination was contested by Herbert W. Auw.

FLOUR RACKET IN NEW YORK IS BARED AT QUIZ

Thugs Are Hired to Hold Price Control.

New York, Aug. 21.—[Special.]—The price of New York City's "staff of life" is controlled by a vicious ring of racketeers whose profits must be figured in millions of dollars and who practice felonious assault against those who attempt to buck the gang's dictum of "bigger profits," it was announced today at the attorney general's inquiry into food profiteering.

The revelation was made when a new line of investigation was started by state authorities. It has now added flour to milk and eggs as the foodstuffs whose prices are high because of "unscrupulous racketeers."

Just how much tribute this ring, operating through an organization of truckmen and another combination of jobbers, exacts from the city is still a matter of conjecture. That it runs into high figures is indicated by witnesses who testified that the truckmen's association alone, through a 66 per cent boost in the cost of carting flour, is collecting between $1,050,000 and $1,575,000 a year.

Paying High Prices.

Under the questioning of Assistant Attorney General William B. Groat, flour jobbers admitted that consumers here are paying one of the highest prices, if not the highest price, for bread in the country, at a time when flour is selling in the wholesale markets at its lowest price in sixteen years.

A dramatic turn was given to the state's investigation when the prosecutor told Referee John R. Clark, in charge of the food inquiry, that racketeers have penetrated into the hearing room and have intimidated witnesses. Mr. Groat attributed to threats of harm the face the gist of the testimony of many witnesses can be summed up in the words, "I don't remember."

At least one witness was told that he "would get hurt" if he said anything, Mr. Groat revealed.

Referee Clark ordered the inquiry closed hereafter to the public. Representatives of the press from now on will represent the general public at the investigation.

Richter Called Organizer.

The day's inquiry brought to public attention for the first time a man who was described as a "king among racketeers." His name is Daniel Richter and half a dozen witnesses told Mr. Groat that he is responsible for organizing the two combinations of flour truckmen and flour jobbers which are said to exercise "price fixing control" of that commodity in this city.

One witness accused Richter of directing five "guerrillas" in an attack with iron clubs on a member of a trucking firm who refused to join Richter's activities. The prosecutors called Richter to the witness stand, but would not question him when he refused to sign a waiver of immunity. State authorities believe they have already obtained sufficient evidence upon which to get an indictment against Richter.

It was established that Richter and his associates get at least $105,000 a year. Witnesses revealed that truckmen are required to pay one cent tribute for each barrel of flour that they cart in this city. As 10,500,000 barrels of flour are trucked each year, the one cent tribute amounts to $105,000 annually.

Shoots Estranged Wife, Then Kills Himself

Louis Henderson, 25 years old, a laborer, last night walked into the rooming house of his estranged wife, Mary, 1420 Wentworth avenue, Chicago Heights, shot her twice in the chest, then killed himself with a bullet in the neck. Mrs. Henderson was taken to St. James' hospital, Chicago Heights, where it was said she would die.

CHRISTINE BAUMANN.
[Reick Photo.]

Miss Christine Baumann, 22 years old, 279 Linden avenue, Wilmette, arrested yesterday for speeding by Policeman Elmer Higley of Evanston, announced as she was leaving the station that she would "have to drive twice as fast now to Chicago, as I have an important date." She will appear this morning before Police Magistrate Harry H. Porter.

VICEROY OF INDIA RECEIVES GANDHI TERMS OF PEACE

Will Meet Envoy of Jailed Leader.

SIMLA, India, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Viceroy Lord Irwin today received a letter from Mahatma Gandhi, carried by Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and Mr. Jayakar from Poona jail. The viceroy indicated he would see Mr. Jayakar soon.

The letter was understood to contain the Mahatma's terms for cessation of the civil resistence campaign in connection with which many hundreds of congress volunteers now are in prisons throughout India.

Is Result of Parleys.

The communication was written after conferences among the congress leaders, including Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, the Pandits motilal, and Jawarhalal Nehru and the two moderates who instituted the parleys for peace.

It was made public today that the result of the Poona conferences would be considered by the all-India congress committee at Delhi next Tuesday.

Reveal Boycott Peace Terms.

BOMBAY, India, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Leaders of the all-India national congress today published the terms on which they are prepared to call off the boycott of European managed cotton mills.

The first of the conditions is that 75 per cent of the capital of each mill be Indian; second, that two-thirds of the directors be Indian and recruitment of staffs be restricted to Indians; third, that stores bought for mills be as far as possible Indian; fourth, that banking and insurance be placed with Indian firms; fifth and last, that nobody connected with the Mill Owners' association shall conduct propaganda hostile to the Nationalist movement, or undertake activities on behalf of the government.

The last stipulation is intended as a bar to European members of the staffs enrolling as auxiliary military forces which are sometimes called to assist the police. One firm is said to have accepted the terms, but a general adherence is not expected.

Police Charge Crowds.

AHMADABAD, India, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Nine women and 20 boys were lodged in jail today after a nationalist demonstration in front of the government school for girls. Many persons were injured when police charged the excited crowd.

C. P. KENNING STRUCK BY AUTO; CRITICALLY HURT

Banker Run Down as Son Looks On.

Charles P. Kenning, 64 years old, vice president of the First National bank, was struck and critically injured last night by an automobile as he was crossing Ridge avenue at Howard street within the Chicago city limits.

The banker's son, Walter Kenning, who was waiting at the corner to meet his father, witnessed the accident. The motorist, Reuben Darkling, 5039 North Lincoln street, and young Kenning lifted the banker into Darkling's car and took him to the St. Francis hospital, Evanston. Surgeons said Mr. Kenning's skull was fractured.

Rogers Park police, after questioning Darkling and other witnesses, considered the accident unavoidable and released Darkling with instructions to hold himself available should Mr. Kenning die. Prior to the merger of the Union Trust company with the First National recently, Mr. Kenning had been with the Union Trust for 43 years.

Two Killed; Driver Captured.

A hit and run driver, later captured, last night caused the deaths of 7 year old John Hoffman Jr., and his father, John, Sr., 7734 South Michigan avenue. Mrs. Louise Hoffman, the mother, escaped.

The Hoffmans had alighted from a westbound 63d street surface car at State street. They were walking across 63d, with the green traffic light, when a Lincoln sedan, northbound in State, bore down upon them. Mrs. Hoffman leaped to safety, but her husband and son, walking hand in hand, were struck by the left fender and hurled twenty feet. Young Hoffman, his skull fractured, died without regaining consciousness. His father died at the German Deaconess hospital several hours later.

Admits Being Driver.

Witnesses caught the number of the car, and Woodlawn police went to the home of Michael Domyonits, 40 years old, 5659 South Union avenue. He admitted being the driver of the car, but said he did not remember hitting any one. The police say he was intoxicated. He is being held for the inquest.

William Nelson, 35 years old, 730 North Dearborn street, a laborer. Died at the county hospital from injuries received on Aug. 2 when struck by a hit-and-run driver at Dearborn and Superior streets.

Judge John H. Lyle in Town Hall court yesterday found Mrs. Bernice Day, former wife of the late Darby Day Jr., guilty of driving while intoxicated despite the fact that 5 witnesses denied the charge. Sentence was deferred until Aug. 27.

POLICE WRECK 12 LIQUOR DENS IN INDIANA CITY

Use Ax and Demolish All Equipment.

Anderson, Ind., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Mayor Jesse H. Mellet and Chief of Police Alvin Riggs led a police squad of a dozen picked men today in wrecking twelve liquor and gambling dens, five of which were in the heart of this city's business district. The officials said another wrecking party would follow later.

The police, armed with sledge hammers, axes, and picks swooped down on the alleged law violators and proceeded methodically to destroy doors, windows, bars, ice boxes, cases, and partitions. Then along came employés of the city street department, who piled the wreckage in trucks and hauled it away to the city dumping grounds.

The raids attracted hundreds who followed the officials from one location to another, many of them cheering the wreckers on.

Mayor Mellett said that operators of the places wrecked were within their rights if they wished to sue the city for damages but he declared that "we will raid them again and again in exactly the manner employed today if they install new equipment."

Mayor Mellett is a brother of Don Mellett, vice crusading editor of Canton, O., who was murdered by hoodlums a few years ago, after he waged a newspaper war against lawlessness.

Second Bomb Is Exploded, Wrecking a Coffee Shop

A bomb was exploded for the second time within three months last night at Gorman's Coffee shop, 166 West Kinzie street. The place was closed at the time. The door and windows were wrecked. The damage was estimated at $300. The place was formerly known as the K. & W. lunchroom. The East Chicago avenue police are investigating.

LOVE AFFAIR IS BLAMED IN GIRL'S DEATH

Tell Effort to Forget at Cocktail Parties.

After what a friend described as a vain attempt to mend a broken heart in a round of cocktail parties on a visit to Chicago, Miss Margie Angermeier, 27 years old, of 38 East 85th street, New York, died yesterday in the Illinois Central hospital. Death was attributed to an overdose of a narcotic taken early Monday in her room at the Stevens hotel.

A coroner's jury in returning a verdict yesterday at the inquest at the undertaking rooms at 415 West 63d street was uncertain from the testimony whether Miss Angermeir's death was caused by suicide or accident.

Witnesses at the inquest said a disappointment in a love affair with an "English nobleman" was responsible for alcoholic neurosis from which Miss Angermeier was suffering. From the testimony of William W. Wood, 153 West 57th street, New York, vice president of the Guyton Manufacturing company, and his friend, Thomas J. McIntosh, a salesman living at the Palmer house, and of hotel officials, a history of the last ten days was pieced together. Both Wood and McIntosh had escorted Miss Angermeier about the city. Her sisters, Lillian and Edna Angermeier, who hurried here from New York, had little testimony to offer.

Miss Angermeier had left New York ten days ago to keep an engagement with Wood, whom she had known for several years, at the home of mutual friends in Buffalo and Detroit. The couple then came to Chicago. That night there was a cocktail party at the home of Miss Dorothy Troup, 222 East Chestnut street, Wood said. He said Miss Angermeier had planned to return to New York that night, ut instead she left the party with two men unknown to him. He found her next morning in her room lying on the floor in her evening dress.

"Last Sunday Miss Angermeier made reservations again on a train for New York," Wood testified, "but she refused to leave when McIntosh and I took her to the station. She had been drinking. McIntosh took her to the Stevens hotel."

McIntosh testified that he left her there after telling the house detective, George Reynolds, to watch her and not allow her to leave the hotel. But Miss Angermeier slipped out returning about 5 a. m. in a dazed condition. Reynolds helped her to her room and called Arthur M. Clark, night manager. The two watched the girl's window from a corridor, they testified, and saw her throw a small bottle out the window, return to the bathroom and drink something from a glass. She turned off the lights. A house maid was then called who found Miss Angermeier unconscious.

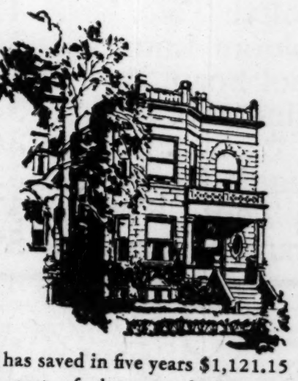
COAL · HEAT · COSTS · LESS

$1121.15 Saved in 5 years by Coal Heat



UNLESS you have money to burn, burn coal. Your savings from coal heat will be proportional to William Ryan's. To heat his two apartment building of thirteen rooms at 4337 West Adams Street, he burns twenty-four tons of coal a year. He pays $8.00 a ton—on the average—$192.00 each winter.

The same number of heat units from the fuel next in cost to coal, would cost him $416.23 a year, after figuring the depreciation on equipment and the expense for current and service.

The only other kind of fuel available in Chicago would cost, including rental for burner and installation, $735.73 a year for an equal amount of heat.

Mr. Ryan has saved in five years $1,121.15 from the cost of the second fuel and $2,718.75 from the cost of the third.

• • • Sleep while the fire wakes

Besides its savings, coal heat is the safest, evenest, quietest heat you can buy. With the inexpensive addition of thermostatic control, it regulates itself, warming the house before you awake.

To be sure the coal you buy is honestly graded and weighed, buy from a member of the Chicago Coal Merchants Association. His pledge of full weight is backed by the guarantee of the Association.

COAL HEAT GIVES MORE B. T. U's. PER DOLLAR

In burning one dollar's worth of fuel C you get 463,737 B. T. U's. (heat units)*

*Figures based on average prices and burning efficiencies of fuels, determined by Julian C. Smallwood, Johns Hopkins University, and the United States Government. They include conservative estimates on equipment and operation.

Some War Dance!

Pop hasn't got much of a chance trying to kill mosquitoes this way, because they can fly faster than he can. As soon as he settles down for a nap, they will come out and start Pop on his war dance all over again. Entirely unnecessary.

Be comfortable and safe. Keep your home insect-free. Spray Flit, which is guaranteed (or money back) to be quick-death to flies, mosquitoes, moths, roaches, bed bugs and other household insects. Yet its clean-smelling vapor is harmless to humans.

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS.

Dr. Clement, vicar of a country village in England, at luncheon tells his wife, Griselda, and young nephew, Dennis, who lives with them, that any one who murdered Mrs. Protheroe would be doing the world at large a service. The colonel enjoys making himself unbearable for his daughter, Lettice, and his second wife, and fusses about the running of his parish. He suspects that there are defalcations in the church accounts and is going over the next evening to go over them with the vicar. Griselda, nearly twenty years younger than her husband, refuses to take anything, including the parish, seriously. Four of the female parishioners call at the vicarage in the afternoon for tea and gossip. The vicar, returning from parish visits, stops in at the studio on the vicarage grounds occupied by Lawrence Redding, an artist for whom Griselda is sitting, and is shocked to discover the artist and Mrs. Protheroe in a passionate embrace. He retreats and his study followed by Mrs. Protheroe.

INSTALLMENT V.

DESPERATE LOVERS.

Mrs. Protheroe was a brown haired woman with a pale face and very large and gray eyes. She was flushed now and her breast heaved. It was as though a statue had suddenly come to life. I blinked my eyes at the transformation.

"I thought it best to come," she said. "You—you saw just now?"

I bowed my head.

She said very quietly: "We love each other. I suppose to you that seems very wrong?"

"Can you expect me to say anything else, Mrs. Protheroe?"

"No—no, I suppose not."

I went on, trying to make my voice as gentle as possible:

"You are a married woman——"

She interrupted me.

"O! I know—I know. Do you think I haven't gone over all that again and again? I'm not a bad woman really—I'm not. And things aren't—aren't as you might think they are."

I said gravely "I'm glad of that."

She asked rather timorously:

"Are you going to tell my husband?"

I said rather drily:

"There seems to be a general idea that a clergyman is incapable of behaving like a gentleman. That is not true."

She threw me a grateful glance.

"I'm so unhappy. O, I'm so dreadfully unhappy! I can't go on. I simply can't go on. And I don't know what to do." Her voice rose with a slightly hysterical note in it. "You don't know what my life is like. I've been miserable with Lucius from the beginning. No woman could be happy with him. I wish he were dead. . . . It's awful, but I do. . . . I'm desperate. I tell you, I'm desperate."

She started and looked over at the window.

"What was that? I thought I heard some one? Perhaps it's Lawrence."

I went over to the window which I had not closed as I had thought. I looked out and looked down the garden, but there was no one in sight. Yet I was almost convinced that I, too, had heard some one.

When I reentered the room she was leaning forward, drooping her head again. She looked the picture of despair. She said again:

"I don't know what to do. I don't know what to do."

I came and sat down beside her. I said the things I thought it was my duty to say, and tried to say them with the necessary conviction, uneasily conscious all the time that that same morning I had given voice to the sentiment that a world without Col. Protheroe in it would be improved for the better.

I could speak far more plainly to Redding than I could to Mrs. Protheroe, and I did so.

Above all, I begged her to do nothing rash. To leave her home and her husband was a very serious step.

I don't suppose I convinced her. I have lived long enough in the world to know that arguing with any one in love is next door to useless, but I do think my words brought to her some measure of comfort.

When she rose to go she thanked me and promised to think over what I had said.

Nevertheless, when she had gone, I felt very uneasy. I felt that hitherto I had misjudged Anne Protheroe's character. She impressed me now as a very desperate woman, the kind of woman who would stick at nothing when her emotions were aroused. And she was desperately, wildly, madly in love with Lawrence Redding, a man several years younger than herself. I didn't like it.

I had entirely forgotten that we had asked Lawrence Redding to dinner that night. When Griselda burst in and scolded me, pointing out that it lacked two minutes to dinner time, I was quite taken aback.

"I hope everything will be all right," Griselda called up the stairs after him. "I've thought over what you said at lunch and I've really thought of some quite good things to eat."

I may say in passing that our evening meal amply bore out Griselda's assertion that things went much worse when she tried than when she didn't. Her menu was ambitious in conception, and Mary seemed to have taken a perverse pleasure in seeing how best she could alternate undercooking and overcooking. Some oysters which Griselda had ordered, and which would seem to be beyond the reach of incompetence, we were unfortunately not able to sample, as we had nothing in the house to open them with—an omission which was discovered only when the moment for eating them arrived.

I had rather doubted whether Lawrence Redding would put in an appearance. He might very easily have sent an excuse.

However, he arrived punctually enough and the four of us went in to dinner.

Lawrence Redding has an undeniably attractive personality. He is, I suppose, about thirty years of age. He has dark hair, but his eyes are of a brilliant, almost startling blue. He is the kind of young man who does everything well. He is good at games, an excellent shot, a good amateur, and can tell a first rate story. He is capable of making any party go. He has, I think, Irish blood in his veins. He is not, at all, one's idea of the typical artist. Yet I believe he is a clever painter in the modern style. I have very little of painting myself.

It was only natural that on this particular evening he should appear a trifle distrait. On the whole, he carried off things very well. I don't think Griselda or Dennis noticed anything wrong. Probably I should not have noticed anything myself if I had not known beforehand.

Griselda and Dennis were particularly gay—full of jokes about Dr. Stone and Miss Cram—the local scandal! It suddenly came home to me with something of a pang that Dennis is nearer Griselda's age than I am. He calls me Uncle Len, but her Griselda. It gave me somehow a lonely feeling.

I must, I think, have been upset by Mrs. Protheroe. I'm not usually given to such unprofitable reflections.

Griselda and Dennis went rather far now and then, but I hadn't the heart to check them. I have always thought it a pity that the mere presence of a clergyman should have a damping effect.

Lawrence took a gay part in the conversation. Nevertheless I was aware of his eyes continually straying to where I sat, and I was not surprised when after dinner he maneuvered to get me into the study.

As soon as we were alone his manner changed. His face became grave and anxious. He looked almost haggard.

"You've surprised our secret, sir," he said. "What are you going to do about it?"

I would speak far more plainly to Redding than I could to Mrs. Protheroe and I did so. He took it very well.

"Of course," he said when I had finished, "you're bound to say all this. You're a parson. I don't mean that in any way offensively. As a matter of fact, I think you're probably right. But this isn't the usual sort of thing between Anne and me."

I told him that people had been saying that particular phrase since the dawn of time and a queer little smile creased his lips.

"You mean every one thinks their case is unique? Perhaps so. But one thing you must believe."

He assured me that so far—"there was nothing wrong in it." Anne, he said, was one of the truest and most loyal women that ever lived. What was going to happen he didn't know.

"If this were only a book," he said gloomily, "the old man would die—and a good riddance to everybody."

I reproved him.

"O, I didn't mean I was going to stick him in the back with a knife, though I'd offer my best thanks to any one else who did so. There's not a soul in the world who's got a good word to say for him. I rather wonder that first Mrs. Protheroe didn't do him in. I met her once years ago and she looked quite capable of it. One of those calm, dangerous women. He is blustering along, stirring up trouble everywhere, mean as the devil, and with a particularly nasty temper. You don't know what Anne has had to put up from him. If I had a penny in the world I'd take her away without another word more ado."

City's Divorce Rate Lowest on West Side

While Northern Section Leads in Cases.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Engaged couples who are altar bent well may stop, look, and listen to the information Thomas O. Wallace, clerk of the Circuit court, has to offer on the hazards to marital happiness revealed in the divorce statistics of Cook county for July, 1929, and July, 1930. The tabulation, the first of its kind, is based on districts and was made public yesterday.

It reveals, among other things, that the safest part of Chicago, matrimonially speaking, is the west side of this city; that the 31st ward, located therein, is currently the most auspicious for honeymooners, not a single divorce having been obtained within its precincts during the entire month of July this year. And that by the same token the 48th, 1st, and 44th wards respectively should be shunned by Dan Cupid's devotees—the casualty rate within their borders being highest in the county.

If it's a tossup between city and suburbs in which to establish the home and fireside, Mr. Wallace, after a peek at his chart, would unequivocally recommend the rustic existence. For, sad to say, city life seems to be just about twice as fraying on the tie that binds. Approximately, in proportion to its population, Chicago had double the number of divorces last month that the suburbs reported. Incidentally the July totals of divorces for Cook county jumped from 359 during 1929 to 388 for 1930—an increase of 8 per cent. Chicago, with about 85 per cent of the county's population, supplied 92.1 per cent of the broken marriages, while the country towns, with about 15 per cent, received only 7.9 per cent of the decrees.

In proportion of its population by the 1930 census, the north side of the city had more divorces than either of the other two divisions of Chicago. With 730,689 inhabitants, or 21.8 per cent, of the population, it reported 87 decrees signed, or 24.3 per cent of the total divorces granted. The west side, with 1,306,879 persons, making 38.7 per cent of the population, had 124 decrees, or 34.7 per cent of that total. On the south side are 1,335,164 persons, 39.5 per cent of the population, in which number 146 divorces, or 40.9 per cent, were granted.

Comparison with the records of July, 1929, however, indicate that only the north side failed to reveal an increase in the divorce rate over last year's figures, when it also led the other two sections. On the basis of population, the north side in 1929 had 50 per cent more decrees signed than the west side, and three times as many as the suburban towns.

Comparing the July, 1930, divorce totals by wards, it was discovered that the Forty-eighth [north] has 21 at the rate of .32 per 1,000 population. The First [south] was second with 9 divorces and a rate of .29 per 1,000. Third place was rated by the Forty-fourth [north] with 14 decrees and a rate of .24 per 1,000. Yet Melrose Park, a western suburb, nosed out the Forty-fourth with only 3 divorces during the month, because its percentage was .28 per 1,000.

Churchly Evanston rated a count of .11 per 1,000 population during July of this year with 7 decrees signed. In proportion to its population Evanston had a trifle more than two-thirds as many divorces as Wilmette, which reported 2 for a rate of .15 per 1,000. Oak Park had about half as many as Evanston—4 in all, with a rate of .06 on the same basis.

During the same period in 1929 neither Wilmette nor Evanston had a single marital court dispute. But Oak Park at the same time severed the bonds of 6 couples, and Melrose Park freed one. Twenty-one suburban divorces were granted during the month in 1929, and 31 in 1930.

In the city the Sixth ward ranked in fourth place and the Fifth ward in fifth place, the Sixth ward having 14 divorces and a rate of .22 per 1,000, and the Fifth 15, with a rate of .20 per 1,000.

And in case you're superstitious, the "unlucky" Thirteenth ward was the only one to have but one divorce during July, this year.

Mencken Obtains License to Wed Baltimore Writer

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Henry L. Mencken, for years literary spokesman of the bachelors, today went to the city hall and obtained a license for his forthcoming marriage to Miss Sara Powell Haardt, Baltimore and Montgomery, Ala., writer. The announcement of the engagement was made several weeks ago and the wedding was set for Sept. 3.

MANCHESTER WOMAN TELLS BRITISH CLERICS ABOUT BIRTH CONTROL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Woman's opinion on the birth control storm in Great Britain, was heard in the modern churchman's conference at Oxford today. Mrs. J. L. Stock of the Manchester birth control clinic said:

"If you interfere drastically with the physical side of life, it may destroy the other purposes and very seriously upset the whole balance of married life. You may impose rigid reserve and restraint on emotional expression, and have distinctly unfortunate psychological results.

"The problem is how to check the use of contraceptives where there is not legitimate need of them and to check the use of wrong methods by those who are entitled to use contraceptives."

For Full Living.

New York, Aug. 21.—[Special.]—All work and no love and intoxication makes middle-aged Jack a dead man, according to Dr. Eugene Lyman Fiske, vice president of the Life Extension institute, who advocates a judicious mixture of the three.

Mr. Fiske sailed today on the French motorship La Fayette after making a few well-chosen remarks about the deplorable and increasing tendency of middle-aged men to shuffle off this mortal coil.

Intense living, he said, has made deep inroads on the lives of middle-aged men, so insurance companies are beginning to be shy of large policies on the lives of men who have passed 39 years.

"I would be the last to suggest slowing down," Dr. Fiske said. "Life has to be lived and nothing is gained by abandoning action. An interesting and constructive life, even if it is short, is perhaps well worth the price.

"Man has three outlets, intoxication, love, and work. The chief American outlet is work. Through love man may gain leisure. It is a good check on both intixocation and work. It's not a bad idea to mix the three about evenly."

Dr. Fiske said that prosperity undoubtedly was in part responsible for speeding up of life, but he doubted that the passing of prosperity would change the alarming mortality among the middle-aged.

Chicago to Be Scene of a Movie, "New Morals"

William Powell, sophisticated and cynical motion picture detective, will arrive in Chicago this morning to make sequences for the first picture filmed here since Edwin Balmer's "That Royle Girl." A studio crew under the direction of Director Victor Schertzinger spent yesterday locating scenes depicting this city's art and business life. The new film, it is said, has no element of the underworld and it's called "New Morals."

Child's Letter Brings Chance to See Hoover

Girl and Brother Get Through Crowd.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21.—(AP)—President Hoover today held up the reception of many callers to grant a special audience to smiling Gertrude Ann and Billy Windsor, who came all the way from Tyler, Tex., to see the executive and nearly lost out.

Gertrude, who is 11, with pretty chestnut curls, and her brother Billy, 3 years her junior, drove up to the White House with their parents. While the mother and father waited in the lobby, Gertrude and Billy went to see Secretary Akerson.

They gave him the following letter:

"Dear President Hoover:

"Billy and I came all the way from Tyler, Tex., to see you and now they tell us that we can't see you because the senators we know are away from Washington.

"I don't blame you for not wanting to shake hands with so many people, but isn't there some way we could just see you before we leave. I am 11 and Billy is 8.

"We have begged mother and daddy for nearly a year to bring us here and I'm afraid we won't get to come back for a long, long time.

"GERTRUDE ANN WINDSOR."

The President was shown the letter and immediately granted the children an interview and sent them away happy with autographed pictures of himself. Neither Gertrude nor Billy were shy when confronted by newspapermen.

"We enjoyed it fine," the little girl said, with a smile.

Billy was beaming, too, and when asked what the President talked about, replied:

"O, he told us a lot of things. He told us about a dog he got from the south pole—or maybe it was the north pole—and it was so warm for him here that whenever the ice man came around he used to sit on the cakes of ice."

California Man Is Elected President of Evangelists

Soviet Thrust Fatal to Dying Samarkand, City of Tamerlane

SAMARKAND, Soviet Republic. —(AP)—Once called "The Rome of Asia" for its ecclesiastical learning and piety, and "The Athens of the World" for its art and culture, ancient Samarkand today is a dying city.

It has been a dying metropolis for 500 years, but the recent closing by the soviet government of the many mosques and schools of divinity of Tamerlane's once proud city, together with the bolshevists' destruction of private trading, seems to have hastened its death agony. With the exception of a few scattering bazaars and a few privately owned tea shops, Samarkand today is only a giant tombstone over the ruins of its great past.

Its 105 mosques, 14 medresses, six Jewish synagogues and 91 mekteps are closed or are in ruins, and communism and materialism are displacing the old religion and spiritual fervor.

Trading in the old city seems to be confined to the street hawking of bread, vegetables and small wares by impoverished natives. The only other places where the visitor finds any life are the "bakhchisaral" [tea shops], where the native Uzbekistans, Sarts, Turkomen, Kirgiz, Kazaks, and Tadjiks sit on their haunches, Chinese fashion, day and night, sipping green, sugarless tea, puffing hubble bubble pipes, carousing and retailing the tittle tattle of the town.

Located in the center of a great caravan route connecting China, India, Afghanistan, Persia, and Russia, and lying in a well irrigated and fertile area, Samarkand possesses vast commercial possibilities, which the existing soviet regime has been quick to seize. But the government is confining its activities and improvements to the new city of Samarkand, which is about three miles from the old capital and which was founded by the czarist regime in 1871.

As Samarkand now is the capital of the soviet fostered republic of Uzbekistan, whose area is almost twice as great as that of the New England states, but whose population is less than that of New York City, the soviet authorities have converted one of the old palaces of the czarist regime into a parliament and government house. Here those descendants of Genghis Khan and Tamerlane who have embraced communism, make the laws and direct the policies of the new soviet state which has been built upon the ruins of the old empire of those mighty warriors.

COIFFEURS OF FRANCE ACT TO PREVENT VICTORIAN COYNESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 21.—The feminine neck will be bare this year and the hair will be cut close to the head, it was solemnly decided this afternoon by the French federation of master coiffeurs holding an annual convention here.

While not advocating a boyish bob and other extreme fashions in coiffeurs, a blow was dealt to timid efforts to revive long hair. Long clinging evening gowns and the general tendency towards the revival of romanticism of dress resulted recently in the hybrid fashion of wearing the hair down on the neck, either brushed back loosely or giving a manlike effect or gathered in a loose knot. A few even developed fancy curls and fluffs hanging down the neck, recalling the coy, languishing beauties of the pre-Victorian era.

All of this is doomed. Not only will the necks be seen in public this year but fluffs, and windblown waves will be frowned upon. The French coiffeurs pronounced favor for the neat carefully arranged styles in hairdressing presenting a brisk, modern profile.

Tomorrow Is Visitors' Day at Ft. Sheridan; Parade Is on Program

Visitors day will be celebrated tomorrow by the 2,000 youthful student soldiers attending the citizens' military camp at Fort Sheridan and the day will be devoted to drill and entertainment while military exhibitions will be staged to demonstrate the efficiency attained by the men in three weeks training.

In the morning there will be a regimental parade reviewed by Mrs. Ellen F. White, mother of Lieut. Donald W. White, for whom the camp this year has been named. In the afternoon the troops will give a series of physical and military demonstrations. The day's program will conclude with an interstate football game between Wisconsin and Illinois on Patten field.

It was announced that a majority of players on both teams have played on either high school, college, or are athletic club stars.

Margaret De Mille, Movie Director's Daughter, to Wed

New York, Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Margaret De Mille, daughter of William C. De Mille, director of motion pictures, is engaged to marry Bernard Fineman, an associate producer employed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, it was learned here today. Miss De Mille is quoted as saying she will marry before Christmas and then will do no more stage work.

Miss De Mille, who is stopping with her mother here, is said to have fled from Hollywood because she did not wish news of her engagement to become public at present and feared that the news would get into print if she stayed in the intimate atmosphere of the motion picture colony.

York's Duchess Mother Again; Child Is Girl

Grandfather George V. Gets the News.

GLAMIS, Scotland, Aug. 22.—(AP)—King George's only daughter-in-law, the duchess of York, in Glamis castle tonight gave birth to a daughter, her second child. She was born between 9 and 9:30 p. m.

The baby is another heir-presumptive to the English throne. In the line of succession she stands fourth, following her uncle, the prince of Wales, her father, and her four year old sister, Princess Elizabeth. Had the child been a boy, he would have taken precedence over Princess Elizabeth in the order of succession.

The royal mother and the little princess are "making highly satisfactory progress," an official bulletin from the gray old castle stated.

News of the birth was immediately flashed by telegraph to King George and Queen Mary, who are staying until tomorrow at their Norfolk estate of Sandringham. The rulers quickly sent back messages of congratulations to the duke and the duchess. On Saturday they will journey to Scotland to see their new granddaughter.

The baby is the fourth grandchild of the king and queen. The others are Princess Elizabeth and the two sons of Princess Mary, countess of Harewood.

Nurse Beevors, who attended the duchess and Princess Elizabeth, was with the duchess tonight. Dr. David Miles, who with Sir Henry Simson, noted London obstetrician, assisted at the birth, has attended the duchess since her childhood. He is the family doctor of her parents, the earl and countess of Strathmore.

By telephone, telegraph, and cable the tidings were flashed to the empire and the world at large. Everywhere loyal subjects of the crown breathed with relief, after an anxious three weeks of waiting, during which the baby was expected daily.

The duchess and her little daughter are lying in her childhood bedroom. A heavy rain beat against the mullioned windows.

Outside, while the little princess was being born, there was a night of wild weather, with whipping rain, thunder and lightning—a hurly-burly of the elements such as that of which witches of Macbeth spoke.

London Gets the News.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Official telegrams were received in London tonight from John R. Clynes, home secretary.

One telegram was addressed to the lord mayor of London, whose function is to announce a royal birth to the citizens. In the absence of Sir William Waterlow, on vacation, the deputy lord mayor had this telegram framed and posted on the front of the mansion house:

"I have great satisfaction in informing your lordship that her royal highness the duchess of York was safely delivered of a princess at 9:22 p. m. this evening."

On behalf of London, the deputy lord mayor immediately dispatched a message of congratulation to the duke of York, assuring him "the citizens of London are delighted."

Another dispatch was received by the home office and posted at the main door. The war office also received notification by telegram. Its duty is to arrange the firing of an artillery salvo in accordance with custom when a baby in line of succession to the throne is born.

The salvo will be fired tomorrow.

Fact, Legends Mingled.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Another British princess was born tonight. There will be some disappointment in England that King George's fourth grandchild is not a boy, as the prince of Wales, the heir apparent, is not yet married. Princess Mary, who married outside of royalty, has two sons, but they are far removed from possible succession.

THE TRIBUNE correspondent understands that the new princess will be given the name of Margaret—an old Scottish royal name. The child was born during a thunderstorm and in the right wing of the castle where "the ghost of Glamis" is said to walk. She is the first member of the royal family to be born in Scotland in more than 300 years. In line for succession to the throne the new princess ranks fourth, immediately following her elder sister, Princess Elizabeth.

Secretary Clynes attested the birth in accordance with constitutional practice due to an ancient British custom started in troublous times.

German Music Wins Applause of Ravinians

BY HAZEL MOORE.

Ravinia's operatic menu was given an added seasonal zest last night by a wide departure from the usual fare of full length opera, or two of one act. In this case the brilliant fourth act of Meyerbeer's "Les Huguenots," enlisting the services of Yvonne Gall, Giovanni Martinelli, Giuseppe Danise, and Leon Rothier, as well as the entire chorus, augmented for the occasion by the full roster of conscripted second principals of the company, took secondary position to the more unusual feature of the evening.

This was a recital and concert program of compositions by German composers, wherein that most gloriously gifted soprano, Elizabeth Rethberg, was presented to Ravinians as a recitalist to grow rapsodical over, and the Chicago Symphony orchestra appeared in more accustomed but never staled position of a great symphony orchestra.

The evening utilized three conductors, Eric DeLamarter as the sterling symphony conductor that he is known to be; Wilfred Pelletier as the accompanying director for Mme. Rethberg with both orchestra and piano, and sharing deservedly the tumultuous applause that greeted the singer after each excerpt, and Louis Hasselmans, who functioned at the baton for "Les Huguenots."

Judging by the plaudits of the public, the greatest satisfaction of the evening lay in the opportunity to hear Rethberg in the glory of such selections as the prelude and Liebestod from Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde" and a group of seldom heard songs of unusual beauty by Joseph Marx.

The fourth act of "Les Huguenots" is so musically meaty that one can well understand the enthusiasm of the performers toward it. Concerned with royalist plots and plans for massacre, this art contains all the thrills that the operagoers of Meyerbeer's day, and possibly tof today, thrived upon. In any event there were plenty of thrills in the performance, the feminine and bright voiced Valentine of Yvonne Gall joined with excellent blend to the trumpet throated Martinelli in the long and difficult duet that closes the act, the sturdy dignity of the song of Danise and Rothier, and last, but not least, the impressive chorus of the blessing of the swords by the entire ensemble. To Conductor Hasselmans belongs the credit for a brilliant performance.

Girls Develop Faster than Boys in Many Ways

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A booklet on sex education will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

It is quite a question among child psychologists just how you can talk over their difficulties with children.

Some noted men believe that even rather young children can be shown where they are out of tune—that they can be made conscious of their place in the scheme of things. For myself—I believe one would have to tread very carefully and very, very skullfully to uncovering a child's own motives to him, though I know children have an infinitely greater capacity for understanding than we give them credit for.

There is one thing, however, that I know I should explain if I had a son and a daughter very close to each other in years—the boy a little older—and both of high school of even college age. Especially would I explain it if both went to a co-educational institution.

The thing I would explain to them—fur the good of both the daughter and the son—is this: That until they have become entirely grown up, boys and girls do not develop at the same speed. Girl babies speak earlier, for instance, than boy babies. I would explain that girls usually develop mentally faster than boys, just as they develop faster physically and mature earlier. These things show in their studies, in the very way in which they carry themselves, and in their social life. That is, we don't expect as much of a boy of 17 as we do of a girl of 17.

It would help a great many boys and girls both to know this. Often in school girls outstrip boys of the same age in every department—or a sister a little younger will surpass her brother. This frequently causes comparisons, serious jealousies, friction in the family—and often a loss of confidence in himself by the youth.

It he knew it is normal for girls to develop faster than boys—that it is a law of nature, and that in the right time each will attain his or her mental and physical growth, it would clear the air. It would keep the boy from straining to keep up and from feeling inferior if he didn't, while it would keep the daughter from feeling superior. As a result it would help to make possible real friendship between the two, based on understanding and so without competition.

A Friend in Need

Cripple Wants Typewriter.

"When camping a short time ago I met a 15 year old girl who lives in the country. She is a cripple and can get around only in a wheel chair. She told me how much she wants a typewriter so I promised to write to you about it. If you know of some one who has one which is no longer being used, she would be so happy to get it.

"MRS. R. W."

Having a typewriter to operate would lessen this unfortunate girl's sense of helplessness. Perhaps you have an old one which could be renovated for her.

Family Sleeps on Floor.

"I know of a family who, because of the unemployment of the father, have been unable to make payments on furniture. Today the company took away the two beds, and the mother, father, and two children are sleeping on the floor. Do any of your readers have bedsteads they could offer to this family? We will appreciate anything we may be able to get for them.

"C. K."

If you are planning to invest in new furniture soon and are disposing of the old things, you may be able to put an end to the discomfort this poor family is suffering. A bed or two would help a great deal.

Girl Who Won't Swim, Play Bridge or Hike, Rates Double Zero

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The most unpopular girl at the summer place at which I spent a couple of weeks recently was the one who couldn't do anything—and wouldn't try.

She was about 22, good looking, and dressed as well as any of the other girls.

She put on her bathing suit, I suppose, because it was a pretty one, and splashed around a little in the water. She never tried to swim. Did not even try to holler for help and have the good looking young beach guard come to rescue her. She could not play bridge, and didn't want to learn. She spent endless energy and time powdering her nose and touching up her lips. Wouldn't be a bit of a good sport about going on the picnic hikes, and you couldn't get her on a horse.

She had a flair for necking, it seems, from rumor, but even at that she didn't get much opportunity to exhibit her skill. Just a dud, as one of the boys labelled her. Not much of a dancer. What she expected to get by on with the competition of modern vital, active and healthy girls who inhabit our summer play spots was certainly beyond the boys.

Naturally, there was no personality to put the indigent one over with. There never is with people who take no active interest in the things that contemporaries are engaged in.

Young women who want to get anywhere with the opposite sex, these days, have to be more than decorative. Too many competitors have similar advantages, pictorially and sartorially. They have to be right on the job every minute with every branch of sport and amusement that is offering. They may not have to be champion swimmers, or golf or tennis players, but they profit handsomely in a popularity way if they are good enough at such things to enter into the games with vim and gusto. Every girl should know how to do some one thing exceedingly well, and be as proficient at as many others as she can possibly become.

Every new interest she adopts brings her in contact with other young men, extending her opportunities, naturally. If one can do no more than sit around and dab one's nose or carmine one's lips and make eyes she is out of luck in this particular age of feminine accomplishments.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER.

What to use for edging plants in flower gardens proves a puzzle to many home gardeners in the Chicago area. One garden on the south side at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Baer at 8113 Eberhart avenue, reveals a unique plant in respect to its use as an edging—it is that of the pansy.

Lengthy borders around a sunken pool as well as around several banks of up flower beds for iris, gladioli, and similar bedded flowers have been filled with a luxuriant green border of planting parsley. This plant has solved the problem of keeping rain from washing soil from the sunken garden which was too low to permit drainage by tile into sewers. The border is thick enough to retain the banked-up soil within the individual beds.

Suggestions on suitable edging plants include sweet alyssum, probably the most common; blue lobelia, especially useful in edging small beds, borders, or along walks; the Kenilworth habit which may or may not be suitable to various gardens; the blue dwarf ageratum, another annual.

Among the perennials which may prove useful in edging gardens next year are the "thrift" or Armeria maritima, with little green tufts; the nepeta mussini, more commonly known as catnip; and the plantain lily, which flourishes with less direct sunlight than most other perennials.

Sight Seeing.

One day a very close friend of mine came from a little town out west. I suggested that we go bus riding and I felt like a "big shot" pointing out all the important buildings and stores. As we passed a tall building my friend asked me what that was. "O," I said confidently, "that's the Wrigley building." You can imagine my embarrassment when a man in back of me informed we that it was the Tribune Tower.

Ellen Stuart Makes Plans for Wedding

BY THALIA

As soon as they returned from their summer trip to Europe, Mrs. John Stuart of Hubbard Woods and her daughter, Miss Ellen Stuart, plunged into the detailed task of making plans for the latter's wedding to George A. Poole Jr., to take place on Sept. 20.

Miss Stuart has assembled the feminine share of the bridal party and Mr. Poole expects to have his best man and ushers selected in a few days. Miss Stuart's sister, Mrs. Barrett Scudder (Joan Stuart) is, of course, to be the matron of honor, and Miss Lesta Morse of Montclair, N. J., a schoolmate at Farmington, is to be maid of honor.

Mrs. Louis Sudler (Mary Barnes), Miss Betty Poole, the bride's prospective sister-in-law; Miss Emily Otis, and Miss Louise Lackner are to be the bridesmaids.

The service is to take place at the Winnetka Congregational church, and a reception at the Stuart residence is to follow. The bride and groom-to-be have decided on their wedding trip destination, but they "aren't telling," and they are in the midst of making up their minds as to where they are to live. The dates for the prenuptial parties have not yet been taken up.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Couch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira J. Couch, and Alfred Norval Mitchell of London, whose wedding is to take place on Sept. 9 at St. Luke's Episcopal church in Evanston, followed by a reception at the Couches' residence in Glenview, have also completed the list of their wedding attendants. Miss Beatrice Ripley, whose marriage to Frank Allen Baker Jr. is set for Sept. 27, is to be maid of honor, and the bridesmaids include Miss Eleanor Atterbury of Wyckoff, N. J., and Miss Jane Righter of Helena, Ark., classmates of Miss Couch at Smith.

Matthew Baird of Ardmore, Pa., is to be best man for Mr. Mitchell and the ushers will be the Hon. E. J. Stanley of London, who will arrive with Mr. Mitchell on Aug. 30; Mason Hammond of Boston, William A. Coolidge of Magnolia, Mass., and Miss Couch's brothers, Ira Jr. and Jack.

Two of the large yachts that are members of the fleet of vessels that anchor in Chicago's "front yard" are returned from cruises in northern waters. Burt A. Massee's Margo and the Gaddy, owned by Frederick H. Rawson, are again to be seen at anchor. They are moored in the harbor north of the Navy pier when the weather is fine, and are moved to the Monroe street harbor when Lake Michigan acts up. The Margo cruised to Detroit and then through the north channel and into Lake Superior, stopping for a few days at the Neil C. Wards' camp in Batchewana bay. The Rawsons have returned from a trip of several weeks in Georgian bay. Commodore George Woodruff and his guests aboard the Romance and Gene Macdonald's party on the Mizpah are in and around Georgian bay now, and are not expected to return for a few weeks.

The Robert Dickinsons of Lake Forest have as their guests at their summer place at Hyannisport on Cape Cod Mrs. David Marquis Pope, also a Lake Forester, and her son, Arthur. They will cruise on the Dickinson's motor yacht, the Lenza, to see the trial races for the Lipton cup at Newport.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wheeler have departed from Watch Hill, R. I., and were in New York City for a few days the early part of this week. Mr. Wheeler has returned to Chicago and Mrs. Wheeler is to arrive tomorrow morning.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen Haines have been heard from by Chicago friends from Baden-Baden, where they are taking the cure. They are to return to this country and their New York residence in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Gara of 1350 North State parkway and their son, Alfred O'Gara, are at the Biltmore hotel in Santa Barbara, Cal., for a several weeks' stay. They had been traveling through the Canadian Rockies before their arrival in Santa Barbara.

ENGAGED

MISS VIRGINIA M. ROCHE.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Roche of 1725 Jarvis avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Marie, to Wayne Blow, son of Mrs Mae Blow of 5731 Winthrop avenue. Miss Roche and Mr. Blow attended Northwestern university. The wedding will take place in early fall.

MARRIED

[Du Bois Photo.]

Announcement is made of the marriage on Aug. 16 of Miss Elsie Mago, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Mago of Oak Park, to James R. Husband Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Husband will reside in Berwyn after Oct. 1.

Letters Good, Says Sally, Who Reveals Winners on Sunday

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

I've read your letters, Marx Brothers' fans, and I've chosen the writers of the best ones to be my guests when we see "Animal Crackers" at McVicker's theater on next Thursday. Good letters they were, too, making it a trifle difficult for your hostess to decide which of you are the most anxious to see and hear this talkie.

The letter which I am printing below should be sufficient proof of this for it's a sample of what I have received:

"Dear Sally Joy Brown: The true comedian is a blessing to mankind. He makes 'troubles vanish like bubbles,' escorting one into an oblivion of mirth. Since the Marx Brothers consist of four true comedians the joy they transmit is quadrupled.

"Few relish a hearty laugh as much as I. Hence my ditty, 'A good laugh each day, keeps depression away.' If I have the good fortune of seeing 'Animal Crackers,' I am positive I will be furnished with enough hearty laughs to last me two months.

"I have seen the 'Four Cocoanuts,' in which the Marx brothers also played. Their wit touched the dullest sense of humor. Throughout the whole performance I rocked with laughter until tears flowed from my eyes. 'Animal Crackers' is heralded as a much cleverer and more humorous picture so I have just cause in assuming I shall enjoy it even more.

"S. S."

SOCIETY NOTES

Among the passengers on the S. S. Bremen, which sailed from New York City on Wednesday night for Europe, was Mrs. Noble Brandon Judah of 2450 Lake View avenue and Lake Forest.

Mrs. Hugh J. McBirney, who also has been at Baden-Baden, is expected to return to Chicago quite soon after a long stay abroad.

ACADIANS RECALLING BANISHMENT FORGET OLD HATE OF BRITAIN

GRAND PRE, N. S., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Here on the shore of the Basin of Minas several hundred descendants of the Acadians have visited the landmarks left behind when their forebears were expelled by the British. Today the descendants of Evangeline's people were returning to their homes in Canada and points in the United States as far distant as Louisiana.

On this day 175 years ago the French Acadians left the shores of Nova Scotia with bitter and despairing hearts, while the smoke from their burning homes clouded the skies. Today their descendants departed with friendliness and admiration for their hosts.

"If there is any enmity today let us bury it beneath the shadow of this cross," pleaded A. T. Le Blanc of the Supreme Court of New Brunswick, dedicating a shrine and museum erected on the site of the little church of St. Charles in the village of Grand Pre.

Today the Louisiana group, including a party of girls wearing the Norman caps and kirtles of Evangeline's day, were guests of the Nova Scotia government in Halifax.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Mr and Mrs. Herbert Lloyd and Mr. and Mrs. Burton N. Jackson will leave for Newport as the guests of Mrs. Lloyd's father, Charles A. Munroe, on his yacht, Rhea III., to witness the cup contender trials.

Mrs. Theodore A. Baldwin gave a luncheon yesterday for her daughter, Mrs. Bernard Austin Moran, who returned from Europe recently; Mrs. Hampton Gary of Washington, D. C., and Miss Violet Heming.

Mrs. Charles F. Darlington Jr. is at the Rantoul cottage, at Ipswich, Mass., visiting Mrs. Robert Gould Shaw II.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Invitations were issued today by President and Mrs. Hoover for a garden party on Tuesday, Aug. 26, at 4:30 p. m., at the White House, for the foreign delegates who now are attending the American Bar association's meeting in Chicago. They will arrive here that morning for a three days' visit, also as guests of the American Bar association.

Postmaster general and Mrs. Walter F. Brown left yesterday by motor for Atlantic City to visit Mrs. Brown's mother, Mrs. George Hafer.

William R. Castle Jr., acting secretary of state, gave a luncheon today in the Pan-American Union building in honor of Kantiba Gabru and Lij Malaku Beyen of Ethopia, who are here on special missions.

Mrs. N. B. Dial, wife of a former senator, gave a luncheon today included Mrs. Pat Harrison, wife of a senator from Mississippi; Mrs. Hugh S. Cumming, Mrs. James M. Fechet, Mrs. O. Owsley, Mrs. Robert A. Cooper, Mrs. Edward K. Campbell, and Mrs. Robert M. Gates.

Judge Mary O'Toole presided at the dinner tonight at the Willard given by the Women's City club in honor of the women entrants in the Dixie derby.

WEDDINGS

The marriage of Miss Helen McPike, daughter of Eugene F. McPike of 5418 Woodlawn avenue to Willard W. Strahl of Princeton, N. J., took place at the Thorndyke Hilton chapel of the University of Chicago last Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and was followed by a wedding dinner at the Windemere East.

The Rev. Milton D. McLean, a classmate of the groom at McCormick seminary, and now assistant to Dean Charles W. Gilkey of the university, performed the service. Miss McPike was a piano pupil of Alfred Cortot in Paris and of Artur Schnabel in Berlin. It was in Berlin that she met Mr. Strahl who was doing graduate work at the University of Berlin. Mr. and Mrs. Strahl are to be at home in Princeton after Sept. 1, and Mr. Strahl is to begin his work as instructor in philosophy at Princeton this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Irwin of 7100 Greenview avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Helen Dorothy, to Edmond Wendell Hebel, son of Judge and Mrs. David A. Hebel of Aledo, Ill., on Saturday, Aug. 16.

CHAS. RUGGLES, LUMBER AND SALT BARON, IS DEAD

Eccentric Michigan Millionaire Was 84.

Manistee, Mich., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Charles Ruggles, 84 years old, eccentric millionaire lumber and salt baron, died at his home here tonight. He had been ill but a short time.

Coming to Manistee when he was about 22 years old, Ruggles started in the lumber business. He had large holdings of land and timber in the old lumbering days of Michigan which made him more than a millionaire. Later he held property in Florida, on the Pacific coast and in other parts of the country.

When the timber was cut, Ruggles turned to salt and founded the Ruggles & Rademaker Salt Co. His partner in this enterprise was John H. Rademaker, first hired by Ruggles as an office boy. Last December the partnership was dissolved when Rademaker sued Ruggles for $5,000,000. The case was settled out of court, Rademaker getting stock in the salt company to the value of $344,000, as well as timberlands in South Carolina and California.

At the time of the suit Ruggles' fortune was estimated at about $50,000,000. His only known relative is a brother in upper Michigan.

Despite his great wealth, Ruggles continued to live in his office building on Manistee's main street until his last illness. Here he scrubbed the floors, canned fruit for winter use, and made great quantities of candy for distribution to the children each Christmas.

In 1912 Ruggles founded the American Judicature society, of which Judge Harry Olsen of Chicago accepted the chairmanship. In 1926 Ruggles was thanked by the late Chief Justice William Howard Taft for his service to the courts through the organization.

MARION, LAST OF FAMOUS TERRY SISTERS, DIES; 73

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Marion Terry, the last of the four Terry sisters, who were celebrated on the Victorian stage, died here this morning at the age of 73. She had been an invalid for some months.

Marion ended her stage career in 1923, playing in W. Somerset Maugham's "Our Betters." This farewell appearance was made just fifty years after she made her debut at Manchester. Although her fame was eclipsed by the brilliance and popularity of her sister Ellen, Marion was London's favorite ingénue in the gay nineties.

In her long association with the theater, Marion played with most of the noted actors, including George Alexander, Forbes Robertson, Henry Irving, and Herbert Tree. Ellen died in 1928, and the other two sisters, Kate and Florence, died some years before.

Dr. Morris Miller Wells, Ex-Chicagoan, Dies in West

Word was received here yesterday of the death Tuesday in Beverly Hills, Cal., of Dr. Morris Miller Wells. He was 45 years old. He was a member of the staff of the department of zoölogy of the University of Chicago from 1915 to 1919. He was also founder of the General Biological Supply house and was known for his research in animal behavior, ecology, and physiology. He lived in Palos Park for many years. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Edith Bradley Wells, and four daughters.

VAN RENSSELAER, CAPITALIST, DIES IN HEART ATTACK

New York, Aug. 21.—[Special.]—William Stephen Van Rensselaer, capitalist, former diplomat, and member of one of the oldest families of New York, died suddenly of heart disease here today. He was staying temporarily at a New York hotel. Mr. Van Rensselaer, who was 44 years old, made his home in Washington, D. C.

Born in this city April 7, 1886, son of the late Killaen and Olivia Aterbury Van Rensselaer, he received the bachelor of arts degree from Yale and also attended New York Law school.

In 1908 he went to Lisbon, Portugal, to serve as clerk of the American legation. He soon returned to this country, and in 1909 was one of the incorporators of the Equitable Safe Deposit company of New York. In 1915 he joined the first training regiment at Plattsburg, N. Y. During the next three years he served as third secretary of the American embassy at Rome. He was an engineer in the officers training corps in 1918. He retired from work after the war.

Caroline Kirkland Estate Valued at $71,000 in Will

The will of Miss Caroline Kirkland, Madame X of THE TRIBUNE staff, was admitted to probate yesterday by Rudolph Desort, assistant to Probate Judge Horner. The will disposes of personal property valued at $71,000. The bulk of the estate is left in trust to two sisters, Mrs. Victor Channing Sanborn of Lake Forest and Mrs. G. F. M. Annis of Cape Town, South Africa. Eleven other relatives, including her brother, John W. Kirkland of Johannesburg, South Africa, are bequeathed $1,000 each. Miss Kirkland died Aug. 10.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

Young Women Find Cold Water Is the Best Astringent

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Young women need not be concerned about what astringents to use to preserve the beauty of their complexions. They need be no more interested in astringents than they are in medicines for ailments that they no longer suffer from.

Cold water is the best astringent there is. And plenty of it, too, for the young. But until the late twenties one need not be concerned about astringents unless one has coarse skin or a blemished one and an astringent is recommended by a specialist familiar with the skin condition.

The ambition of an astringent is to tone up relaxed tissue, to act upon the enlarged pore openings and your normal skinned young woman has not these things to contend with. If her skin is oily, she may wipe the face with alcohol or witch hazel [alcoholic preparation]. Alcohol is astringent. But if the skin is dry or normal she had better keep away from the astringent preparations. They have a place in the scheme of the complexion beautiful. There are enough older women and oily skinned girls to provide the astringent making trade with all the clientele they need.

A most conscientious facial operator suggested to me the other day that a word of caution to the young is necessary in regard to astringent usage. In their zeal, they overdo and are in danger of drying the skin too radically.

For older sister, aunty and mamma, the astringent feature of facial care is recommended.

The young ones, from 16 to 25, we'll say, ought to give their complexions a chance to thrive on a good diet; a soap and water daily régime with the cold water conclusion absolute, plenty of exercise, sleep, and fresh air. The more of these beauty ingredients they mix up for their complexions, the longer will they be able to abstain from the repair measures, including astringent property usage. The operator referred to reports the case of a 22 year old whose mother has pounded skin preservation thoroughly into her daughter's head. Overuse of astringents has dried her skin noticeably.

South Parks Let Contract for 2,500 Foot Lake Wall

The south park board yesterday awarded contracts for the construction of a stone breakwater, extending 2,500 feet northwest from 67th street, which will cost $202,000. The breakwater is necessary to prevent a repetition of high water damage, which cost the park board thousands of dollars last winter. The board also authorized the advertising of bids for the construction of a wall, to cost $35,000, to protect Shedd aquarium.

Hold Funeral Rites Today for Nelle Van Santford

Funeral service for Miss Nelle Van Santford, for 36 years a teacher in the Lafayette public school, will be held at 10:30 a. m., today, in a chapel at 720 Lake street, Oak Park. Miss Van Santford, who lived at 910 North Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park, died Wednesday after an illness of two weeks. She leaves a sister, Mrs. Ethel Eisele.

Architect of Buckingham Palace's New Front Dies

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Sir Aston Webb, noted architect, died in his London home today after a long illness. He was 81 years old. Among Sir Aston's best known works were the new front of Buckingham palace and the admiralty arch at the east end of the Mall.

Test this new tint! Know the "Symphonie" skin-tone!

It's so new . . . so important with current fashions . . . so different from anything ever known before in cosmetic arts! "Symphonie" is the subtle new face powder that's blended to the underlying flesh-tones . . . soft, translucent tints which are essentially the same in both blonde and brunette. For years, women have been "coloring" this natural complexion-tone with pale and unnatural face powder, but "Symphonie" brings a new and natural loveliness.

New Paris Hats Turn Other Cheek.

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The new hats are one of the most exciting features of the styles revealed to the public during the Grande Semaine. They are full of surprises; there is no counting upon them at all. You look at them from one side and they seem large, but when they sweetly turn the other cheek you see in reality they're small.

Practically all the new hats follow asymmetrical lines. Paris creators hate the monotony of the even brim except for hats that are designed as sun shades.

Materials are as varied as lines. Velvet, picot, felt, even wood, are combined with embroidery, braiding, ribbons, plumes, flowers, and feathers.

The third hat, shown at the bottom of the sketches, is from Rose Valois. It's in black velvet, cut far up over the right eye, while the left one is completely overshadowed by the turn back brim, which slopes down to almost hide the left cheek. It's trimmed by velvet ribbons in blue and beige knotted round the brim at its narrowest point and softly draped around the crown to the left side, where they finish in a bow.

You will notice that hats are being worn farther and farther back on the head; many of them show a generous expanse of the front hair.

Konjola

MR. J. H. MORRISON, 7732 Maryland Ave., Chicago

. . . expect results when you put this new and different medicine to the test.

Konjola . . . the modern medicine of 32 ingredients . . . is recommended and sold solely on merit, not on promises nor claims. A medicine that has won a permanent place in the hearts and homes of countless thousands needs no promises made for it. Read, now, what Mr. Morrison, 71, says of Konjola:

"I am glad to say I have good health for a man of my age, but several months ago I had stomach trouble so bad that for two hours after eating I had severe pain in the abdomen. For instance, I could not eat apples at all. I have taken five bottles of Konjola and Konjola has absolutely stopped all my stomach trouble, and I can eat foods that I had to leave absolutely alone for years. If any medicine has merit Konjola is that medicine."

Eugene Silvain, Dean of French Actors, Dies at 79

MARSEILLES, France, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Eugene Silvain, dean of the Comedie Francaise and celebrated contemporary of the late Sarah Bernhardt, died tonight at his villa in St. Cyr Les Secques, department of Var. He was 79 years old and made his debut on the stage more than half a century ago. Silvain was stricken with partial paralysis and temporarily deprived of speech last week.

"I'd no more carry a lipstick than a hairbrush—"

"I don't have to," explains that charming film star Myrna Loy. "Before going on the lot or out for the evening, I make up my lips with Kissproof. Then I know they will look their best—and keep looking their best—all day or evening." Miss Loy is but one of many Hollywood stars who use Kissproof—the natural, lasting lipstick. Grape Season Is Welcome One to Wet and Dry

Both Find Many Ways to Use This Fruit.

BY META GIVEN.

An adequate diet maintains health at its most abundant level.

Tempting white, green, purple and maroon colored grapes! What are you going to do with them? That depends on whether you are "wet," "dry," or "on the fence." No matter what has been or will be said on this much debated question, it will never change the real worth of this fruit to the human family. The maximum food value of the fruit is obtained when it is consumed in its natural state. From a dietetic angle transforming grapes into wines, even of the finest bouquets, is a wasteful way of utilizing the fruit of the vine.

Grapes are one of your best buys in fruit at the present time and will continue to be for the next two months. So, while you saunter through the markets today think of how you can use grapes on the table for the next few weeks and then how you can economize by putting some of them away for future use.

Variety of Uses.

There are the Concords and the Catawbas, the purple and maroon varities, that are home grown and are the most inexpensive. They make an excellent jelly if they aren't too ripe. If they are good and ripe, then they are right for grape juice, jam and conserves and they are good to eat raw. The small, green, seedless grapes and the larger fleshy ones with few seeds are good for eating uncooked. Chilled, they make a pleasing breakfast fruit. In salads and fruitades they add interesting texture and flavor.

If the fruit is to be served raw it should be thoroughly washed. This is best done by holding the bunch under the cold water faucet, allowing the water to wash rapidly through. Remove all imperfect grapes from the bunch before serving.

Grapes that are in perfect condition when bought may be kept longer than any other fruit. One must be careful to keep them in a cool place and loosely packed. Imperfect grapes should be removed from the bunch as soon as they are discovered. One or two spoiled ones soon spoil the whole bunch if they are allowed to remain.

Packing Grapes.

They also can be loosely packed in sawdust of neutral odor, or wrapped in tissue paper. Those of you fortunate enough to own a grape vine might try this. The French store grapes for months in a cool dark place by inserting the stem of each bunch in a vial of water, which contains a piece of charcoal.

Grapes should not be packed with other fruit unless one desires the other fruit to take on the flavor of grapes. The sweet scent of grapes is highly subtile, so much so that apples or pears packed in a bowl with grapes for several days will acquire a flavor of grapes. If you are interested in flavor blending and are easily satisfied with such blends here is an opportunity for a nice little experiment in pleasing flavor and sweet aromas.

CRAB MEAT AND CELERY SALAD.

1 cup canned crab meat
1 cup celery, chopped
¼ cup French dressing
¼ cup mayonnaise
Garnish of crab claws
2 hard-cooked eggs
Parsley
Celery tops

Canned crabs make good salads. If there is any oil in the can, drain it off; sprinkle the crabs well with salt and vinegar and drain again before adding the dressing. Combine the crab meat and chopped celery. Marinate with French dressing. Place the mixture in the salad bowl, pour over the top the mayonnaise dressing and garnish with crab claws and hard-cooked eggs and alternate with bits of greens, such as parsley and the leaves of the celery. Serve very cold.

HOT COCOA.

2 tablespoons cocoa
2 tablespoons sugar
Few grains salt
¼ cup hot water
3 cups milk, scalded

Mix cocoa, sugar and salt and add hot water. Cook over a low flame 10 minutes, stirring occasionally to prevent burning. Add hot milk and continue cooking over hot water 10 minutes. Whisk with a rotary egg beater before serving.

Wear "Shorts" in This City and You Go to Jail

PUEBLA, Mexico, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The mayor today ordered the police to arrest any one found on the streets of this city without full size trousers. The object of his action is to end the custom of Indians going about in shorts which are little more than loin cloths.

Well Stocked, Neat Pantry Is a Cook's Joy

BY SALLY LUNN.

"O, I can't find the baking powder and I know the vanilla was here five minutes ago. Why is it, when I want to make a cake, that everything delights in disappearing?" or "Won't you run down to the store and get some cinnamon? I need some for the recipe and we haven't any." These are unpleasant situations in which women find themselves when supplies are placed in the pantry helter skelter or even worse, are not there at all.

It is just as easy and so much more convenient to have the pantry arranged neatly. If one lives in an apartment where the kitchen cupboard has taken the place of the pantry one still needs to have a systematic arrangement. However small the shelf space may be the staple for meal preparation should be found there. If planning an efficient pantry, first decide what should go onto well stocked shelves of your cabinet or pantry.

Dividing the Space.

Spices, extracts and condiments of all kinds needed for every day cooking should occupy one section. We have found that spices bought in small quantities are most satisfactory. Volatile aromatic oils in the spices are responsible for the distinctive flavor. Grinding, in the preparation for marketing, makes it easier for these oils to escape and standing on the shelf for months results in almost a complete loss of flavor.

Leavening agents should have a little space of their own. Baking powder, which should also be bought in small amounts, cream of tartar and baking soda comprise this group. Fats and the salad oils should be grouped together. Next comes flour, all kinds from pastry to pancake. Sugars, confectioners', brown, granulated and honey may follow.

A supply of canned material needs to be on the shelves to help out when unexpectedly you need an extra dish. The amount purchased should depend on the amount of space and the number of people who are usually served. However, it is advisable never to store a greater amount than will be used up in about six weeks.

A pantry or kitchen cupboard that is well stocked and in which the materials are not only neatly but orderly placed, but also kept that way, will prove a great help in improving the appearance and adding to the efficiency of your home.

Receptacles Aid Neatness.

Beautiful and inexpensive receptacles made of glass and china may be bought for many of the articles on the pantry shelf. These are aids to keeping foods in good condition and in their place. However, the housewife who cannot afford these may easily keep things in their place and in good condition in the boxes or cartons in which they come, if she will remember to keep covers closed tightly. I find rubber bands especially useful in holding down the opened tops of cardboard cartons such as breakfast food and tapioca.

When the material in a container is used up it is a good plan to make a note of this and re-stock for next time you visit your local dealer instead of puting it off, waiting until you need the material for the preparation of a food.

Fruit Moves Quickly at Auction House

Buyer and Seller Meet in Lively Encounter.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Many hands make light work of the quick movement of Chicago's perishable fruit supply, as any one can testify who has enjoyed the thrill of arriving at daybreak in the Chicago Fruit Auction house, west of Ashland on 27th street. Here are seen carloads and truckloads of pears, plums, cherries, oranges, peaches, lemons, fresh figs, grapes, pineapples, and other fruit beginning the day's journey to millions of metropolitan kitchens.

Dithin a long steel cellinged shed with a high concrete floor extending for blocks, buyer and seller meet in one of the most fascinating of the many food exchanges which have made Chicago renowned as the world's largest food center.

This exchange is somewhat different from those for grains, live stock, dairy products, poultry, and eggs, or vegetables. It has been overlooked by most Chicagoans and visitors looking for the city's points of wonderment. Yet it has been operating in Chicago 42 years, exceeded in age and prestige in the fruit industry only by that in New York, where fruit auctions have been conducted for 68 years.

Produce from Distant Points.

Only the fruits from distant points are handled through this exchange, from the states of California, Florida, Texas, Colorado, Idaho, Oregon, and Washington. Every day in the week, rain, snow or hot weather being no barrier, trains pull up their precious cargoes along each sidetrack of the warehouse platform. Experienced "stevedores" accustomed to carting and sorting perishables unload the fruit in baskets, barrels, and boxes long before daylight. Each kind and quality of fruit from each separate shipper is sorted and placed together, with tags denoting the contents, quantities, and the scheduled rotation of the sale to be made later in the morning.

As one wanders into this arcade formed by pleasant scented fruits extending in long aisles down the line, men may be seen taking notes on the supply to be used by the buyers and bidders when the auction begins. For, during the morning hours, every item in this warehouse is sold at some price and moved on its way into consumption.

"We handle and unload an average of 16,000 carloads of fruit at this auction house during the year," explains Charles W. Irrgang, vice president and manager of the Fruit Auction Sales company. "This represents gross sales of $30,000,000 worth of fruit in a year's time. It is entirely consumed in Chicago and the smaller cities near by."

Interested visitors at the auction house are struck by the systematic, thorough care given the fruit, which has spent eight days in traveling from California or six days from Florida, yet is as fresh as when picked because of the methods of packing and refrigerating.

Auction Starts at 8.

As the auction hour approaches the three veteran auctioneers don khaki shirts, informing the bidders who inquire whether there will be but one sale or two. As the gong sounds at 8 the hammer drops and a sputtering, crackling volley of words almost unintelligible to the idle listener comes from the auctioneer. He is behind a desk in a large room resembling the assembly room of a school, with typical desks and seats in which old and young men gather before the auctioneer, who, except in his oral outpourings, makes an ideal schoolmaster.

Watch his roving eyes as he calls prices, bids, and suddenly raps the close of a sale with his hammer. He must see bids of all kinds from fifty to a hundred men. Some indicate their offers with the wink of an eye, others by the tilt of their pencils, others by the shrug of a shoulder. This is done so that only the auctioneer can know who made the offer, he in turn shifting his eye when the bids close toward the successful purchaser. Two clerks register the sale, and in another fifteen minutes the fruit which changed owners in this tense atmosphere begins moving from the floors below into trucks, on its way to some part of the city.

Keen Competition.

Jovial competition of the keenest sort exists here, where supply and demand bear heavily upon the fixing of prices for the hour. With each sale a representative of the shipper thousands of miles away stands alert to get him the most the market will bring, while buyers vie for ownership at lowest possible prices in order to meet the discerning demands of the housewives on "Shoppers' Parade," a few hours later.

By 10 o'clock, in most seasons, the sales have been completed. Shortly thereafter the fruit is all on its way in hundreds of motor trucks, and the vast warehouse platforms are closed for another day's onrush. Some crops, such as Cuban pineapples, are seasonal, being sold only in the spring.

There can be no monotony in this market, like that in selling wheat, corn, butter or other standard commodities, for each week sees some new influx of fruit from thousands of acres of orchards far removed from those who enjoy fresh fruits every day in the year.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

If you have a household hint or unique discovery you are willing to pass on to other housewives, send it to Sally Lunn, Chicago Tribune. Recipes are excluded.

To separate the leaves of head lettuce without breaking, remove the heart with a sharp knife and let cold water run in the hole. This will loosen the leaves so that they can be easily taken apart.

Mrs. W. T. U., Effingham, Ill.

I have found the nicest way to clean windows is to moisten a cloth with the following solution and then wipe dry. It makes them extremely clean and bright.

Mix one cup of turpentine, one cup of kerosene, one cup of vinegar and three tablespoons of ammonia. Place this in a bottle and cork well. When ready to use, shake the bottle well and apply and you will certainly be surprised at results.

Mrs. J. M. H., Byron, Ill.

I use paper drinking cups instead of small dishes for the bits of cooking fat I wish to save. When I'm ready to use the fat I peel off the paper or cut a slice the desired size right through the cup. No fat is wasted this way and, best of all, there are no greasy dishes to wash. Try it.

Mrs. L. O. K., Parkersburg, W. Va.

Keep a piece of magnesia or starch in a handy drawer. Rub it in over spots on the table cloth after the meal. The cloth can be used longer and the spots come out better when laundered, too.

"L" LINES SEEK O. K. ON SPENDING OF $6,872,000

Money to Go for Labor and Improvements.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The Chicago Rapid Transit company filed an application for a permit from the Illinois commerce commission yesterday to spend $6,872,000 and add it to its capital accounts. Of this total $2,517,000 is for the purchase of real estate and the remaining $4,355,000 for materials and labor in making improvements.

To obtain the money the "L" proposes to issue 2 year 6 per cent notes at a price of 96, which is the equivalent of 6¼ per cent interest on the loan. Part of the improvements have been started on current income.

The petition describes the purposes for which the $6,872,000 will be spent as follows:

1. Extend platforms for 8 car train operation	$ 565,000
2. Make necessary changes in yard terminals for 8 car train operation	238,000
3. Make necessary changes in tracks and interlocking at Marshfield avenue junction	376,000
4. Add tthird track and remodel east platform at Chicago avenue station	170,000
5. Change brake valves and install additional switches and new resistances	68,000
6. Replace full swinging gates with collapsible gates on certain cars	160,000
7. Build new shop unit at Niles Center	377,000
8. Purchase right of way for two additional tracks Garfield park branch, Marshfield avenue to Laramie avenue	2,000,003
9. Add one additional track, Garfield park branch, Laramie to Marshfield, including realignment through Sacramento station	2,517,000
10. Build new Merchandise mart station, Kinzie street, north side division	92,000
11. Reconstruct stations, entrances, booths, etc., to provide for transfers between "L" and surface lines	100,000
12. Engineering expenses of making surveys and developing plans, etc.	200,000
Total estimated cost	$6,872,000

The board of local improvements adopted a resolution ratifying the appointment of employés of the advisory subway commission and at the same time giving its O. K. to delayed pay rolls. One roll due July 22 for $2,309.84 as pay to 36 employés and another due Aug. 7 for $6,730.60 for 47 employés insures salaries to the help tomorrow.

The board also approved the appointment of the subway advisors at $1,500 a month.

The board set Aug. 26 as a date for a public hearing on the widening of North State street to permit of a subway therein.

TWO SURFACE EXTENSIONS

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—The Illinois commerce commission today entered an order authorizing the Chicago City Railway company to construct the following extensions of its existing service:

A double track street railway on East 51st street from South Park way to Cottage Grove avenue.

The commission also authorized the company to construct such crossovers, etc., as are necessary.

Additional street car storage tracks also were authorized in connection with the extensions.

High Court to Investigate Gotham Political Machine

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 21.—[Special.]—The political machine of this town is to be taken apart and its innards probed in an effort to see what makes it tick. The general supposition is that it has been fed overlong on a diet of green banknotes and is due for a major operation. At any rate Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt avers he is going to see that it gets a thorough overhauling.

The Ewald case—in which it was charged that a magistrate paid $12,000 for his appointment—is the crowbar that is being used to pry off the cover. Gov. Roosevelt today directed the appellate division of the Supreme court to investigate all the magistrates' courts in Manhattan and the Bronx as well as the magistrates themselves in order to "maintain public confidence in the inferior courts."

The governor's request for state action in New York City's political muddle followed his intervention in a minor war between United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle and District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain in which Mr. Tuttle was industriously digging up scandal and carting it over to Mr. Crain where it was put through a purifying process.

Assigned to Ewald Case.

Gov. Roosevelt's first act was to put Attorney General Hamilton Ward to work on the magistracy scandal and relieve Mr. Crain of his ticklish position, Mr. Crain being a Tammany man and the scandal being in the Tammany front yard. Now Mr. Ward has been directed to confine his attention to the case of George F. Ewald while the Supreme court will undertake the larger task.

The possibility of a controversy between the attorney general and the governor as a result of the attorney general's unwillingness to reduce the scope of his inquiry to a single individual has arisen and may add complications to an already complicated situation.

No sooner had Gov. Roosevelt signified his intention of looking into New York City's Tammany-owned magistracy than a barrage of minor bombs were set off. Loudest among them was the demand for the investigation of the office of Mayor James J. Walker as the "root of the evils" coming to light in the courts and other city departments. Alderman Joseph Clark Baldwin called on the governor to halt the "deplorable state of misrule which has existed for some time in the City of New York." At the same time Alderman Baldwin listed a few of the "surface irregularities" which were in need of "drastic action."

Suggests Inquiry Subjects.

Mr. Baldwin pointed out:

"The Queens sewer scandal, the Equitable bus franchise, a camouflaged budget system, muddled bookkeeping in estimating the police and firemen's salary increase, the salary grab for higher paid officeholders, the long delay in unemployment relief.

"The board of standards and appeals scandal, accidentally exposed after a protracted defense by Mayor Walker; the complaints against the markets department, the mystery of the $250,000 fee in the docks department, the street cleaning scandals, the system of exemption of purchases from public bidding, the hospital supply contracts, the motives behind the strangled taxicab ordinance, the graft disclosures in various departments, and irregularities in the fire department storage accounts."

"Long as this list is," Mr. Baldwin says, "it is not complete."

Coincidental with Mr. Baldwin's demand and the instructions to the Appellate bench by Gov. Roosevelt, Attorney General Ward indicated that his office was open to any leads concerning misconduct by any office holder.

SEA YIELDS CAP LIKE ONE WORN BY VAN LEAR BLACK

New York, Aug. 21.—[Special.]—A yachting cap similar to one worn by Van Lear Black, Baltimore publisher and aviator enthusiast who disappeared from his yacht Monday night, was picked up about ten miles east of Point Pleasant, N. J., by two fishermen this afternoon. It bore the insignia of the New York Yacht club, of which Mr. Black was a member, and was about the same size he habitually wore.

In the belief that the strong wind and choppy sea would bring the body of the missing man ashore, the police along the Jersey coast were watching the beaches.

Patrol Denies Charge.

A charge that a coast guard vessel declined to aid in the search for the missing publisher shortly after he fell from the railing of his yacht was made today by Capt. John M. Kelley of the Sabalo. Officials of the guard promptly answered the attack by saying that help was offered but that "the persons aboard did not care to give us any information, or want our assistance."

Capt. Kelley made his statement at a hearing into the affair conducted by the steamboat inspection service of the department of commerce held at the customs house.

Flashlight Turned On.

"There were several steamers off shore of us, all out of our zone," Capt. Kelley said. "Then there was a flashlight turned on our stern and a little later a coast guard boat came up. When the boat got close enough for communication they asked me what I was doing and I told them that I'd lost a man overboard. Then I blew my whistle four times for assistance and asked them for help. But they simply snopped off their light and I got no reply. Then the boat faded away into the distance."

Estimates of the publisher's estate here today ran as high as $50,000,000.

Limitation on Air Warfare Is Advocated by Admirals

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Two admirals, one American and one British, proposed at the Institute of Politics today that the rules of international warfare be modified so that all the limitations of action imposed on submarines and warships should apply equally to airplane warfare.

Admiral Sir Herbert Richmond, K. C. B., and Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, U. S. N., blamed the civilian powers for the inauguration of campaigns of "frightfulness" such as the unrestricted submarine sinkings in the world war. They defended the chivalry of professional military men who they asserted, had always abided by the rules of war adopted by civilized nations and they ascribed all the customs ameliorating war conditions as having had their origin in military rather than civilian initiative. The naval officers insisted that the problem of ending war was up to the statesmen of the world who could end war "if they chose to do so."

Claim Accuracy Impossible.

Bombardment of cities by airplanes in order to attain military objectives was discussed by M. W. Royce, former army aviator and a specialist on the legal aspects of aerial bombardment, who said that loss of life and limb to civilians during such bombardments was considered incidental to the military object sought. This point of view was subjected to a spirited attack by Admiral Richmond who held that it was "perfectly impossible" for the bombers to drop their projectiles on the desired targets with any degree of accuracy.

Stuart Chase's "The Two Hour War" came up for considerable discussion during the session, which was a general conference on "the control of aerial armaments," conducted by Edward P. Warner, former assistant secretary of the navy for aeronautics. Admiral Hepburn explained that "the two hour war" idea was entertained to some extent in Europe because distances between European capitals were short, whereas such an attack against American cities would require extraordinary efforts by the attacking nation.

Gas Bomb "Ugly Possibility."

Mr. Warner declared that expert opinion was in disagreement on the possibility of wiping out whole cities by gas and explosives rained from airplanes. While the world war showed that cities could be bombed it was also proved that defenses could make air raids too expensive to be justified. However, he said, the gas bomb was "an ugly possibility of the next war," but the opinion that entire capitals could be wiped out in a few minutes "appear considerably to exceed the facts."

Mr. Warner's opinion was concurred in by Admiral Richmond who said that he had no fear that France, during a quarrel with England, would immediately assemble a thousand airplanes and bombard London. The idea was within the bounds of possibility, he said, but would not likely become a reality until the feelings of both peoples had become exacerbated to such a point that they lost control of their senses.

Admiral Richmond regretted that the London naval conference had dealt with the question of submarine attacks but not with those of airplanes. He saw no difference between them and then suggested that all limitations imposed on submarines and surface vessels in wartime be imposed on airplanes.

Admiral Hepburn added that once "a well organized attack of that kind was in the air, the havoc pictured by some of the enthusiasts in this kind of speculation would not be wholly imaginary."

HARRY HAMPTON

Orion, Mich., Aug. 21.—Hampton of Chicago took the lead today in the first round of the western open golf tournament by shooting a 69 over the Indianwood Country club's Hillowy course. Hampton, who is the professional at Beverly, established his mark shortly after noon and then sat back to see such sharpshooters as Tommy Armour, Horton Smith, Johnny Farrell, and 149 others make futile efforts to shatter it. Par on the course is 72.

The one who came closest was Clarence Gambier of Detroit, who has the reputation of being one of the longest drivers in the game. He failed tying Hampton when he missed a birdie on the last hole and took a 4.

Then came Al Watrous, another Detroit golfer, who lost his chance of getting to the front by poor putting on the ninth green. Tied with Watrous at 71 was Emerick Kocsis of Orchard Lake, Mich., and Bob Shave of Akron, O.

Hagen Takes a 77.

Walter Hagen, who shot so brilliantly in the preliminaries, started well today and reached the turn in 35, but his approaching and putting began to get shaky on the way home and he took a 42 for a total of 77.

Tommy Armour, the defending champion, got off on the wrong foot and took a 78. Going out he was five strokes over par to reach the turn in 40, due to unsteady work both on his long and short game.

Johnny Farrell and Horton Smith took up the task of beating Hampton's 69 but both threw away their chances on the greens and took a pair of 74s. If they find their putting touch tomorrow, they will be in the thick of it, for both were doing splendid work on the tees and fairways. Smith's termendous brassie shot over the tops of two hills to the edge of the 18th green was the achievement of the day.

The best work on the greens was done by John Revolta of Port Wis., who had seven one putts on the last nine. He would have had eight but for the fact that his 90 foot attempt from the far edge of the 14th stopped on the lip of the cup.

Three Other Chicagoans Lead

In addition to Hampton, three Chicago district golfers are well toward the front. Abe Espinosa of Edgewater, Al Espinosa of the Sportsmans club, and Laurie Ayton of Evanston all shot 74.

Joe Ezar of Twin Orchard had 75, while Chick Evans of Edgewater, Dave Tosh of Sunset Ridge, and Sam Rouse of Old Orchard all turned in 76.

Two Chicago amateurs shot creditable golf over a course that has proved tough enough for the professionals, John Lenfesty's Edgewater and Don Hamilton of Beverly each scoring 79.

All in all the Chicago boys were a jubilant bunch today and Mr. Hampton is reported to have given a waitress a dollar tip. Jock Hutchison, Jim Wilson, Hampton, and Don Hamilton sat in the locker room, clinking ice against the sides of tall glasses and stirring gently with swizzle sticks.

"I'll give two dollars to anyone who'll listen to what happened on the last four holes," Hamilton said. "Compare cards and I'll bet you two dollars that my last nine were better than yours," Jock countered. "By the way, took an 81.

Hamilton Claims $2.

"All right," said Hamilton, "on the fifteenth you're one up, on the sixteenth we're all square, on the seventeenth you're one up again, and on the eighteenth you're still one up. You owe me two dollars."

"No sir," Jock came back. "It's medal play. You took 21 strokes on the last four and I took 22. You owe me two dollars and you promised to give two more to anyone who will listen to you. That makes four. Put up a quarter and if it comes down you'll owe me eight."

"See my lawyer," replied Hamilton.

Throughout the round which found the lead, Hampton was Orion, Mich., Aug. 21.—Harry Hampton of Chicago took the lead today in the first round of the western open golf tournament by shooting a 69 over the Indianwood country club's flowy course. Hampton, who is the professional at Beverly, established his mark shortly after noon and then sat back to see such sharpshooters as Tommy Armour, Horton Smith, Johnny Farrell, and 149 others make futile efforts to shatter it. Par for the course is 72.

HARRY HAMPTON.

The one who came closest was Clarence Gambler of Detroit, who has the reputation of being one of the longest drivers in the game. He just failed tying Hampton when he missed a birdie on the last hole and took a 70.

Then came Al Watrous, another Detroit golfer, who lost his chance of getting to the front by poor putting on the ninth green. Tied with him at 71 was Emerick Kocsis of Orchard Lake, Mich., and Bob Shave of Aurora, O.

The best work on the greens was done by John Revolta of Portage, Pa., who had seven one putt holes on the last nine. He would have had eight but for the fact that his 8 foot attempt from the far edge of the 14th stopped on the lip of the cup.

Three Other Chicagoans Lead.

In addition to Hampton, three other Chicago district golfers are well toward the front. Abe Espinosa of Medinah, Al Espinosa of the Sportsmen's club, and Laurie Ayton of Evanston all shot 74.

Joe Ezar of Twin Orchard had a 76, while Chick Evans of Edgewater, Dave Tosh of Sunset Ridge, and Sonny Jones of Old Orchard all turned in 77.

Two Chicago amateurs shot some creditable golf over a course which has proved tough enough for the best professionals, John Lenfesty of Exmoor and Don Hamilton of Beverly both scoring 79.

All in all the Chicago boys were a brilliant bunch today and Harry Hampton is reported to have given a waitress a dollar tip. Jock Hutchison, Jim Wilson, Hampton, and Don Hamilton sat in the locker room, clinking ice against the sides of tall glasses and stirring gently with swizzle sticks.

EUROPEAN GIRLS ADVANCE TO U. S. NET SEMI-FINALS

Betty Nuthall Is Victor in Straight Sets.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 21.—With the two California Helens absent from the tournament, the competition for the national women's tennis championship at Forest Hills pursued an uneventful course today, and two European girls came through to meet the Americans in the semi-final matches of tomorrow afternoon.

Betty Nuthall, of England, a chubby young woman with a ray of a smile constantly playing on her countenance, extinguished a small California girl of childish face and figure, Miss Dorothy Weisel from Sacramento, 6-1, 6-1. The Baroness Glacomo Levi of Rome won from Miss Penelope Anderson from Richmond, Va., 4-6, 6-4, 7-5.

Mary Comes to Grief.

Miss Marjorie Morrill, of Dedham, Mass., and Mrs. Lawrence Harper, of San Francisco, also won their matches from Miss Ethel Burkhardt and Miss Mary Greef, respectively, the scores being 4-6,6-3,6-2 and 3-6,6-1,6-4. Miss Burkhardt is a California girl and Miss Greef came from Kansas City.

In tomorrow's matches Miss Nuthall will meet Miss Morrill and the Baroness Levi is to play Mrs. Harper. However, the foreign element in the semi-final round is not as foreign as it might be, as the baroness is a Chicago girl, born Maude Rosenbaum. She is a dark complexioned young woman with shiny black hair, a contrast to the preponderance of sun browned blondes in the tournament. She wore black spiked shoes which, at a distance, looked like New England goloshes, and the loose abandon of her play contributed much to the entertainment value of the program.

All Play Bare Legged.

All the girls played bare legged, notwithstanding the historic Wimbledon edict of some seasons back in which it was intimated that her majesty Queen Mary did not care to look upon the feminine calf in the nude. I hope it is neither indelicate nor irrelevant to observe, also, that the pulchritude of the ladies' championship tournament continues to improve and that nowadays the show is well worth the modest price of admission, $1.50 per head, quite aside from the quality of the tennis discoursed upon the green plush expanse of the courts.

The main event of the afternoon was Miss Nuthall's match with the Weisel girl, but it soon developed that the young one from California was overmatched. She won the first game on her own service, but from that point until the end of the match she spent most of the time backed off the court, waving her paddle in plaintive back hand returns while Miss Nuthall, with a serene and consoling smile, advanced halfway to the net and sent her on impossible errands.

Peels Off Her Sweater.

At the start Miss Weisel was wearing a flame colored sweater and one of those California duckbill visors always associated with Helen Wills Moody, but after the first game she peeled the sweater and pursued her work in the regulation trained nurse uniform, which has become standard on the courts now.

Miss Nuthall was not exerted to any extent, and the precise manner in which she rebuked Miss Weisel's ambitions indicated that they were very premature. Miss Weisel happened into the quarter finals when she won from Sarah Palfrey unexpectedly in yesterday's matches, but she happened right out again in brief time, and the two girls walked off the court together on the most amiable terms.

Marjorie Morrill, a tall, rangy girl, wearing a pale blue band about her head, had much greater speed and playing radius than Miss Burkhardt, who is a smallish party with light, frizzly hair and an earnest manner. The long, tall girl would step over and

Burghley Beaten in High Hurdles at Empire Meet

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—J. H. Viljoen, a hurdler from South Africa, dealt a blow to the hopes of England in the British empire track meet here today when he defeated Lord David Burghley, world's champion, in the first heat of the 120 yard high hurdles.

Lord Burghley's defeat was the greatest upset of the week's activity in the empire games. It had been predicted that H. Q. Davies, Viljoen's teammate, might cause trouble for Burghley in the finals, but Viljoen had shown nothing to indicate that he would ever threaten the champion's supremacy in the preliminaries.

Viljoen won by a stride. H. Hart, another South African, was third, close on Burghley's heels. Time for the heat was not impressive, Viljoen having been clocked in 14.9 seconds.

Meet Again in Finals.

Burghley will have another opportunity to acquit himself, having qualified to meet both Viljoen and Davies in the finals.

Viljoen also won the high jump. His height was 6 feet 3 inches.

Percy Williams, Canadian sprinter and double Olympic winner, won his heat in the 100 yard dash easily, beating Gerhardt of England and Brown of Canada, in 9.6 seconds. Page of England, running the distance in :09.7, and Fitzpatrick of Canada in 10 seconds, won the other two heats.

Another upset came close on the heels of Burghley's defeat when Phil Edwards, New York university quarter miler, running for British Guiana, failed to qualify in the 440 yard run. He was beaten badly in the stretch by Walters of South Africa and J. Ball of Canada.

Notre Dame Star Places.

Alex Wilson, Notre Dame's middle distance runner, qualified in the 440 for Canada when he took second in the first heat. Goulding of Australia won in :49.3.

Favorites continued to suffer defeat and a Canadian record was established when S. A. Tomlin of England won the 3 mile run from A. J. Hillhouse of Australia. His time was 14 minutes 27 2-5 seconds, 1-5 of a second better than the old Canadian record.

The second Canadian record was broken in the half mile finals, when H. Hampson and Thomas, both of England, passed Wilson of Canada in the stretch and won easily. Hampson's time was 1 minute 52 2-5 seconds.

British Track Team to Bring Its Own Water

The special train which brings the 75 athletes of the British empire to Chicago to meet the American squad at Soldiers' field Wednesday might literally be called a "water wagon." All of the countries competing at Hamilton, Ont., have furnished water supplies for their men. The water train will follow the men to Chicago.

The English have bottled water from the Cornwall springs, located near the chalk cliffs of Devonshire, and from Tunbridge Wells, Devon. The Scots are drinking water from Bawhead Springs, near Paisley.

Coach A. A. Stagg of the University of Chicago will address the 30,000 employés of the Western Electric company at noon today. His topic is the international games, the fourth time athletes of the British empire have met a United States team in the last ten years.

The advance sale for Wednesday's meet is $3,000. Measured by football games, this isn't a large sum. However, the largest previous advance sale for any track meet held in Chicago was $300. Requests for tickets have been received from New York, Denver, and Los Angeles.

The international meet will be broadcast over 42 stations. "Olympic games of English speaking races" is the newest name for the meet.

ENGLISH POLO 4 BEAT GREENTREE IN 1ST WORKOUT

Roslyn, L. I., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Showing evidence that they need a good deal of work, both men and ponies, the British challengers for the international polo cup held their first American workout today at Talbott field. The British, scoring eight goals in the last three periods, won from Greentree, 13 to 5.

The invaders used what probably will be their starting lineup for the matches. Capt. Richard George was No. 1, Gerald Balding at No. 2, Capt. C. T. I. Boark at No. 3, and Lewis Lacey at back. Opposed to them were John Hay Whitney, Jack Nelson of the Argentine, Watson Webb, and J. C. Rathbone.

Wilson Expects to Propel 44th Home Run Today

Hack Wilson did not come close to breaking the National league record for home runs. His one hit yesterday was a line single. He expects to get his No. 44 today, he announced after posing for some advertising pictures after the game.

Bill Terry, who was held to one hit yesterday remained comfortably above the .400 mark. It was Bill's 196th hit of the year, and the Memphis slugger probably will be the first batter to make 200 hits.

One of the explanations for Manager McGraw's mysterious absence is that he's staying away for superstitious reasons. The club is going so well under Acting Manager Bancroft that he fears he might jinx the boys, some of the New York writers figured.

After the blowup in the eighth, thousands of fans walked out on their heroes. This is the first time this has happened in many weeks.

FARGO'S 154 WINS LOW GROSS PRIZE IN PLAE DAE GOLF

Hiram D. Fargo Jr. of Edgewater showed the way to a field of more than 100 golfers at the annual Plae Dae tournament at the Park Ridge Country club yesterday by capturing low gross for 36 holes with 75—79—154. R. Kilner of the home club took the low net for 36 holes, scoring 164—20—144.

The partners' low net event went to John E. Greenslade, Park Ridge, and T. H. Wallen, Medinah, who combined rounds for a 305 net total. W. C. Grunow, A. M. Anderson, F. L. Arneson, and J. L. Siegenthaler, won the low net foursome prize with 593.

AWED CHAMPS CONTRIBUTE TO OWN DOWNFALL

Errors Start 6 Run Parade in First.

Yesterday's defeat reduced the Cubs' leads to two games over the second place Giants. The Robins were idle and now trail the leaders by 3½ games.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The New York Giants are a nice bunch of fellows, just trying to earn an honest dollar. But to the Cubs they are a band of awesome demons, the sight of whom sets our boys to quaking in their boots. The score of yesterday's game was Giants, 13; Cubs, 6, and the contest was attended by much fear and trembling on the part of the losers.

It was the tenth thrashing the Cubs have taken from the New Yorkers in 16 games played this season and was due, like many of the other losses, to the ability of the visitors to terrorize the McCarthys. The Giants now are only two games behind the Cubs.

Errors Encourage Giants.

The Giants made six runs in the first inning, whereas the side should have been out without a man reaching second base. There's not a modicum of second guessing in this statement. The conduct of the Chicago infield, excluding George Kelly, but including Gabby Hartnett, was most pitiful in this game wrecking first inning. There were errors on the first two batters in the inning and a double steal which caught Hartnett back on his heels, before the Giants got a hit, and then there were some hits. But more of this later.

Fred Blake was the starting pitcher, the same Fred Blake who left the game at the end of the seventh inning in his last turn against the Phillies on Saturday with the score 3 to 0 against him, though he had allowed only two singles. With few exceptions, the assignment of Blake as the starting pitcher has been the sign for bush league support. But yesterday the boys quite outdid themselves in the matter.

After the first inning the Cubs regained their composure somewhat. Blair and Hartnett, two of the leading panic boys, even calmed their shattered nerves to the point of knocking homers, Gabby getting his 26th of the year in the second and Clarence propelling his sixth in the third inning.

It's Up to Root Today.

During the middle section of the game there were other things that normally would have been cheerful to the assemblage of 36,000 disappointed fans. But in the eighth there was another blow up, in which the harassed Mr. Blake joined, and during which Blair came back with a bigger and better error than that which he perpetrated in the first inning.

There also was an instance in the eighth when five-ninths of the ball club assembled in short center and watched the ball drop among them when the capture of same would have effected the third putout. The net of all these things was five more runs for the Giants.

It is urged, however, that the good fans refrain from sobbing too much about the unfortunate outcome of the opener. After all, the Cubs still are in first place, Charley Root may be able to beat Hubbell or Donahue this afternoon, and if he doesn't Pat Malone will be mighty determined when he goes against the enemy tomorrow. There is the possibility that McCarthy will switch his plans and start Malone today.

Manager John J. McGraw was not on hand to see his charges triumph. He has not been with the club during the western trip, and the members of the troupe of Gotham authors, including Mr. McGraw's talented ghost writer, say they have been given no explanation of his absence. There was a rumor he may come to town today, however.

The Horrible Details.

Now, we have fought off the painful task of reciting the horrible details just as long as we possibly could. Here's how it happened:

Critz started the game, with a grounder straight at Blair. Clarence squatted gracefully, but when he straightened up, the ball wasn't in his

SIMMONS' HOMER IN 9TH HELPS A'S BEAT TIGERS, 8-7

Uhle Allows 1 Hit in 6 Innings, Then Wilts.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Al Simmons' thirtieth home run of the season with two out and one on base in the ninth inning today climaxed the Athletics' rally from behind a three run lead of the Detroit Tigers, giving the champions an 8 to 7 victory.

George Uhle, who allowed only one hit in the first six innings, lost his effectiveness in the closing innings. He gave up four runs in the seventh and eighth and was relieved after the Athletics filled the bases with none out in the ninth.

Wyatt retired two men on force plays at second and then Simmons hit the homer that scored Cochrane ahead of him. Score:

INDIANS, 6; YANKS, 5.

New York, Aug. 21.— (AP) —Dick Porter clouted a home run inside the park to open the twelfth inning today and gave the Cleveland Indians a 6 to 5 victory over the Yankees.

Tony Lazzeri's error in the ninth sent the contest into extra innings after Sam Byrd had given the Yanks the lead in the seventh with a homer with two on base. With two out in the ninth, Lazzeri dropped Montague's fly as Lary collided with him and allowed two Cleveland runners to score. Babe Ruth's single sent Combs home in the last half of the ninth to tie the count again. Score:

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Sad Sam Jones and Rip Collins engaged in a pitching duel here this afternoon and Jones came out on top with the Senators winning the second straight game from St. Louis, 5 to 2.

St. Louis scored early in the game, but Washington bunched hits in the third to score two runs. The Browns scored again to tie the count in the seventh, but a succession of hits in the eighth brought three runs and the game to Washington. Score:

EARLIER CHICAGO.

IN view of the recent low prices for wheat and subsequent rise in price of corn following the drought, our attention is called by a Helper to a review of the wheat situation in 1856 which reads thus:

"The market for wheat has not, of course, exhibited that nervous activity which prevailed during the season of 1855. The return from high prices to lower ones, no matter how liberal the latter may be, is always a distasteful process. The unprecedented high rates of the last two seasons, and more especially of 1855, entirely unsettled the market, and so contributed to the establishment of extreme views that when the inevitable decline succeeded the whole country at once rebelled, and declared their intention of starving the world into a perpetual maintenance of the recent order of things with which they had so deeply fallen in love.

"For a time it seemed as if this horrible threat was really to be carried into execution, for during the winter months of the present year the poor local consumers were obliged to advance their bids in order to secure enough for daily use, and until the first of March even higher prices were paid than during the fall before.

"But the foundation of all this firmness continued nevertheless to settle gradually and the heaping granaries of the country began to be more or less undermined as prospects grew more discouraging and currency more in demand. Country dealers who had bought at high prices became satisfied to sell out even, or at a small loss rather than not sell at all. Farmers who, finding a lack of nerve in country dealers, had bravely shipped on their own account, or held in store 'subject to advances and clearances,' began to own that discretion was the better part of valor, and so by slow and painful degrees the market came down to a legitimate level.

"When, after a new and plentiful harvest, spring wheat was once more current at $1 per bushel it really seemed as if business was once more in a fair way to proceed in a safe and sufficiently liberal channel. On the first of January spring wheat ranged from $1.30 to $1.35 and red and white winter from $1.65 to $1.75 per bushel. On the first of December following spring was 77 to 78 cents and red and white 90 cents to $1. 'What a fall was there, my countrymen"!"

Winning Pitchers.

A Helper recently asked The Wake why a Cub pitcher was charged with the loss of the game when he was sent to the showers with the home team one run ahead. Baseball scoring custom holds a pitcher responsible for the men he places on bases. In this instance, the Cub pitcher was yanked with one man out, two on bases, and the score 5 to 4 favoring the Cubs. These two men on base subsequently scored. So the first pitcher was charged with the defeat.

Giants Win and Cut Cubs' Lead to Two Games

glove. It had popped between his heels into right field. Leach bounced a delightful grounder to Farrell, and the bugs cleared their throats to cheer a double play. But the doctor staged a juggling act, and both runners were safe. Blake perceived he was in for the customary maltreatment and walked Lindstrom, filling the bases.

Terry batted a grounder to English, who momentarily paused while deciding which double play to make. He started no double play, but he did get Lindstrom at second, Critz scoring and Leach going to third. Terry launched a double steal. The book says you should try a double steal only when two are out, so Hartnett was caught off guard and didn't come close to breaking up the two ply theft, Leach scoring and Terry reaching second. Then Ott walked.

Homer Adds to Distress.

O'Farrell flied to Dan Taylor, but Jackson singled, scoring Terry. Roettger knocked a homer into the right field stand, scoring Ott and Jackson ahead of him. Walker singled, but Critz, up the second time, forced him.

The score was 6 to 2 going into the fifth, the Cubs' score being due to those homers by Hartnett and Blair.

Lindstrom led off the fifth with a single and stopped at third on Terry's double, the double, incidentally, being the only hit produced by the major leagues' leading hitter. Lindstrom scored on Ott's sacrifice fly to Taylor. Terry went to third while O'Farrell was grounding out to Kelly and scored when Jackson knocked the second of his three hits. Roettger flied to Cuyler.

The Cubs scored one in their half of the fifth. Blake beat out an infield single and took an extra base on Lindstrom's high throw. Blair fouled to Jackson and English was called out on strikes. Then Cuyler got the second of his two doubles scoring Blair. Wilson flied to Ott.

Cubs Make Threats.

With the score 8 to 3 against them, the Cubs started what promised to be a rally in the sixth. Taylor opened with a single and stopped at second on Kelly's single. Hartnett then grounded into a double play, Lindstrom to Critz to Terry. Farrell flied to Leach.

In the seventh the score became 8 to 5. After Blake and Blair had fanned, English singled to right and stopped at third on Cuyler's second double. Wilson drove in Woody and Ki with a single to right. Jackson threw out Taylor.

Then came the Giants' eighth. Roettger singled to center and went to second on Walker's bunt. Critz got his third hit, a single, and Roettger stopped at third. Leach singled to right, scoring Roettger and putting Critz on third. Lindstrom singled to center, scoring Critz and putting Leach on third. Blake surrendered and Teachout went in.

Blair Muffs High Fly.

Terry flied to Taylor. Then Ott dropped a single amidst the aforementioned powwow in center field, Lindstrom scoring. O'Farrell popped a high fly and Blair muffed it, Ott reaching third, whence he scored on Jackson's third hit.

The Cubs made the last run of the game in the eighth on a hit by Kelly, a walk to Hartnett and Bell's single.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 21.—For seven innings today it looked as if business as usual was going to pick up for Tommy Thomas. The eighth, however, changed everything. Tommy suddenly fell apart under the strain of a few soft hits, three Boston runners scored and the White Sox promptly conceded the opener of the series by 4 to 2. This defeat was the 16th for the Chicagoans in their last 19 attempts.

While the revolt of the Boston fans in the eighth was depressing to the Chicago delegates, it was just about what they deserved. They assaulted Horace Lisenbee for only four hits and on that basis were not entitled to the verdict.

Lyons Seeks 18th Win.

Ted Lyons will try to do better tomorrow. He will make his fourth attempt to attain his eighteenth victory of the campaign. Denny MacFayden will oppose him.

The Pale Hose came into possession of a run in the first inning on only two hits, but between the wallops was an error of importance. Kerr opened the day's entertainment with a single to left and was sacrificed to second by Tate. Warstler gave Reynolds a chance to hit by bunting under a boot and this permitted Kerr to hike to third. He scored on a single by Jolley.

Kerr gave a run back to Boston in the third. Todt singled to right and Kerr fumbled Berry's hopper. Todt went to third on the error and home on a hit by Lisenbee. The Chicago ace dissolved the 1 to 1 tie in the fourth by scoring what proved to be their last run. Barnes started by doubling to left center. Mulleavy bunted him to third and he slid over the plate on Tate's tap to the pitcher. Then everything was quiet until the Reds blew the party to pieces with their winning rally.

Durst Gets a Triple.

The disastrous eighth got under way with Reynolds trying to stage a diving catch of Durst's low line drive. He escaped for a triple. Reeves scratched a single to short and Durst scored. Regan also scratched a hit to Mulleavy. Webb gave the ball a long ride to the deep center field fence where Barnes caught it. Oliver doubled past third, scoring Reeves and putting Regan on third. Warstler bounded to Thomas whose throw to Tate nailed Regan at the plate. Tate then observed Warstler between first and second and a lot of throwing followed. It terminated with Oliver scoring when Tate muffed a throw from Watwood.

DOUBLE PLAYS HELP CARDINALS BEAT PHILS, 16

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 21.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals pounded the Philly pitchers for 19 hits today and won the first game of the series, 16 to 6.

Hafey hit his 23d homer of the season in the first inning with two on. The Cardinals executed five double plays, which comes within one of equaling the National league record.

Becker Finds Rest and Fish in Witch Bay

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LAKE OF THE WOODS, Kenora, Ont., Aug. 21.—When you can't find Bottle bay just keep going because Witch bay is just ahead and the latter is recommended for any one who wants a rest cure and plenty of fish.

Yesterday when the guide of our cruising expedition couldn't find "the Bottle" we finally landed in Witch bay, where black bass, wall-eyed pike [they call 'em pickerel here], jacks or pickerel, ducks and complete isolation set up a combination that is guaranteed to soothe jangled nerves.

Our fishing crew eased into one part of this bay fairly early yesterday morning. It was just like stepping into a sort of forgotten place in the wilderness, where you could paddle from bay to bay, with each division of water as large as many lakes in the northern Wisconsin lake country.

We had hoped to find some muskies in the scores of acres of weed beds which are growing in these bays of the Witch. But nothing doing. The water is so low [thus making the bays very shallow] that the muskies apparently have mushed on.

After Roy Griswold had helped us us throw a lot of muskalonge hardware all over the place for more than three hours and we didn't see a rise or a follow up or any sign of a lunge we are ready to tell that world that there may be muskies in that bay in the spring and in the fall but we doubt it now, in these days of drought and heat.

However, the bass and the wall-eyes refuse to leave this bay of the Witch. And you can catch a wheelbarrow full of jacks [what we call pickerel or northern pike in the U. S. A.] by casting in the weeds. So our exploring expedition did not lack for excitement and crisp brown filets of pike and bass in the frying pan at lunch time.

Hecht, Father and Son, Win Pater-Filius

Alfred G. Hecht of Chicago Heights and his 9 year old son, Alfred Jr., yesterday won the 27th annual Pater-Filius golf tournament at the Midlothian Country club with a best ball score of 186—44—142. O. W. Ritter and his son, William, also of Chicago Heights, finished second with 180—34—146.

Young Hecht's game was the big factor in the Hecht family's victory and was the feature of the tournament. He putted spectacularly and capped his brilliant round with a 215 yard drive on the 313 yard 18th hole, carrying the creek.

William Redmond of Joliet and his son, Bill, won low gross with 80—83—163 for the two 18 hole rounds. E. T. Franklin of La Grange and his son William won low gross for the morning round with an 83, while Ford R. Carter of Onwentsia and young Bob Carter turned in the low gross score for the afternoon with an 81. Clarence E. Beck of Ridgemoor and Dick Beck, with 85—11—74, had the low net for the morning, while Walter O. Schmidt and Walter Jr. of Cary and Mason Towle and Mason Jr. of Joliet tied at 75 for the afternoon low net.

Former Featherweight Gets 30 Day Jail Sentence

Herbie Schaeffer, 26 years old, once a contender for the featherweight boxing championship, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail yesterday by Judge D. J. Normoyle of the Criminal court. Louis Agelson, who charged that Schaeffer burglarized his restaurant of $35 in merchandise, recommended that the felony be changed to a misdemeanor.

He started out with a birdie by reaching the green in two and followed up with another by laying his approach six feet from the pin and holing the putt. On the fifth he sank a fifteen footer for a deuce and on the ninth he dropped his approach dead to the pin for a birdie 3. That brought him to the turn in 31, five strokes under par, which equaled the course record for the first nine.

Gets Birdie on 14th.

He went one over par on the 10th due to an almost unplayable lie after his drive had bounced off into the rough, and he was one over again on the 13th when he took three putts. Then he birdied the 14th by approaching to within two feet of the pin.

He three putted the seventeenth but came right back with another birdie on the last green by pitching to within six feet of the pin.

In the outstanding match of the quarter-finals of the women's state golf tournament at Lincoln park yesterday Mrs. Lillian Zech, defending champion, defeated Miss Mary Sager, also of Lincoln park, two up. Miss Sager was the first opponent to offer Mrs. Zech, who has won her other matches without difficulty, serious opposition.

In the first three holes of their match Mrs. R. Marshall and Mrs. D. Fitzgerald, both of Marquette park, played almost even golf. Mrs. Marshall, starting with a 200 yard drive from the fourth tee, won an advantage, which she maintained throughout the match, winning four and two.

ANNAPOLIS WHIPS EQUATION TO WIN GLENCOE PURSE

Game Stretch Run Brings Victory.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Annapolis carried on for old Man o' War at Hawthorne yesterday and in one of the gamest stretch runs ever made on any race track he got up in the last three jumps to beat Equation in the Glencoe purse at a mile and a sixteenth. Annapolis raced in the silks of Walter J. Salmon of New York.

As they say on the turf, Annapolis came from nowhere, for at the end of six furlongs he was running last in the field of six. At that stage Uncommon Gold, the leader, was a half dozen lengths in front of him and Annapolis was in such position that he had to lose many lengths going around on the outside. Those people in the crowd of 14,000 who had made him the 4 to 5 favorite were suffering mild heart attacks.

But by the time the field whirled around the last turn and headed into the stretch Annapolis had conquered Islam, River Forest, and Amyvale. Uncommon Gold and Equation were in front of him, but the three leaders were running only heads apart.

Equation Whips Uncommon Gold.

Equation went on to whip Uncommon Gold and did it in handy manner. As Equation moved past so did Annapolis, with Lou Schaefer riding the son of Man O' War for all he was worth.

A sixteenth out Annapolis appeared to be ready to go on and win fairly handily, but Equation proved a hard nut to crack. He wouldn't give up, even to a son of Man O' War, and six lengths from the finished it looked as if he had Annapolis whipped.

But in those last strides Schaefer rode as he never rode before. Annapolis responded to his call and the rally brought him victory. He ran the mile and a sixteenth in 1:44 3-5, just a second slower than the record. In the mutuels he paid $4.58 to win, $3.12 to place, and $2.44 to show. He was one of the hottest favorites of the day. Equation paid $6.28 to place and $4.16 to show. Uncommon Gold's show price was $3.28.

Swinfield Sold to Howard.

The favorite players, who were celebrating after Annapolis' triumph, soon came to grief. Just before the running of the Harrison purse, which came fifth on the program, Mr. Salmon sold Swinfield, a good 3 year old, to Jack Howard of Kentucky.

Mr. Howard's horses have been winning many races here. He is in the midst of a lucky streak, and the crowd backed Swinfield when it learned Howard had bought the son of Swinburne-Careful.

Swinfield went to the front early and it seemed that Howard's luck was going to hold good, but half way down the stretch Zida, a daughter of Zev, conquered him easily to win by a couple of lengths. Swinfield saved second money from the fast finishing Chelys. Zida ran the mile and seventy yards in 1:42 1-5 and in the betting paid $8.30.

Taddywawa Beats Cheers.

There are few more consistent racers anywhere than Taddywawa, which races in the white and gold jacket of the Jones Stock farm of Missouri. She proved it again when she met a fast band of sprinters in the six furlong third race.

There was a plunge on Gracious Gift and another play on Morsun, but when the finish came, Taddywawa had romped up from behind for the decision over Cheers in the last jump by a head. Gracious Gift was coming again near the end and was third.

It was the third straight victory for Taddywawa and the fourth the daughter of Hand Grenade has scored in her last five starts. She was ridden by G. Depeso and ran the six furlongs in 1:12 2-5.

Trimble, Aurora Track Head, Still Seriously Ill

Clifford R. Trimble, general manager of Aurora race track, continued in a serious condition at the Aurora hospital last night. There has been no change in his condition for 24 hours, the attending physicians announced. Trimble has been ill for several weeks.

Mandell Plans Comeback; To Fight Mickey O'Neil

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Sammy Mandell, dethroned king of lightweights, started on a comeback journey today when he announced he had agreed to meet Mickey O'Neil on Sept. 9 in a ten round bout at Janesville, Wis. Mandell has rested at his home here since he was knocked out in the first round of his title fight with Al Singer at New York. O'Neil was formerly boxing instructor at Marquette university.

DETROIT GETS NET MEET.

34 HORSES BRING $64,000 AT FINAL SARATOGA SALE

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 21.—(AP)—The last session of the 1930 Saratoga yearling sales tonight saw 34 head sold for nearly $64,000, averaging $1,882. The bidding was light except for six head from C. W. Hay's Scotland farm, which brought $35,598.

The top price of this lot and of the night was $9,500, which John Hastings paid for a chestnut colt by Noah out of Dick's Daughter, she by Dick Finnell. Griffin Watkins of Chicago took four of the six. He purchased a bay colt by Paicines-Mervinia for $7,500, a brown colt by the same sire out of Ave Russell for $5,500, a chestnut colt by Spanish Prince II.-Automatic for $4,500, and a bay colt by Paicines-Attilia for $3,500.

The seventeen head from the consignment of Court Manor, owned by Willis Sharpe Kilmer, changed hands for an aggregate of $22,750. A bay colt by Sunbriar-Hathor, the only yearling by that famous sire to go on the block, earned the highest price of this batch, W. T. Allen taking him for $4,100.

Quincy Station Nine Wins 3d Straight in P. O. League

Display Through with Race Track; Retired to Stud

Display, the old iron horse of the American turf, has said good-by to the race tracks. Word came to Trainer Jack Pryce at Hawthorne from Walter J. Salmon, New York sportsman, yesterday to retire him permanently from competition. He will be sent to Merworth stud near Lexington, Ky., within the next few days.

Display is a seven year old son of Fair Play and during his five years of racing won more than $200,000 in stake and purse money and for a time threatened the record held by Zev. The Preakness and Hawthorne gold cup were among the notable stakes he won.

The Salmon stable managers made every effort to bring Display back this year in the hope he would surpass Zev's money winning record. But Display became track wise. He refused to work during the training hour and also refused to extend himself when put into a race.

He goes away from the races a sound horse and should send many brilliant sons and daughters to the tracks within a few years.

Two carloads of horses will leave the Hawthorne track at 10 o'clock this morning for Springfield to take part in Saturday's races at the state fair. Most of the Governor's Derby candidates will be in the lot. Racing Secretary Joseph McLennan and Starter Roy Dickerson will also depart during the day for Springfield to conduct the Governor's Derby. Nearly a dozen Governor's Derby candidates will be in the shipment which will be in charge of Charley Keeney of the Arlington Park track staff.

Foreign Pair Among Last 4 in Girls' Meet

bat the ball a firm tap, and the little one would lower her head, dig her elbows into her ribs, and run like an outfielder, too often arriving too late.

Runs Little Girl Out of Wind.

This match was played on the far court and the girls had to yield public attention much of the time to the proceedings on the near court, where the crowd was gathered. So my impression of what they were doing is largely an impression of a big girl running a little girl out of wind.

But, anyway, Miss Burkhardt won a set and some odd games from Miss Morrill, and this was a bit of a boast considering that up to this time Miss Morrill hadn't lost a game in two rounds.

There were a lot of automobiles parked along the leafy side streets of the red brick and stucco suburb of Forest Hills, but, within the stadium, the trade was meager, the patrons being arrayed in the bouquets of color, one at each end of the main court, about 1,500 all told. There were several hundred males, but they were a seedy and inconspicuous lot in their business attire by contrast with the plumage of the girls.

Polite, Attentive Crowd.

It was a polite, attentive crowd, well informed in the etiquette of the game, and William T. Tilden himself would have had no occasion to beef if he had been unfolding one of his dramas before them, unless it could be that Mr. Tilden's bearing instinctively arouses the worst there is in the customers, which may be a thought for today. Once, during the Nuthall-Weisel match, the people applauded as the English girl dropped a point into the net, but the shot that brought on the outbreak was a difficult get by Miss Weisel. Miss Nuthall seemed to understand, so international relations remained cordial.

Considering that Mrs. Helen Wills Moody has temporarily retired to domesticity in California and her rival, Helen Jacobs, has left off playing for a time owing to ill-health, the tournament is surprisingly spirited, and less grim than usual. Not often do the girls betray any such pleasure at being beaten as some of the losers did this afternoon.

LOTT VICTOR AS LEG CRAMP ENDS WOOD'S STREAK

Newport, R. I., Aug. 21.—(AP)—A leg cramp today ended the winning streak of Sydney Wood, 18 year old New Yorker, who has been burning up the eastern tennis courts this season. Wood had George Lott, Davis cup singles player, at two sets all in their Newport casino quarter-finals match and was stroking accurately and expertly when the cramp forced him to slow down.

Lott entered the semi-finals by clinching the deciding set for a 6-4, 7-5, 4-6, 4-6, 6-4 victory. Lott, seeded second, led three other highly ranked stars into the semi-final round, where he will meet Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex. Allison advanced by a victory over Frank Shields, 6-8, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

Bill Tilden, defending champion, defeated Gregory Mangin of Newark, N. J., in today's quarter-finals, 6-2, 6-3, 7-5, and tomorrow will meet Frank Hunter of New Rochelle, N. Y., who eliminated John Van Ryn, 8-6, 4-6, 6-3, 1-6, 6-4.

HAWKS IN THE TEXACO 13
HAWLEY IN A NEW BUICK 8

ANOTHER coast-to-coast record toppled within a week! First Hawks, and now Hawley, clip hours from the best previous transcontinental time. The one in the air, the other over the road. "Stu" Hawley in a stock Buick Eight-66S set a new east-to-west and return record, beating the amazing time established by "Cannon Ball" Baker by more than fifteen hours.

This remarkable run, seventeen hours faster than the fastest train time, is a mighty tribute to the stamina of the man, the car and the crack-proof Texaco Golden Motor Oil which cooled and lubricated the tireless engine throughout the grueling drive.

The same new and better Texaco Gasoline and crack-proof Texaco Motor Oil which Hawley used is available at Texaco Service Stations in all our 48 States.

PUBLIC TURNS COLD SHOULDER ON SPECULATION

Brokers' Loans Off $27,000,000.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Truly, the fashion changes in speculation just as in clothing and other things. A year ago, almost everybody wanted to borrow money in order to play the stock market and 5,000,000 share days on the New York exchange were not uncommon. Now, there is little demand for speculative loans and 2,000,000 share days are something to be wished for.

Some indication of the extent to which the public has turned a cold shoulder to the stock market is contained in the federal reserve board's weekly report on brokers' loans, issued last night. Another decline of $27,000,000 in the last week brought the total down to 3 billion 128 million dollars, which is the lowest figure in about three years. It also marked a decline of 2 billion 957 million dollars from a year ago.

Thus, the amount of credit now devoted to speculation is little more than half the total of a year ago and is less than half of the peak total of six billion 804 million dollars, which was established on Oct. 2, 1929, just before the collapse of stock prices started.

Details of Report.

The details of this week's report show that the New York banks reduced their own loans by $39,000,000, although they still are lending 681 million more than a year ago. On the other hand, interior banks increased their loans by $9,000,000, and nonbanking lenders, including corporations, furnished $3,000,000 additional. But the interior banks are lending one billion 73 million dollars less than a year ago, while nonbanking lenders are furnishing two billion 565 million dollars less.

The recent flow of American gold to Europe, which caused some misgivings, appears to have ceased at least temporarily. The New York federal reserve bank reported yesterday that there were no gold exports in the last week and no change in gold earmarked for foreign shipment. On the other hand, gold imports totaled $1,265,000, all of which came from Latin American countries.

A slightly better demand for credit for commercial purposes is shown in the weekly statement of the federal reserve system, made public last night. Borrowings of the member banks increased $5,664,000, now standing at $136,179,000. The reserve banks took on an additional $4,594,000 of bankers' acceptances but offset this operation by disposing of $4,397,000 of government securities. Deposits expanded $5,389,000 but note circulation declined $1,982,000. Gold and total reserves receded $8,303,000 and $7,945,000, respectively, and the ratio of reserves to liabilities eased to 81.9 per cent, compared with 82 per cent last week.

No Rediscount Change.

The New York reserve bank made no change in its 2½ per cent rediscount rate. Its report showed a recession of $322,000 in member bank borrowings, which now total $32,034,000. The bank's holdings of bankers' acceptances and government securities declined $12,656,000 and $4,442,000, respectively. Deposits dropped $17,417,000. Reserves increased $7,375,000 and the reserve ratio rose to 85.5 per cent compared with 84 per cent a week ago.

The statement of the Chicago reserve bank showed an increase of $265,000 in member bank borrowings, bringing the total to $15,508,000. The bank took on an additional $6,451,000 of bankers' acceptances but sold $95,000 of government securities. Deposits expanded $7,872,000. Reserves declined $1,661,000 and the reserve ratio sagged to 84.9 per cent, compared with 86.1 per cent last week.

Steel Merger Trial Hears Eaton Story

Youngstown, O., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Cyrus S. Eaton, the Cleveland financier who carried his fight against the merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube company with Bethlehem Steel corporation today told from the witness stand why he opposed the Bethlehem deal and how he had worked for more than a year to merge Inland Steel of Chicago with Youngstown.

CYRUS S. EATON. [P. & A. Photo.]

In describing his first intimation that a deal between Youngstown and Bethlehem had been arranged he used such terms as "shocked" and "astonished." He testified that he had been working on the Inland negotiations largely at the suggestion of J. A. Campbell, chairman of Youngstown Sheet and Tube and was "astonished" to learn that in the meanwhile an audit had been made and merger terms had been drawn up with Bethlehem.

"Fire Escape Meeting."

Much of the testimony was taken up with a description of the so-called "fire escape" meeting with officials of Youngstown, Bethlehem, and Pickands, Mather & Co., at Cleveland, on March 11. The appellation "fire escape meeting" was derived from the means employed by the officials to elude newspapermen.

Eaton said he told Henry G. Dalton, who is a director of Youngstown and Bethlehem, as well as a partner in Pickands, Mather & Co., Cleveland ore firm, that he did not want to see Sheet and Tube "sold out of the state" and that he thought the terms of the merger, one share of Youngstown for 1 1-3 of Bethlehem were unfair.

Eaton took the stand for direct examination this morning. Luther Day, of plaintiff counsel, led him through the examination but indicated at adjournment that Eaaton may be turned over tomorrow to the defense attorneys for cross examination.

Personal Holdings.

Eaton testified that his personal holdings in Sheet and Tube stock and that of his family and his enterprises aggregated 220,000 shares. Of this sum he and his family own about 100,000 shares, the Cliffs Iron corporation and others about 125,000 shares, and the International Shares corporation about 3,000. The latter is co-plaintiff in the suit to enjoin the merger.

He identified an exhibit showing that Otis & Co., Cleveland brokers, in which he is a partner, purchased 75,533 shares of Sheet and Tube between March 12 and April 8 at an average of $148.16 a share, or an aggregate of more than $11,000,000. This was to be voted against the merger when it came before the stockholders for ratification April 8.

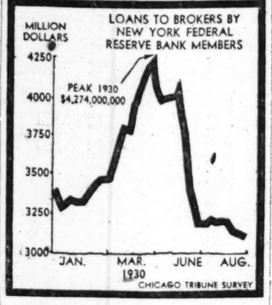
Vacuum Oil Negotiates for Wadham Co. of Milwaukee

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 21.—The Vacuum Oil company has been negotiating some time for the purchase of the Wadham Oil corporation of Milwaukee, an official of the former company said today. He added, however, that he could not say whether the negotiations would be closed.

The Wadham company confines its operations to refining and marketing. It has a refinery at East Chicago, Ind., and two large distributing warehouses in Milwaukee, and bulk distributing stations in several cities in Wisconsin. Its sales were estimated as around $10,000,000 for 1929.

BROKERS' LOANS DROPPED TO THE LOW POINT OF THE YEAR



BANK FAILURES IN NATION TOTAL 471 IN FIRST SIX MONTHS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 21.—Figures covering bank failures in June, reported by the federal reserve board, make it now possible to total up the failures for the first half of 1930 and to give a comparison with the first half of 1929. For the first half of 1930 the number of failures increased greatly, or from 354 to 471, while the deposits of the banks failing in the first half of this year aggregated $210,881,000, compared with only $98,260,000 in the corresponding period a year ago.

The cause of the great growth in suspensions was the large number of institutions in the south and in the Chicago area which closed. In the Atlanta district during June sixteen institutions closed, while in the Chicago district June closings were thirteen.

Of the 471 banks closed in the first half of this year 62, with $53,646,000 deposits, were member banks of the federal reserve system. A year ago 46 member banks failed, having deposits of $23,730,000.

Total June bank failures, member and non-member, were 67, with deposits of $71,029,000, against 52, with deposits of $18,609,000 in May. In number of banks the high record this year was established in January, when 97 institutions, with $30,127,000 deposits, closed, while in April 95 banks ended their career involuntarily, their deposits being $34,251,000.

CHANGE NAME OF THE HARRIS FORBES CORP.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 21.—The name of the Harris Forbes corporation has been changed to Public Utility associates, it was learned today. This is the first outward change that has been made since the conclusion at the end of July of arrangements by which the Chase Securities corporation is to acquire the entire capital stock of the Harris Forbes companies, holding company for the Harris Forbes group.

It is understood that a new Harris Forbes corporation is to be created soon, and it is assumed in financial circles that this will admit of a continued participation of the Harris Forbes organization in junior security underwriting, inasmuch as the identity of Harris, Forbes & Co. as a bond house will be retained despite the affiliation with the Chase National bank.

Profits of 30 Chain Store Systems Slip

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 21.—Average profits of thirty large chain store systems for the first six months of 1929 show a decrease of 15.8 per cent under the corresponding period last year, but hold a gain of 3.6 per cent over the same period of 1928, according to a compilation made by E. A. Pierce & Co.

Profits of the group totaled $21,730,818, against $25,820,307 in the first half of 1929, and $20,960,670 in the first half of 1928.

A survey of the earnings of thirty chains, including grocery, shoe, apparel, restaurant, drug and miscellaneous chains, disclosed a mixed trend. Eleven reported larger profits, twelve showed decreases, and one a profit against a loss last year. Four suffered losses, and two others did not report comparative figures.

Jewel Tea Gains.

Among chains reporting better earnings were First National stores, Melville, Jewel Tea, Grand Union, Grand Silver, Exchange Buffet, Waldorf System, Childs, and Western Auto Supply. Six reporting smaller earnings compared with last year were Penney, Dominion, Kresge, Safeway, Interstate Department, and Shattuck.

Sales for most chains increased, twenty of the thirty systems reporting increases. Aggregate sales of twenty-three companies for which figures for the last three years are available were $563,548,962 in the first six months of this year, a gain of $24,145,014, or 4.4 per cent, over 1929, and of $127,859,891, or 29.3 per cent, over 1928.

The Vanadium corporation reported first half net income amounting to $1,250,237, equal to $3.30 a share, compared with $1,177,688, or $3.12 a share, in the first half last year. A substantial portion of the earnings reported, however, was of a nonrecurring character accruing from transactions in the company's own stock, so that actual operating profit showed a reduction from the similar period a year ago.

Mining Profits Down.

The Phelps-Dodge corporation reported first half profit of $1,082,707 before depletion, equal to 54 cents a share, compared with $4,481,497, or $2.24 a share, in the first half last year. The Hecla Mining company reported June quarter profit of $225,106 before federal mining taxes, compared with $546,318 in the corresponding quarter last year.

The Hayes Body corporation for the June quarter reported a net loss of $279,073, against a net loss of $106,965 in the preceding quarter, and a net profit of $400,398 before federal taxes in the June quarter last year.

VALUE DROP OF SILVER MONEY SCARES MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The continued decrease in the value of silver money in exchange for gold coin has reached what the newspapers call an alarming stage. Yesterday the price of a hundred gold pesos was quoted at 106.20 silver, whereas the normal rate of exchange is a trifle more than 103 silver for 100 gold.

One newspaper suggests the Bank of Mexico buy 2,000,000 pesos silver, paying with gold, and thus temporarily retiring a considerable amount of silver in circulation.

Production of Plate Glass Suffers July Recession

New York, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Production of polished plate glass in July totaled 8,326,176 square feet, compared with 9,128,216 in June, and 13,057,098 in July last year, the Plate Glass Manufacturers of America reports.

CORN RETURNS TO PIT'S FAVOR; PRICE ADVANCES

Wheat Runs Afoul of Selling Snag.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Indications of a slight easing in the strong cash corn situation led to profit taking in futures and also local selling. However, the market forged ahead to a new high on the present movement, with the September leading the upturn, advancing 2c to a high of 99⅝c early, or within 3⅛c of the best figure on the crop.

A decline of ¼@1c in the basis in the sample market had some effect on sentiment, but all declines brought in buying orders and the finish was ⅝@⅞c higher, with September closing at 98¼@98¼c, March 94⅛@94¼c, and May 96c.

At the high point yesterday corn futures showed 47⅞@63¾c above the low on Tuesday, with September in the lead, and the latter at one time during the day was around 6½c over the December. Cash houses were fair buyers at times and found offerings rather light, but increasing opposition was met as the price neared the dollar mark. The country sold 100,000 bu to arrive and bids of around 8½c over December were made for old No. 2 yellow.

Crop Reports Mixed.

Owing to the sharp upturn that has taken place in the last few days some of the local professionals were inclined to take the bear side for a turn, but at no time were prices more than a fraction below the finish of Wednesday. Weakness in wheat was also a factor at times, and at the last December corn was only 1c under December wheat.

In commenting on the crop situation Chairman A. A. Legge of the farm board was quoted as saying it would make no difference how much it rained, since it would not bring about a recovery in the crop. The Iowa weekly summary showed that only 25 per cent of the state had received normal rainfall since Aug. 1 and drought had spread into counties that

June Freight Traffic Falls 15½ Per Cent

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 21.—Freight traffic in June this year on the class 1 railroads amounted to 34,419,086,000 net ton miles, a reduction of 15.5 per cent from the total in June last year, according to the bureau of railway economics.

In the eastern district the volume of freight traffic in June was a reduction of 16.3 per cent, compared with the same month in 1929, while the southern district reported a reduction of 16.8 per cent.

The volume handled by the class 1 railroads in the first six months of 1930 amounted to 212,251,206,000 net ton miles, a reduction of 26,257,820,000 net ton miles or 11 per cent. Under the corresponding period in 1929, and a reduction of 11,699,660,000 net ton miles, or 5.2 per cent under the same period in 1928.

Railroads in the eastern district for the six months period in 1930 reported a decrease of 10.8 per cent, compared with the same period in 1929, while the southern district reported a decrease of 11.4 per cent. The western district reported a decrease of 11.2 per cent.

The average speed of freight trains in June was 14 miles per hour, an increase of one-tenth of a mile above the best previous record of 13.9 miles, which was attained in May of this year.

SEEK CLAY RATE CUT.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21.—(AP)—A recommendation was received today by the interstate commerce commission proposing substantial reduction in rates on clay moving to a large number of pottery manufacturing centers, in Ohio, and a few points in Pennsylvania, Indiana, New York, and West Virginia.

The clay treated is largely produced in Kentucky and Tennessee.

PERMIT HOLDEN TO BE COTTON BELT DIRECTOR

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Hale Holden, chairman of the board of the Southern Pacific system, was permitted today by the interstate commerce commission to take a seat on the board of directors of the St. Louis South Western system.

The Southern Pacific lately announced its purchase of control of the St. Louis South Western subject to the sanction of the commission which it is now seeking.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 21.—That budding young bull movement in stocks which the Pollyana boys have been hailing as the harbinger of bigger and better things, marketwise, suddenly went lame today. Bear attacks on copper, railroad and safety razor issues inspired liquidation throughout the list and cut down prices generally from 1 to 3 points.

Group leaders offered pretty stout resistance to the selling as a rule, but the bears found the pickings easy in a scattering of miscellanous issues of varied types and a few breaks were quite sharp.

The experts said the market appeared to have become topheavy and set about revising once more their calculations on the future to agree with the new development. Their latest pronouncement is that the speculative fraternity has evidently decided anew to await something in the way of definite signs of business revival before entering the market in a big way. It all has a familiar ring but the expertling business has to function willy-nilly, it seems, whether school keeps or not.

The day's business was again a long cry short of the 2,000,000 share mark, being recorded at 1,712,810, as compared with 1,817,530 Wednesday.

Only a handful of stocks were able to make any sort of headway against the downward drift. These included Coca Cola, Marine, Loews, Cash Register, Radio, R. K. O., Worthington and Pneumatic Tool. From all ac-

WASHINGTON SEES UPWARD TREND IN NATION'S BUILDING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21.—An upward trend in building construction activities was indicated today in a compilation of building permit reports from 288 of the largest cities by the bureau of labor statistics of the department of labor.

There was an increase of 2.4 per cent in the estimated cost of all building operations in July as compared with June, the indicated expenditures being $164,067,963 in July and $160,147,589 in June. Residential buildings decreased 2.2 per cent while non-residential buildings increased 5.1 per cent.

In Chicago permits were issued during July for factory buildings to cost nearly $3,000,000 and for a public utility building to cost $700,000. In Milwaukee an amusement building was to be erected to cost more than $900,000 and in Dubuque, Ia., a new department store to cost $355,000.

Simplifying
THE Selection OF A
INVESTMENT

So many utilities... So many good investments... More and more the investor's problem becomes one of selection.

For the investor in the common stock of The Public Utility Holding Corporation of America, this problem of selection is automatically solved. Essentially a holding company, this Corporation specializes in the equity stocks of fast growing public utility systems. Its established policy is to invest in utility situations the world over, where opportunities for profit are greatest.

Sponsored by Harris, Forbes & Co. (recently affiliated with The Chase National Bank of the City of New York), and managed by internationally known utility men, its world-wide contacts are extremely valuable in developing and financing profitable situations.

The Public Utility Holding Corporation of America

Any one of the utilities represented in the Corporation's holdings would form a desirable investment for an individual. Yet here the investor has the added advantage of diversification.

We recommend this common stock as an excellent solution of the problem of choosing a utility investment with prospects of more than ordinary profit. Actively traded in on The New York Curb Exchange.

Send for recent fiscal report containing detailed information about this Corporation and its holdings.

CORN RETURNS TO PIT'S FAVOR; PRICE ADVANCES

Wheat Runs Into Selling Snag; Trading Dull.

have heretofore not been affected. There was some buying of futures on the latter report.

Fears that some of the Iowa corn would be caught by frost unless growth was more rapid was expressed by Crop Observer George M. Le Count in a report from Swea City. Careful examination shows that a large percentage of the ears in the northern part of the state are poorly filled. The Nebraska midmonth crop report made the condition 72.8, compared with the government Aug. 1 returns of 66 and the July midmonth figures of 84.6.

Dull Day in Wheat.

All minor upturns in wheat seem to run into selling orders, and while there was a strong rally at one time in sympathy with corn the market showed a heavy undertone and the close was at net losses of ⅛@⅞c. September being 88⅛@88⅝c, December 92¾@92¼c, and May $1.00⅛@1.00¼. Bulk of the trade was of a local character and the operations of the professional element were largely responsible for the erratic fluctuations. Winnipeg closed ⅛@⅝c lower, while Liverpool was ⅝d lower to ⅛d higher.

Reports of increased Russian offerings of grain, with clearances of 2,574,000 bu from Black sea ports, had some effect on the wheat market here and abroad, as did claims that the pool would advance 60c per bu to its members this season, but had been required to hedge 50 per cent of its holdings, according to its agreement with the banks. No official statement was made before the close.

Little Foreign Buying.

There was little evidence of an aggressive foreign demand for North American cash wheat, although sales of 700,000 bu were estimated in all positions. Broomhall said the average price of home grown wheat in Europe was around $1.75 per bu, or 85c over American, and higher prices for bread would result in complaints from labor. Returns to the Modern Miller covering the winter wheat belt indicated that the price rather than the advice of the farm board would be responsible for a reduction in acreage, if there was one. A majority of the returns suggested about the same acreage as last year.

Oats market showed a firm undertone throughout the day, with some of the local professionals active on the buying side, and there was also a fair amount of commission house buying. The finish was ⅝@1¼c higher, with September 40⅝c and December 43⅝@43¾c.

Local operators sold rye early, but when they tried to cover they found offerings small and the finish was ¼@1¼ higher, with September closing at 57¼c and December 63c. Spreaders bought rye and sold other grains.

Clear Bellies.

TRANSAMERICA SUPERHOLDING CO. IS PLANNED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 21.—Immediate steps will be taken by Transamerica corporation for the formation of eight subsidiary companies among which its assets will be divided, Elisha Walker, chairman of the board, announced here tonight. Walker arrived from New York today and conferred with local officials of the corporation. He will remain in California several weeks ironing out details of the proposed administrative changes and arranging the corporation structure of the subsidiaries.

After completion of its reorganization plans, Transamerica will emerge as a super-holding company with 100 per cent control of eight subsidiary holding companies, each one controlling the assets of the corporation in separate fields. According to plans, there will be formed companies to operate in the banking field, securities field, general investment of stock exchange securities, foreign holdings and investments, permanent commercial and industrial investments, stocks of joint stock land banks, stocks of insurance companies, and stocks of mortgage companies.

Segregation of the various assets of Transamerica, according to the new set-up, will be the first task of the new management. Into the bank holding company will go investments in Bank of Italy, National Bank Italy company, Bank of America N. A., Bancamerica-Blair corporation, Bank of America of California, Corporation of America and sundry other bank stocks. Into the foreign holding subsidiary will go investments in Banc D'America, E D'Italia and other foreign interests. The holding firm for permanent commercial and industrial investments will control assets represented by stock of consolidated companies and other concerns. In similar manner, Transamerica will place in other subsidiary companies its varied assets.

ASSERTS ELECTRIC ICE BOXES BOOST UTILITY CUSTOMERS

New York, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The electrical industry in the United States will reach a new peak in domestic customer increase this year owing to large gains in electric refrigerator sales, L. E. Moffatt, editor of Electrical Merchandising, said today in making public the results of a nationwide survey of public utility domestic customer volume. He said the new peak will come in the face of a decline of 10 per cent under the number of new homes wired for electricity last year.

Output o felectricity by the electric light and power industry for the week ended Aug. 16 aggregated 1,671,393,000 kilowatt hours, 2.8 per cent below the like week of 1929, but 9 per cent above the output for the corresponding week of 1928.

Cent. Public Service Orders Pipe Worth $2,500,000

A $2,500,000 pipe order has been placed with the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company by the Central Public Service corporation. The order, which calls for 35,000 tons of 18 inch welded pipe, will fill requirements for 260 miles of pipe line to extend from the Kentucky pool to central Indiana. The development marks the entrance of the company in the field of producing and piping natural gas. In the past, the corporation's subsidiaries have participated only in distribution.

CASH-GRAIN NEWS

A little improvement was shown in the foreign demand for North American wheat with sales estimated at 700,000 bu in all positions. No. 1 hard winter at the Gulf for first half September loading was quoted at 7c over Chicago September.

No. 1 red winter wheat at Chicago sold at 2c over the September, the best basis on the crop, and showed an advance of around 2c as compared with a week ago. The basis on hard winter and spring was ¼c higher for the day with No. 1 hard and No. 1 northern ⅛@¾c over the future. No. 2 hard was ¼@½c over and No. 2 northern, September prices to ¾c over. At Kansas City the basis was steady to 1c higher, and at Omaha firm. No. 1 hard in the latter market brought 5c under Chicago September.

Demand for cash corn was less urgent and buyers refused to follow the advance in futures with the basis ¼ @1c lower. Premiums as compared with September follow: No. 1 mixed, 2¼@2½c over; yellow, 2⅜@3c; white, 5@6c; No. 2 mixed, 2@2½c; yellow, 2¼@3c; white, 5@6c; No. 3 mixed, 1½@1¾c; yellow, 2¼@2½c; white, 4½@5c. Purchases to arrive were 77,000 bu with No. 2 sold at $1@1.01⅛ or 3c over September. Bids later were reduced to 2c over. Shipping sales were only 15,000 bu. Charters were made for 200,000 bu to Buffalo.

Country offerings of oats to arrive remain small, and some of the local cash handlers expect that it will take higher prices to bring out the grain. The spot basis was steady with No. 2 white September price to ¼c over and No. 3 white, ½@¾c under the future. Shipping sales aggregated 52,000 bu. Rye sales were 10,000 bu and barley 5,000 bu. No. 2 red sold at 71½c over September.

Receipts at Chicago today, 2,000; cattle, 19,000 hogs, and 10,000 sheep.

All classes of live stock swung up to new high price levels on short receipts yesterday. Cattle and lambs took the lead early in the day, closing at the high point of the session, while hogs suffered a slight setback after establishing a new mark for the past 12 months.

Fancy yearling steers reached $11.75, equaling the highest since July 7. Hogs soared to $11.90, highest since Aug. 26 of last year. Native lambs to shippers sold at $10.75, highest since July 17.

Better grades of hogs sold readily at the 10@20c advance during the first few rounds, while medium and weighty stock weakened off and finished barely steady with the general selling the previous day. The extreme top showed 15c gain at $11.90, while the general average moved up 5c at 10@40. Small packers and shippers bought freely on the strength of the recent sharp rise in the wholesale market for fresh pork. Most of the 5,000 left at the close consisted of medium grades and extreme weights. Packing sows showed little change in prices.

Hog Futures Slow.

Trading in hog futures slowed down considerably yesterday and only one sale of December light was made. The price at $8.90 compared with $9.00 the previous day. Mediums and heavy grades for the same month were bid 15@75, but $9.00 was the lowest offer. Buyers were bidding $7.00 for 3,000 black face mountain feeding lambs for September delivery and placed bids of $6.75 for 900 white face lambs for the same month.

Another shortage in cattle receipts forced the market up fully 25c more yesterday. Weighty beeves are selling as much as $2.00 above the recent low spot. The active demand is a marked contrast to last week's narrow outlet for anything exceeding 1,000 lbs., in weight. Price weighty beeves were absent yesterday, but were quoted upwards to $11.40 on the strength of the recent sale at $11.25.

Fancy yearlings soared to $11.75. Bulk of steers sold at $9.25@10.90. Cows and heifers shared in some of the advance. Calves recovered Wednesday's loss. Stockers and feeders met good demand at additional gains of 25c.

Lambs in Demand.

Sheep and lambs sold freely at 50@60c higher prices, most closing sales showing the full advance. Aged ewes were quick sellers at $4.25@4.50 near the close, while $8.25@8.75 took several loads of yearlings and lambs mixed.

Western range lambs were scarce and sold at $10.50, while selected natives to packers, shippers, and city butchers reached $10.50@10.75. Country demand for feeders continued urgent at the highest prices in recent weeks. Several loads sold at $7.50@7.65, but fancy light were quoted at $8.00.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 2,000 cattle, 19,000 hogs, and 10,000 sheep, against 2,010 cattle, 31,201 hogs, and 2,942 sheep, the previous Friday, and 1,129 cattle, 9,532 hogs, and 3,971 sheep, a year ago.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quiet today and prices were a little lower, with offerings more liberal. Cubans were bid at 3.16c, while duty frees sold at a point to 3.15c. The only sale reported was 28,000 bags of Porto Rican for immediate shipment to a refiner at 3.15c, delivered.

Prices changed in raw futures were narrow. Prices reacted a little in the late trade and closed at net unchanged to 1 point decline. Sales were 23,600 tons, including about half in exchanges. Prices follow:

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Print cloths were sold in excess of production for the week at the lowest prices of the year, considerable business having been accepted for delivery in the last quarter of the year. Other cotton goods were selling moderately. Pile fabrics for overcoatings have been selling more freely. Moderate trading is going on in suitings and coatings. Raw silk was slightly higher. Silk merchandise showed better demand this week for cutting purposes. Burlap cables from Calcutta were at a slightly higher basis, but trade here is dull.

BUTTER AND EGGS

Butter futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange, regaining some of the ground lost earlier in the week. Prices worked higher on good buying and favorable statistical information. November butter opened steady, but ended the day at 41c, up ¾c from Wednesday's close. Egg futures shared in the advance, November closing at 28¾c, up ¾c, as a result of favorable statistics and a fair amount of buying.

A few long lines sold out on the recent decline in butter were reinstated while short covering and an amount of new speculative buying aided the upward movement. Centralized report on the make noted a decrease of 20 per cent from a year ago and 5 per cent from a week ago. The increased out of storage movement in eggs brought in some new speculative buying which offset scattered selling at the fractional advance. Sales, butter, 235 cars; eggs, 78 cars. Receipts, butter 5,075 tubs; eggs, 4,852 cases. Prices follow:

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Boon to Aviation Stocks?

Wall street is anticipating a broadening of interest in the aviation shares in consequence of the Chicago Airplane exposition. Whether or not the aviation show will exert the same influence on speculative sentiment with regard to airplane stocks as the motor shows have done for automobile shares in the past is something that remains to be seen. But another development which will tend to arouse public attention to the aviation shares is the opening by the government next Monday of bids for contracts. With these two points in mind a strong aggregation credited with having piloted Vanadium Steel over a long period, is understood to have switched its favor, temporarily at least, into United Aircraft.

Forced Selling Reports.

Reports of forced selling of securities by some Canadian interests of late is reflected by current weakness in Brazilian Traction, Light and Power. The stock is selling around 32, only fractionally above the low point of the year. The company is controlled by Canadian interests who are reported to have been affected recently by the decision of some of the Dominion banks to "clean house" and dispose of some outstanding loans.

Impetus to Empire Steel.

Impetus has been given to Empire Steel of late through announcement that the company has concluded arrangements with the C. L. Stevens company of Boston, an engineering and management group, to supervise the affairs of the company during a period until March, 1932, and possibly longer. The Stevens organization will function in coöperation with C. H. Henkel, the new president of Empire, and the other executives recently named. The industrial depression is understood to have been taken advantage of by Empire's management to effect an internal reorganization of the company with a minimum of interruption in the conduct of business.

LEGAL NOTICES.

OFFICIAL PUBLICATION.

Pursuant to law in such case made and provided, public notice is hereby given that the following Joint Resolution of the First Special Session of the Fifty-sixth General Assembly, proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Illinois, which proposed amendment will be submitted to the People for adoption or rejection at the General Election to be held on November 4, 1930:

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 1.

Resolved by the Senate of the State of Illinois, the House concurring herein, That there shall be submitted to the electors of this State at the election or rejection at the next election of members of the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, in the manner provided by law, a proposition to amend Article IX of the Constitution, by amending sections 1, 2, 9, and 10 to read as follows:

Section 1. The General Assembly shall have power to enact laws to provide revenue for real estate for the purpose of imposition of taxes shall be in one class, except that mineral lands and land devoted to reforestation may be in different classes.

Section 2. If a tax is imposed upon incomes the State shall not receive more than fifteen per centum of the proceeds thereof after deducting the cost of collection except by the affirmative votes of two-thirds of the members elected to each house of the General Assembly. And unless otherwise provided by a similar two-thirds vote, the remainder shall be distributed among the several counties in the ratio which the total collected from taxpayers of each county bears to the total collected from taxpayers of the whole State, and the amount allocated to each county may be further divided among the county and other municipal corporations within or partly within such county as the General Assembly may from time to time by general law direct. Other taxes collected by the State may be distributed in whole or in part among the counties and other municipal corporations in such manner as the General Assembly shall direct by general law.

Section 9. The General Assembly may vest the corporate authorities of cities, towns, villages, sanitary districts, park districts, and other municipalities, with power to make local improvements by special assessment, or by special taxation of contiguous property, or otherwise. For all other corporate purposes, all municipal corporations may be vested with authority to assess and collect taxes.

Section 10. Except as permitted in section 2 the General Assembly shall not impose taxes upon municipal corporations or the inhabitants or property thereof, for corporate purposes, but shall require that taxes be levied by municipal corporations for the payment of debts contracted under authority of law. Private property shall not be liable to be taken or sold for the payment of the corporate debts of a municipal corporation.

Adopted by the Senate, May 21st, 1930, by two-thirds vote of the membership of the Senate.

JAMES H. PADDOCK,
Secretary of the Senate.
FRED E. STERLING,
President of the Senate.

Amended by the House of Representatives, June 19th, 1930, and adopted as amended, by two-thirds vote of the membership of the House of Representatives.

GEORGE C. BLAEUER,
Clerk of the House of Representatives.
DAVID E. SHANAHAN,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Amendments of the House of Representatives concurred in by the Senate, June 19th, 1930, by two-thirds vote of the membership thereof.

JAMES H. PADDOCK,
Secretary of the Senate.
FRED E. STERLING,
President of the Senate.

The form in which the proposed amendment to the Constitution of Illinois is to appear upon the official ballot at the General Election on November 4, 1930, is as follows:

TAX RELIEF AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF ILLINOIS.

PURPOSE OF THE AMENDMENT.

This amendment, if adopted, will give the General Assembly the opportunity to redistribute the tax load, to reduce taxes on homes, real estate, and farm land, to classify personal property and place a tax on intangibles which will not be unjust, as at the present time, but reasonable and fair to all.

Yea	For the proposed amendment to Section 1, 2, 9, and 10 of Article IX, of the Constitution.

STUDEBAKER OFFERS VALUES DE LUXE

1. Rock bottom prices that will net buyers savings of $150 to $300 on any car purchased.

2. An unusually liberal time payment plan.

3. The protection of the famous Studebaker Used Car Pledge that guarantees 5 days' free driving trial on ANY car purchased.

PACKARD TOURING. This str. 8 is in wonderful all-around condition. Has a wealth of extra equipment. $245.

DODGE SEDAN. This car must be seen to be appreciated. The motor runs smooth- ly and quietly and the upholstery, tires and finish are okay. $175.

DIANA 8 SEDAN. Here is a distinguished looking car that still has years of satis- factory performance in it. Painted an at- tractive two-tone green. Many extras. $395.

STUDEBAKER VICTORIA. Spec. 6. From the standpoint of performance and appear- ance this car will satisfy you in every re- spect. The tires, finish and upholstery are in splendid condition. $95.

HUDSON BROUGHAM. This is the last word for sparkling performance and attrac- tive appearance. Has every essential extra. $165.

NASH COUPE. Sid 6 that is finished in maroon. The owner of this car only used it to drive up to the golf course and back. Consequently it's in splendid condition today. 4 whl. brakes and many extras. $185.

JEWETT COACH. We can truthfully say this car actually looks and runs as though it were brand new. Finished a smart look- ing tan and equipment includes 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. $185.

PIERCE-ARROW TOURING. Here is prob- ably the best open car buy in Chicago. The motor runs very smoothly and every detail of the exterior and interior is in splendid shape. Many extras. $195.

JORDAN SEDAN. It's a line 8 with 4 whl. brakes, driving light, snubbers, bumper, spare tire, etc. The motor runs effi- ciently. Nice appearance. $195.

PACKARD SEDAN. Here is an expensive car at an inexpensive price. Was chauffeur driven so it's in topnotch condition throu- ghout and a wealth of extra equipment. $195.

OAKLAND COACH. A school teacher owned this car and she gave it very good attention. We checked over the motor, equipped it with new tires and priced it un- usually low for quick sale. 4 whl. brakes and many extras. $250.

CADILLAC SEDAN. 7 pass. that was owned in by an elderly couple who gave it unusual care. Equipped with 4 wheel brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. will give you new car satisfaction today. $250.

FORD ROADSTER. Late model "A" Lac- quered a handsome color. Has road light stock absorbers, windshield wings, side mirror, bumpers, etc. Only driven a few thousand miles, so it's like new today. Just reduced to $335.

STUDEBAKER DICTATOR. Late 5 pass. sedan that will stand the most exacting inspection you could make. The finish looks as though it were freshly duco'ed, and the upholstery is expensive mohair. Mo- tor is A1. 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bump- ers, spare tire, etc. $350.

ERSKINE CLUB SEDAN, 1929, that's a quality car throughout. It would take an expert to tell this car has ever been driven before. 4 whl. brakes, shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. $395.

CHRYSLER CABRIOLET. Late conv. model with a spacious rumble seat and a wealth of extras. Has an attractive paint job and the upholstery appears unworn. New tires. $545.

VIKING SEDAN. Late model 8. Finished a beautiful color. Has every essential extra. This car is an absolute knockout in appear- ance and the motor is unusually smooth. $695.

WUPMOBILE 8 SEDAN, 1929 7 pass. Ray Pullman car comfort and exceptional performance. The upholstery appears un- worn, and there are a dozen valuable extras. $695.

G. O. P. PLEDGE TO OBEY VOTER ON PROHIBITIO

Mrs. McCormick Accept Mandate.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 22.—[Speci —Illinois Republicanism went wet day to the extent of agreeing to bound by the results of the triple erendum on prohibition on Nov. 4, day on which the state will elec new representative in the Un States senate.

A few minutes later Mrs. R Hanna McCormick, senatorial no nee, echoed the declaration of platform adopted by the state vention and went a step farther pledging herself to accept as a m date the vote of the state on referendum of the repeal of eighteenth amendment.

"If a majority in Illinois are corded as favorable to the repeal the eighteenth amendment," Mrs. Cormick said, "I stand ready, w elected senator, to obey the mand and I shall vote to submit the q tion of its repeal to the several sta

Views on Modification.

"If the expressed will of the pe is for modification of the Volst act, my course as a member of senate would be in sympathy with principles so approved, but the ults course to be pursued would dependent, of course, upon the na of the modification demanded.

"It is impossible for any candi honestly to agree in advance blanket endorsement of modifica proposals.

"I also wish to make it clear until the constitutional ame is repealed or until the Volste is repealed or amended, I squarely for enforcement of measures."

This action by the Republican p of the state and its standard be this fall was referred to by come respondents as "provisionally but it was unprecedented in t tical history of the state. Fr standpoint, the party was con as running neck and neck with Democrats, who adopted a drip wet platform here two days ago.

Party Leaders Are Elated.

There was tremendous elati this outcome of the deadlock t approximately twenty-four ho kept the big guns of the p loggerheads, and did not e shortly before dawn today.

The convention itself, held in arsenal, as the antique building ing the state house is known though it stores no arms or tions, was on tiptoe as to th of the all night conference; b it had been in session an h outcome of the tug of war h come known.
